Hon. W. H. Wehrung, of Hillsboro, and M. D. Wisdom, of Portland, formerly president and secretary of the Oregon State Fair association, were here this afternoon in the interest of the Oregon exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle next year. They will meet with the Roseburg Commercial Club this evening at five o'clock to discuss the matter, and advance, if possible, some local interest in the matter.

Three men and a girl were arretsed in a box car loaded with lumber in the railroad yards here this morning by Marshal Norman and are held for examination on a criminal charge. Two of the men and the girl claim to have come from Portland and the other man, also a transient, joined them here. The girl claims to be 18 years of age but appears to be younger. She gives her name as Mary Bell and says she has an aunt living in this vicinity but refused to give her name. She claims to have been working in a laundry in Portland and says her parents live in East Portland. Marshal Norman said he did not learn the names of the three men under arrest, but they will be given upon araignment before Recorder Orcutt this evening, after receiving further advices from Portland regarding the girl and her consorts.

Graves left on the early train this morning for Ager, Calif., taking the stage thence to Klamath Hot Springs, where Mr. Rice now is.

In Justice Long's court this morning, the demurrers in the Sunday closing cases were overruled and the cases will be called for hearing before a jury on Thursday morning. Four places of business are directly involved in these cases, and the action of many others will doubtless depend upon their outcome, so more than usual interest is evinced in the results in the cases now pending.

THE BIRD CLOWN.

A Queer Kind of Fellow Is the Yellow Breasted Chat.

The oddities of the yellow breasted chat begin even with his classification. To think of a warbler the size of a Baltimore oriole, a warbler with a song like a mocking bird! Indeed there is little about the chat that is not remarkable. He goes in for the weird and the spectacular. If Nature designed him to show what she could do in the way of the unusual and the eccentric, she had remarkable success.

This bird and not the catbird is the real "clown of the woods." Clown of the thicket would be more apt, for, like the catbird, he prefers the shrub and lower trees. A wild tangle of briers and vines is a favorite haunt. It is only the better to survey such a retreat that he mounts to the top of a tree. From his lofty perch he sings, to the amazement and bewilderment of the person that hears the song for the first time. More likely than not he will become invisible and silent upon the first attempt to approach him, remaining quiet and hidden till you move on again; then he chuckles loudly and scolds and spits and scoffs till you are out of sight and hearing.

No bird is so fearful of being seen or such a master of hide and seek. It is worse than useless to try to steal a march on him. He manages to be always on the wrong side of the next bush. If you should find his nest, which is a pretty little basket of straws and weed stalks lined with fine grasses and strips of soft bark or leaves placed a foot or more above the ground among tall weeds or bushes, the sitting bird steals away and is at once lost to sight. Take a peep at the white, red speckled eggs and then hide among the bushes as far away from the nest as you can while still keeping it in sight. You may have to wait for an hour and even make other trips to the spot, but this is the surest way to get a good look at this shy one.—St. Nicholas.

Triumph of Mind.

Victim of Delusion—Doctor, I'm awfully afraid I'm going to have brain fever. Doctor—Pooh, pooh, my dear friend! That is all an illusion of the senses. There is no such thing as fever. You have no fever; you have no br—h'm—no material substance upon which such a wholly imaginary and supposititious thing as a fever could find any base of operation. Victim—Oh, doctor, what a load you have taken from my—from my—I have a mind, haven't I, doctor?—Chicago Tribune.

Pulling That Hair.

"What makes me really mad," said the woman, "is to spend minutes, maybe hours, trying to get hold of a white hair which shows up on my head like a dazzling light, yet which is tantalizingly elusive when I try to catch it, and then when I do finally separate it from the brown hair and give it a vigorous pull to find that I have snatched out a good brown hair, after all, and left the white one still shining."—New York Press.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

No old sore can heal until the cause which produces it has been removed. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may reduce the inflammation and assist in keeping the place clean, but cannot cure the trouble because they do not reach its source. Old sores exist because the blood is infected with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the place. The nerves, tissues and fibres of the flesh are kept in a state of irritation and disease by being daily fed with the germ-laden matter through the circulation, making it impossible for the sore to heal. S. S. S. cures chronic sores by its purifying action on the blood. It goes down into the circulation, and removes the poison-producing germs, impurities and morbid matters which are responsible for the failure of the place to heal. S. S. S. makes the blood pure, fresh and healthy; then as new, rich blood is carried to the spot the healing process begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, new tissue begins to form, the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, the safest and best blood purifier for young or old. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Kitchen Helps.

If a teaspoonful of vinegar is added to the water in which fish is to be washed, a most delicious flavor will be imparted to it.

To make cake lighter always beat the eggs, butter and sugar together and then add the flour, fruit, etc.

To take spots out of blue serge and generally brighten it up bathe with a sponge dipped in blue water. Afterward hang up the dress to dry.

If food becomes slightly burned while cooking set the pan at once in a basin of cold water and its flavor will be uninjured.

The best way to prevent lamps smoking is to dip the wick in strong vinegar, then thoroughly dry it before using.

Washing Lace Curtains.

Shake and brush lace curtains to remove the dust and soak them in soapy water overnight. Work the curtains gently up and down in the water and squeeze them between the hands to get the dirt out. Put them into a clean warm suds and keep changing the water until the curtains are clean. Never wring curtains by hand, for it strains and tears them. Lay them on a strip of cloth and put carefully through the wringer. Rinse well in several waters and put through hot, moderately thick starch. If the curtains are white, the starch should be blued; if cream color, strong coffee should be added to it.

Mild Skin Bleach.

Two ounces of pure honey, half an ounce each of glycerin and rectified spirits, one and a half drams of pure citric acid and thirty-three drops of rose essence. Put the glycerin and honey into a basin and set in hot water, stirring until both are mingled. Into the spirits put the acid to dissolve and then add the rose essence. Let the basin stand until its contents are cold, then combine the two mixtures. This should be rubbed well into the skin morning and night. It is not a powerful bleach, but constant use will whiten and soften the skin.

Time Saving Strainer.

Among recent inventions in kitchen utensils is the colander herewith shown, the invention of a Minnesota man. The common method of straining the contents of the colander by forcing it through the perforations by the aid of a spoon is done away with. Instead within the colander is a tapered spiral feed blade, the lower portion of which closely fits and is arranged to scrape over the perforated bottom of the bowl. The feed blade is operated by a handle, which extends above the edge of the bowl. This novel attachment affords an easy and convenient method for quickly straining the contents of the colander.

Sewing on Waist Buttons.

When making lingerie waists or any waists of thin and sheer materials stitch a band of tape or an extra fold of the goods down the middle of the hem where the buttons are to be sewed. The buttons should be sewed to this. It gives extra body to the hem and makes a firmer foundation for the buttons to be sewed to, and this will prevent them from tearing off and pulling a piece out of the waist with them.

To Test Butter.

This test for butter is so simple that any housewife can put it into practice: A clean piece of white paper is smeared with a little of the suspected butter. The paper is then rolled up and set on fire. If the butter is pure, the smell of the burned paper is rather pleasant, but the odor is distinctly tallowy if the "butter" is made up wholly or in part of animal fat.

Flute Lace Edges.

There is an easy way of fluting the lace edges of the neck and sleeves of lace trimmed blouses which makes them look fascinating. Take an ordinary curling iron, such as is used for curling the hair, and heat it with the regular irons. After the waist is ironed take the curling iron and pinch the lace edging. This will flute it evenly and attractively.

Rhubarb Wine.

Put six pounds of rhubarb through a vegetable cutter, or small wine press. Add four quarts of boiling water and let stand nine days, stirring three times each day. Strain through cheesecloth and add four pounds of sugar. When it is done fermenting bottle airtight, with two raisins in each bottle.

Flowers For the Table.

Never use very strongly scented flowers for the table. Such flowers as gardenias, stephanotis and hyacinths should be avoided. Their strong perfume in a hot room makes some people feel quite faint, while it takes all appetite away from others.
