"Get the Habit!" The Crescent Theatre.

Miss Cloake arrived home here from Eugene Monday, accompanied by her friend, Miss Barringer.

Remember, but two shows each evening at the Vitagraph. Shows at 7:40 and 8:30. Don't be late. 21 Elvin Crutchfield, a son of a former pastor of the South Methodist church of Roseburg, has resigned his position in an Albany bank, to accept another place with a department store at North Yakima, Wash.

The Vitagraph is offering an exceptionally fine program this week, a feature of which is a moving picture of "The Prodigal Son," adapted from the well known Biblical narrative. Misses Black and Benedick also sing a duet that brings forth an encore. The theatre continues to grow in popularity and both shows Monday night were greeted with overflow audiences.

Portland Telegram: Ash Houston signed a contract with the Oakland team and went south with it last night. He is a native of this city and has been a star among the young players for a number of years. He was captain and third baseman of the Portland Academy team three years ago. He played on the Multnomah Club team, on the Frakes in the Tri-City League, with Pendleton and La Grande in the Empire League and now makes his debut in organized ball. He will be the utility man for the Athletics.

The forebay for the big water wheels at the Winchester power plant gave way early this afternoon putting the wheels entirely out of commission until repairs can be made. About three hours later the big engine was started and the city lights will be on tonight as usual.

The case of A. L. David against the Southern Pacific Co. is called for trial in Justice Long's court Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Plaintiff is suing for $35 damages for alleged ruin of a cooking range consigned to the company for shipment from Cottage Grove to Alea last October.

The cases against Denning and Kent, R. B. Mathews, E. Jennings and E. Rhoades, local business men, charged with violating the Sunday closing law, was called in Justice Long's court this morning. Appearing in behalf of Jennings and Rhoades, Attorney O. P. Coshov filed a demurrer, and Attorneys Cardwell and Watson, representing the other defendants, will do likewise this afternoon. In his argument before the court, Mr. Coshov contended that the Sunday closing statute is unconstitutional in that it is class legislation, discriminating against persons engaged in the same line of business. Mr. Coshov also attacked the wording of the charge. The demurrer to be filed by Cardwell & Watson will be practically along the same lines. Justice Long took all four cases under advisement until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.
