EMBEZZLER CAUGHT. Another Trusted Employee is Short $48,000—Under Arrest.

Special to the Evening Review. SEATTLE, July 30.—H. F. Parkhurst, a trusted employe of the First National Bank of Seattle, for the past 12 years, and first assistant cashier of that institution, was arrested today on a charge of embezzlement amounting to $48,330. Parkhurst was arrested on a charge of falsifying accounts. He gave no special reason for taking the money, merely saying he had "lived it up." This is not fully credited, however, as he had lived quietly and was not a society man. He is 45 years old and has been married for 24 years. Discovery of the shortage was made two weeks ago. Parkhurst had charge of checking the balances with eastern banks and is accused of "doctoring" them. His bonds of $20,000 in the bank's favor partly secures the institution from loss.

Roasting in Chicago. CHICAGO, July 30.—A recurrence of the hot wave here today, resulted in two deaths and 20 prostrations this morning. Wholesale deaths among the babies in the tenement districts the babies in the tenement districts.

STATES GET BENEFIT. State Revenue From the National Forests Increased.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—In addition to the benefits secured by fire protection and by regulations which control the use of timberland and range so as to insure permanent supplies for local wants, the states have under the new Agricultural Appropriation Bill, 25 per cent of the gross proceeds derived from the sale of national forest resources. This amount according to law, goes to offset any losses to the states through withdrawal of forest areas from taxation, and is devoted to public roads and schools.

Several years ago complaints were made that the withdrawal of timber lands for forest purposes reduced the taxable areas of the states in which withdrawals were made. The forest service, quick to see the justice of these complaints, recommended a first that 10 per cent, and later that 25 per cent of the gross proceeds from the national forests should be paid to the states. As a result, the states are assured of school and road funds, doubtless more certainly than they otherwise could have been, since the permanence of the forest resources is now secured by conservative management. Had the forest never been established, their resources would undoubtedly have been exhausted by hasty and imprudent methods of exploitation, leaving the land wasted and unproductive.

WELL-WISHERS IN OREGON

(Portland Telegram.) Many people in Oregon are profoundly interested in the fight now being waged in Washington by Stephen J. Chadwick, of Colfax, for the supreme judgeship of that state. Judge Chadwick's father was secretary of state of Oregon, and after wards succeeded to the governorship when the then governor was elected to the United States senate. His early days were spent in Salem and he married a Portland girl. There are many reasons, therefore, why the people of this state are interested in his career, and wish him the greatest success in his ambitions. These reasons are not altogether personal, strong though they be in that respect as well. Judge Chadwick has been elected and re-elected in his home district to the circuit bench, notwithstanding a great partisan opposition to him. He has succeeded because he deserves success and merit. It is by the superior quality of the service which he rendered on the bench.

COURT'S RULING NOT HEARD

If Overruled, the Defense Will Submit Case to Jury Without Testimony

Special to the Evening Review. PORTLAND, July 30.—Arguments on motions for a non-suit in the Booth-Singleton case were opened this morning by Judge Webster for the defense. Four motions were filed. The first was a joint motion to dismiss the three defendants, R. A. Booth, J. H. Booth and T. E. Singleton, on the grounds that the government had failed to submit evidence sufficient to show them guilty of the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government. Separate motions in favor of R. A. Booth, J. H. Booth and T. E. Singleton, singly, were also filed on the grounds that no evidence had been brought before the court showing that the separate defendant named in the motion was in any way connected with the conspiracy alleged in the indictment. Judge Becker, for the prosecution is arguing this afternoon in answer to the motions. The court's ruling on the motions may not be handed down before tomorrow morning.

Thursday's Oregonian: After reading instructions from the commissioner of the general land office in 1899 and 1900 to the officials of the local land offices respecting forest reserve land selections, Tracy C. Becker announced yesterday afternoon that the government rested its case in the Booth-Singleton conspiracy trial. Judge Wolverton explained to counsel, however, that the case would remain open until this morning, pending a ruling by the court as to the effect of testimony given by W. B. Griffith, Deputy United States marshal, in relation to a loan of $20 procured through him while living at Wilbur in 1909, by Ed. Singleton, for J. T. Agee.

Vigorous objection was made by counsel for the defense to the admission of Griffith's testimony, for the alleged reasons that it was incompetent and immaterial and for the further reason that the defendants, James Henry Booth and Robert A. Booth, could not be bound by any act committed solely by Singleton. A motion that this testimony be stricken from the records was at first overruled by Judge Wolverton, who later raised a question as to the correctness of the ruling. He requested counsel to present argument on the point this morning, when he will decide the effect of the testimony as to the different defendants.

Declines to Call Witnesses. Mr. Malarkey then requested the court to require the prosecution to produce as witnesses in the case, S. C. Bartrum and A. M. Crawford, who appeared as witnesses before the grand jury by which the indictment was reported, and also several other witnesses that had been subpoenaed for the trial. Judge Wolverton overruled the motion, holding that the government was privileged to call only such witnesses as it elected, regardless of the number testifying before the grand jury or subpoenaed for the trial of the case.

When the discussion of these different legal questions had closed and Mr. Becker had announced that the government rested, Mr. Malarkey asked permission for a five-minute recess, that counsel for the defense might have a conference. Before the requested time had expired, counsel and their clients re-entered the courtroom and Mr. Malarkey, as spokesman, announced as follows: "From the character of the testimony offered by the government, as viewed by the defense, the great length of time that has been occupied in the trial of this case, the fact that one of the jurors is ill and because of sickness in the family of James Henry Booth, one of the defendants, the defense has decided not to introduce any testimony and will rest its case on the evidence offered by the prosecution."

Letters Cannot be Found. Among the other witnesses called by the prosecution during the afternoon were H. A. Dunbar, bookkeeper for the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company, and P. C. Benn, of Eugene, the notary public before whose age and wife certificates to their deed conveying the land to the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company, T. B. Neuhausen was recalled and testified that he had made diligent efforts to procure copies of certain official correspondence between A. M. Crawford and the Commissioner of the general land office at Washington, and had been advised that the documents demanded by the defense were not to be found in the general land office records.

Mrs. I. Thomas Agee caused some surprise yesterday when called as a witness for the government. While admitting that she attended to all of her husband's correspondence, she identified several of the letters purporting to have been written by Agee to J. H. Shupe, his attorney, during 1902 and 1903, she denied positively having written two material letters, one of which was to Shupe and the other to Binger Hermann, commissioner of the general land office.

In these letters was discussed the subject of the proposed exchange by Agee of his land in the forest reserve for the lieu land in Lane county, which was subsequently sold to the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company. On cross-examination, she insisted that she had conducted much of this correspondence without the knowledge of her husband. Mrs. Agee also disproved the standing accusation that woman is curious. She said she had been in Portland from Sunday morning until late Tuesday afternoon, in the continuous company of her husband, and had not discussed the case on trial with him or anybody else.

Identifies Father's Letters. Miss Minnie Shupe, daughter of the late J. H. Shupe, identified certain letters that passed between her father and Agee, but swore positively that the deed from Agee and his wife to the Booth-Kelly Lumber company, transferring Agee's lieu land was not prepared in her father's office. On cross-examination, she testified that her father's books showed that Agee had paid Shupe $15 for legal services in connection with the transactions relating to the exchange of land by Agee.

Miss Edna Schloeman, aged 12 years, daughter of August Schloeman, merchant at Oak Creek, was called to corroborate the testimony of her father regarding his accounts, which showed that Agee was a regular patron of the store from March, 1895, until September, 1898.

Defense Will Rest Case. Dan J. Malarkey, of counsel for defense, announced just before court adjourned yesterday that the defendant would offer no testimony and would submit the case on the evidence offered by the government. The not unexpected announcement followed the declaration of Tracy C. Becker, representing the government that the introduction of testimony, important law points affecting evidence in the case will be argued this morning. The closing arguments probably will begin this afternoon, so that the case should go to the jury some time Saturday afternoon.

RELIGION AN CAMPAIGN ISSUE.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Unitarians teach today what the deists, such as Tom Paine, taught a century ago. Unitarians are no more Christians than are agnostics. Thousands of people throughout the country understand this and they will no more vote for Judge Taft, who is an Unitarian, than they would have voted for Colonel Ingersoll.

This statement, privately made by the rector of one of Washington's leading churches, reflects sentiments that are now being heard on every side. The religion of Judge Taft promises to become a campaign issue of considerable magnitude. The Rev. E. G. B. Pierce, pastor of the Unitarian church of which Judge Taft is a member, has received hundreds of letters inquiring about the candidate's views on spiritual matters. Judge Taft, too, daily receives many communications of this character, and some of them are of an abusive character.

Some of Mr. Taft's friends are inclined to be alarmed by these attacks, which are constantly becoming more frequent. Reports have been received here that evangelists in various sections of the country have denounced Taft for his religious views and urged their hearers not to vote for him. A majority of Washington politicians, however, refuse to consider these attacks seriously. They point out that Jefferson, Adams, Lincoln and Grant were all Unitarians in their religious views, but that attempts to defeat them on those grounds failed miserably.

Handley, of Missouri, Judge Kinsey today issued a temporary injunction restraining a merger of large lumber manufacturers into a three hundred million dollar trust to control the pine lumber industry of the country. The court was informed that the promoters of the merger were about to put the proposed trust into operation.

Local O. N. G. Riflemen Make Up Most of the State Team For National Shoot

PORTLAND, Or., July 30.—Riflemen who will represent the Oregon National Guard in the National rifle competition at Camp Perry, O., next month were selected yesterday at the Salem rifle range, following two days of competitive work among the 19 expert shots who qualified at the recent state competition for positions on the national team. Fourteen men were chosen after the rifle course had been gone over twice. The selections were made according to scores, the best shots being selected in accordance with an order issued by Adjutant-General W. E. Finzer last week. The names were transmitted to General Finzer's headquarters yesterday afternoon and are as follows: Captain George E. Houck, Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Captain R. O. Scott, Co. K, Third Infantry, Portland. Quartermaster-Sergeant A. Q. Johnson, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Lieutenant F. G. Stewart, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Private Walter McCormack, Co. A., Fourth Infantry, Eugene. Sergeant A. A. Schwarz, Co. K, Third Infantry, Portland. Sergeant Chester Abrams, Co. M, Third Infantry, Salem. Corporal Alex. Ferguson, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Sergeant O. P. Romaine, Co. K, Third Infantry, Portland. Private M. Mooney, Fourth Infantry, Cottage Grove. Private Ben F. Shields, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Corporal Perdue, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. Sergeant J. A. Potts, Co. D., Fourth Infantry, Roseburg. One Yet to be Chosen. One position remains undecided, Lieutenant Delch, of Portland, and Private C. Fisher, of Roseburg, having fallen somewhat below the others, although their scores are high. One of them will be selected. Scores made by these men are high without exception and Oregon's chance of winning high honors in the national competition seem of the brightest. Their scores throughout are higher than those made by other military rifle organizations, as reported in recent issues of "Arms and the Man."

SUNDAY CLOSING ON TRIAL

Trial of the cases for alleged violation of the Sunday closing law in this city was opened at the Court House this afternoon before Justice John T. Long. Separate trials were demanded by the defendants and the case first called was that of E. F. Rhodes, who keeps a confectionery store opposite the depot, and also sells lunches, ice cream, soda water, cigars, etc. A jury was quickly empaneled consisting of S. M. Kelley, O. A. Houser, S. F. Crawford, J. G. Bell, John McKean, Thos. Hatfield. The complaining witness, E. F. Ingles, testified to seeing the store open on Sunday as alleged and people therein apparently buying goods although he could not testify positively to the latter. Ingles said is backed in his actions by three church organizations in this city but did not name them. His testimony was in definite relation to the case at issue. As to selling lunches, — Hunsaker and J. M. Fletcher, Jr., testified to having bought lunches there on the Sunday in question. City Recorder Orcutt testified as to Mr. Rhodes having a license for a confectionery store and soda fountain. For the defense Mr. Rhodes told of the class of goods carried in his store and the kind of business he does there, the Sunday trade being largely selling lunches, etc., to the passengers on trains passing through. He sold also to local customers also. He did not deny having his store opened on the Sunday mentioned.

The defense is that he was selling only lunches or goods for immediate use on the premises and therefore not in violation of the Sunday closing law. The defense was conducted by Atty. O. F. Coshaw and the prosecution by Geo. M. Brown.

After extended arguments by the opposing counsel as to the law involved, the fact of the store being open having been admitted, the case was submitted to the jury at 4 o'clock without further instruction from the court.

At five o'clock the jury was still out.

WAYWARD GIRL STILL HELD.

The three men and a girl who were arrested in a boxcar here on Wednesday, were arraigned before Recorder Orcutt this morning. The two men from Portland, giving their names as Nathan Gage and Jack Goodell, were each sentenced to five days' work on the streets on a charge of vagrancy. The other man, a laborer, who had gotten into the car here, was dismissed and he at once left town. The girl is still held, pending further investigation. Regarding her the Portland Oregonian says: Mary Bell, the young girl who was found in a boxcar at Roseburg in the company of three men yesterday, is the girl reported to the Portland police as missing last Monday by Mrs. M. Gray, of 449 East Yamhill street, with whom the Bell girl had been living. Mrs. Gray informed the officials that the girl had left her home Sunday, and requested the police to locate her. Chief Grizzmacher wired all the valley towns, with the result that the girl was apprehended yesterday.
