A well known California dairyman says that the first requisite in keeping cream sweet and in good condition is absolute cleanliness. Everything with which the cream comes in contact must be scrupulously clean.
After separating the cream it should be cooled as quickly as possible. It should be frequently stirred while cooling in order that the animal heat may pass off more readily. Never add warm cream to cool. After it is cooled the two may be put together. Always keep it as cool as possible. When delivering, the cans should be well covered in order to protect them from sun and dirt. If this plan is followed, the cream will be in such a condition that it can be manufactured into a high grade of gilt edged butter.
A Fine Guernsey.
France VIII, the fine imported Guernsey shown in the illustration from County Gentlemen, was dropped

Sept. 20, 1908, and is a daughter of Masher II. and France IV. She is a perfect type of an unusually large Guernsey cow, weighing over 1,200 pounds, has unlimited capacity and is capable of large production.
Sudden Cooling of Milk.
No principle involved in dairying will bear repetition better than that concerning the importance of cooling milk quickly after it is drawn. In the ordinary summer atmosphere unless special pains are taken to reduce the temperature local conditions are furnished for the development of germ life. It matters not how cleanly one may be at milking time, it is absolutely impossible to do the work without the introduction of a certain class of undesirable germs and the high temperature makes conditions ideal for the development of these forms of life.
When there is a plentiful supply of ice the problem is solved, but my opinion is that less than half the farmers put in an ice supply, says a writer in Homestead. The next best thing, therefore, is to make the right use of water. With the ordinary slop can of about eight inch diameter one should have no difficulty in quickly lowering the temperature to 55 or 60 degrees. This can be done by pouring water over the milk. It being generally advisable if it is at all possible to change the water after the first hour. It is true that it involves a little labor, but as the principal errors in the making of good butter are made right there one can well afford to take a little pains to insure this rapid cooling.
When milk is suddenly cooled the growth of all forms of germ life is checked, so that later on, when the development of the lacte germ is desired, this development is not interfered with by undesirable germs.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON A SAFE HOME TREATMENT

In S. S. S. nature has provided a certain, safe, home cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It is a medicine made entirely of roots and herbs of recognized blood-purifying value, and is the one medicine which is able to get down to the root of the trouble and remove every particle of the virus, and at the same time benefit and build up the system and general health. No harmful effects ever follow its use, as is so often the case when strong mineral medicines are used. As soon as the system gets under the influence of S. S. S. the disease begins to improve, and when the remedy has thoroughly purified the blood and driven out every trace of the poison, no signs of the trouble are ever seen again. The general manifestations of Contagious Blood Poison such as falling hair, copper-colored spots, ulcerated mouth and throat, sores and ulcers, etc., are merely symptoms of the poisoned condition of the blood, and in most cases respond quickly to local treatment, while S. S. S. is doing the necessary work of cleansing the blood. Our "Home Treatment" book is of great assistance along this line. It is a complete guide for treating the trouble, containing instructions for the different stages of the disease, and also valuable suggestions about the local treatment, that will be most helpful in effecting a cure. We will be glad to send a copy of this book, free of charge, to any who desire it, and if special medical advice is wanted our physicians will take pleasure in supplying it without cost to the patient. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison you can cure yourself in the privacy of your own home by the use of S. S. S., an absolutely safe remedy.
