WASHINGTON LETTER.

Cleaning the Capital—Good and Bad Chicken—How Laborer Lives.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The national capital is being cleaned up—both physically and morally. For the past three weeks the health authorities have been conducting a successful crusade against unclean lunch rooms and hotels. They have invaded the kitchens of nearly every public eating place in the District of Columbia. Frightful conditions almost unbelievable were found in many of the so-called first class restaurants. A number of proprietors have been arrested and fined, and others have been forced to quit business. All have been ordered to put their kitchens in proper condition if they wish to continue serving the public. Clubs and even boarding houses have not been exempt from the operations of the official microbe chasers.

But the District house cleaning has not been confined to food purveyors. An anti-vice crusade is now on said to have been ordered by President Roosevelt from Oyster Bay. Immediately adjoining the new municipal building, which was dedicated on the Fourth of July, and almost within a stone's throw of the White House is Washington's "red light district," which, since the days of the Civil war has remained practically undisturbed. It has been the scene of nightly orgies that hitherto have seemed beyond the ability—or inclination—of the police to control.

As a preliminary step in the campaign against the denizens of "the division," as it is called, Major Sylvester, superintendent of police, has ordered the streets in that section of the city cleared of loafers. Unless a pedestrian can give a legitimate reason for his presence in the locality after nightfall he is ordered to move on or go to the nearest police station. In this way, the authorities hope to break up the business of the section. Hints have been given to the proprietors of illegal resorts that they will be allowed a reasonable time to move to another part of the city, or get out of town, altogether.

The District government has for years believed in the policy of segregation of vice, and in line with this it is probable that a new red light section will be created in a part of the city further removed from the business and residence district.

Colocident with the cleaning out of "the division," a crusade against alien women living in vice has been started by the Immigration Bureau. Also under order from the Bureau several arrests have already been made of women, who, the authorities say, came to this country for immoral purposes. These, and others as they may be discovered, will be deported.

How to Judge Chicken.

What American housewife is able to tell a cold-storage chicken from a fresh one? How many American households regularly eat "fresh" chicken that is only "fresh" in its recent resurrection from the seclusion of two or three years in the refrigerator of the storage company?

It has long been the boast of the cold-storage men that fowls are just as desirable after two or three years lying as on the day they were killed. This claim is strenuously combated in a report made by the Department of Agriculture. One subject of the report is to furnish a graphic guide to chicken purchasers, so that they may be able to tell the fresh chicken from the gold-storage article.

When you see a chicken, the muscles of which are so drawn as to cause it to hang, for instance, with the head doubled up; when the skin is mottled with a greenish tint; when there is a sharp, although not putrefying odor; when the comb and gills are nearly dried up; when the skin is so brittle over the breast bone and at the leg joints as to crack when rubbed—that is the fowl to beware of as if it were the plague. It is the three-year-old cold-storage fowl.

distended lumps, where watery slime or gas collects. The feather papillae have darkened. Exposure to the air for a few hours produces a characteristic odor approaching that of putrid flesh. The Department of Agriculture's expert thus sums up: "The dietum of the warehousemen that there is no change in cold-storage poultry and that it may be kept for an indefinite period, cannot be accepted in its entirety. Both microscopic study and taste of the cooked fowl confirm the fact that degeneration does take place."

It seems most desirable that a careful study should be made to determine whether such alterations as have been noted affect the appearance and histological integrity of the flesh only, or whether, as has been asserted by some, the consumption of poultry after long periods of cold storage, is not responsible for some of the obscure intestinal disorders and the imperfect metabolism from which modern humanity, especially the dwellers in large cities, are so apt to suffer.

American Laborer Faces Best. Is the high standard of living adopted by the American workman a mistake? Would he be happier with the conditions that surround the English or the German laborer? The Bureau of Labor answers these questions in the negative. Its reply being based on reports of investigations into the cost of living in the United States, Germany and England, just made by the respective governments.

The Bureau lays emphasis upon the food that the American eats. The table of the American workman is more abundantly supplied and with far greater variety, it is declared, than either the German or the English. The food of the American workman costs more, but his table does not require nearly as large a wage-percentage as that of the Englishman or the German. Another joy that the American laborer is able to experience by his standard of living is that of keeping his family together. Statistics show that the family of the American living at home is larger than that of the German or Englishman. The American industrial family averages slightly more than five persons, with three children to a family living at home.

A comparison of the cost of living shows that the English laborer has been given for generations of being the greatest benefactor of the globe, is unwarranted. The American workman and his family eat much more meat than the English. The reports indicate that the position of the English workman is more fortunate, in regard to wages, rental and food than the German, but that in all these particulars that the honors go to the American.

BRANN'S CHANCES GOOD.

Taft's Manager Not Underestimating Democratic Candidate.

Writing from New York, Walter Wellman, the noted correspondent of the Associated Press, says: "We are proceeding on the theory that we have a hard fight before us that there is danger of Taft's defeat, and that we must work hard to make sure of winning."

This is the principle upon which Chairman Hitchcock is planning his campaign. He is not making the mistake of underestimating his foe. He is not like Wall Street, living in a fool's paradise. He knows he has a battle before him, and he is getting ready for it. He does not intend to be guilty of that most egregious of blunders, over-confidence. In the end he expects to win, but he is going to work just as if he feared defeat.

Result Impossible to Forecast.

Mr. Hitchcock has told Judge Taft and Charles F. Taft, and tomorrow

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the schools of practice recommended, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, liver complaint, torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowels, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever character or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their results, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease, straggling consumption accompanied with severe cough. It is not so good for acute coughs and colds, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Bile's Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root, and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholin, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Fish, of the Univ. of Mich.; Prof. King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. E. M. Fish, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. Coll. of Chicago; and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

"The Golden Medical Discovery" is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—contains pure, tripartite, genuine, being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobtainable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as of all throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated essence of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients, mailed free on request. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
