TO REFORM BILLS OF LADING.

Commissioners Meet to Draft Bill to Present to Congress.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 20.—Commissioners on uniform laws, appointed by the governors of the several states, met here today for what promises to be an important session. Legislative reforms of the greatest interest will be discussed and recommendations made which may have a far-reaching effect.

One of the most notable matters before the commission is the demand of the commercial interests of the country for a uniform bill of lading form. It is alleged by the representatives of banks and commercial bodies that gross fraud is perpetrated under the present system and that there have been bills of lading an unsafe instrument of credit. The commission is urged to draft a uniform bill to be brought to the attention of congress at the next session.

The decision of the commercial bodies to appeal to the commission on uniform laws was the result of the announcement of the interstate commerce commission that it had not sufficient authority to order the railroads to revise their methods of issuing bills of lading to meet the objection which the commercial bodies have raised against the instruments in their present form. It is the present plan to have the new bill which is expected to be drafted by the commissioners on uniform laws introduced at the next session of congress.

A decision of the interstate commerce commission announced recently contained recommendations embodied in the demands of the shippers, but the commission decided that it lacked the power to enforce these recommendations. It was in view of this, and the belief that the railroads would not accept the recommendations of the commission, that the plan of appearing before the commission was formulated.

The tremendous volume of business transacted on bills of lading is apparent from figures of the year 1907, which show the goods value at $17,000,000,000 were shipped on the bill in that year alone. The commercial interests have been trying for the last three years to compel carriers to issue two separate bills of lading forms in order to differentiate between the ordinary receipt and the more important "order" bill which is used as a basis of credit in the transportation of the country's crops, particularly the cotton and grain crops of the south and west and manufactured products.

The shippers have demanded also that the railroads compel the surrender of the instrument upon delivery of the property to the consignee, several extensive swindles having been perpetrated against lenders by means of bills of lading that were not so surrendered. As the railroads have fought the proposals of the commercial bodies they do not expect the recommendations of the interstate commerce commission to change the situation at all. They believe, however, that whatever action is taken by the commissioners on uniform state laws will be approved by congress, as the commissioners consist of representatives from the several states appointed by their respective governors.

TAFF RALLY IN VIRGINIA.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 20.—A rally of Virginia Republicans will be held here tomorrow, when Mr. Taft will deliver an address. His remarks will deal with conditions in the southern states generally and will mark the beginning of an attempt on the part of the republican campaign committee to break into the solid south. Reports from southern republicans have encouraged Mr. Taft to believe that the republicans have a better chance this year to carry one or two of the southern states than at any time in the last quarter of a century.

BANK PAYS AHEAD.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Prosperity got another boost today, when the Knickerbocker Trust company placed at the disposal of depositors, subject to withdrawal, the fourth and fifth installments of its payments under the reorganization plan. These installments fall due on December 26 and February 26, but the present prosperous condition of the institution caused the directors to decide to anticipate the payments. The Knickerbocker Trust Company was one of the most important financial institutions to close its doors during the panic last fall.

When the bank was reopened, depositors were given time certificates for 70 per cent of their deposits. Thirty per cent have now been authorized to be paid, and it is believed that the remaining 40 per cent will be considerably anticipated. Depositors will lose nothing through the temporary closing of the bank.

IOWA STATE FAIR.

$74,000 to be Disbursed—Great Wealth Told in Statistics.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 20.—Iowa's annual state fair, the first big exhibition of its kind in the middle west this year, was opened today. The exhibits are very complete and the prospects are good for a large attendance.

Among the features of the fair are the following: Forty thousand dollars' cash premiums, $14,999 speed program, $20,000 amusement program, 500 carloads of exhibits, 1250 exhibitors, 750 cattle, 600 horses, 2000 hogs, 400 sheep, 200 racing horses, 3000 chickens, 60 acres of machinery exhibits, 35,000 square feet of agricultural, horticultural and dairy exhibits, daily band concerts and a nightly $1000 display of fireworks.

In connection with the fair, the state department of agriculture has prepared an interesting summary of figures showing the value of Iowa farm lands and crops. The total acreage of the farm lands of the state is put at $3,228,109, with a valuation of $1,855,857,423. The crops of 1907 are valued at $389,500,705, with a livestock output of $240,826,266.

THREE MONTHS UP TODAY.

Miss Maloney, Who Eloped With Two Different Men, Free to Wed.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—With the expiration today of the three months which must elapse between the rendering of a decision of annulment of marriage and its final confirmation, Miss Helen Maloney, the Philadelphia heiress who twice eloped, each time with a different man, and was adjudged by the courts to be, after all, unmarried, is now free to enter in earnest the bonds of matrimony with the man of her choice. Friends of the family say that Samuel B. Clarkson, the young Englishman, with whom Miss Maloney eloped to Montreal some months ago, is the real possessor of the heart of the fair daughter of Marquis Martin Maloney, the papal nobleman and that the ceremony which will make the union one will be performed shortly.

When Miss Maloney became Mrs. Clarkson, a tangled matrimonial skein which has been the talk of two continents will be finally straightened out. For months the society of Philadelphia, New York and the summer resorts has been discussing the mooted question as to whether Miss Maloney was really Miss Maloney, or Mrs. Osborne or Mrs. Clarkson. Now the matter is to be settled, and society is breathing a great sigh of relief.

Today marks the expiration of the three months since the handing down of the decree annulling the "milk marriage" of Miss Maloney to Arthur Herbert Osborne, of Manaroneck. Friends of the Maloney family assert that the annulment in fact is not an annulment at all, since they maintain that the ceremony through which Miss Maloney went with young Osborne was simply a pious fraud and was not considered in the light of a true marriage by either of the participants. The court proceedings were brought to satisfy public opinion, following the notoriety occasioned by Miss Maloney's trip to Montreal.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davidson, of No. 374 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at A. C. Marsters & Co's drug store, 50c.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ of the prize ring as well as in life. We protect the lungs, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach is utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot.

"Golden Medical Discovery" cures "brake stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and located or curative, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Dr. Pierce's Great Testimonial—Illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 stamps, or cloth-bound for 41 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

OREGON SCHOOLS ADVANCE.

Attendance Greater and Teachers Getting Higher Salaries.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 19.—The school census of the state for the year 1907, according to the annual report of State Superintendent Ackerman, made public this morning, is 1907, 942, as against 156,466 in 1906 and over 700 more than two years ago and the average salary of male teachers was $65.64 as compared with $42.96 in 1899. For female teachers the average salary per month was $50.16 against $44.95 two years ago and $34.81 in 1899. The total amount expended for school purposes in the state for 1907 was $2,061,994.04 as compared to $2,371,756.86 in 1906.

"In 1899," says the report, "there were only eight four-year high schools in the state and very few of the second and third grades. During the past year there were in operation 43 four-year high schools, 15 three-year high schools, 13 two-year high schools and 67 one-year high schools.

"School officers throughout the state report that the compulsory education law, passed by the legislature of 1907, has proven a success and that all of its provisions are practically being carried out. The average daily attendance for the school year 1907-08 shows an increase of 17,379 over the previous year. This large showing may be partly due to a more accurate method of securing school statistics. The new law requires the teachers to report to the county superintendent at the end of each school month and the county superintendent bases his report upon the reports of the teachers.

Average monthly salary of teachers in one-room buildings, $49.60; assistant teachers of schools of more than one room, $56.35; principals of schools having more than one room, $89.87; and average annual salary of city superintendents, $1576.17.

CENTRALIZING TRADE.

Mail Order Growth a National Menace Reaching Far.

LOCAL BUSINESS SUFFERS.

Population Follows Cash to the Big Cities and the Towns Decay—Per- tinent Facts Pointed Out by a Student of This Serious Problem. The centralizing of trade in the great cities of the country resulting from the growth of the mail order business is a national menace of far-reaching proportions, says a writer in Maxwell's Talisman.

Population follows trade. If the business is done in the country town and village of supplying the needs of the countryside for merchandise and the manufactured articles of all kinds, the people who carry on the trade, the merchant and his helpers will live in the town or village.

If, on the other hand, the trade is done by mail, cutting out the country merchant, the latter is finally driven out of business, his store closed to exist, his village home is abandoned, and if he should continue in the trade he and his assistants must move to the city and become employees for some great centralized mail trade institution, fitting like cogs into one great wheel, with which they must day after day revolve.

The country merchant, with his self reliance, his sturdy individuality, his broad acquaintance, his knowledge of local affairs and needs, his support for local institutions, his civic usefulness, his neighborly offices, his public services and his co-operation in movements for local improvement, has been uprooted and driven away. There is no one to take his place. The trade that gave him his vocation has gone, and with it has gone the prosperity of the town or village which was his home.

The mail trade has destroyed him. The village life and the citizenship developed by it constitute the only hope of perpetuity for the free institutions of this country. The mail trade and serious dangers that now menace its future result from the overgrowth of our great cities and the consequent degeneration of the average citizenship of the nation.

In the place of the "olden people" whose country environment has made them stable, steady headed, self reliant and independent in action, thought and character we have the volatile city multitude, a floating population, anchored to nothing, either mentally or physically, and blown about by every breeze of popular prejudice or passion—ready for any rash experiment, social or political.

The adjacent village or the nearby town which furnishes for the farmer the social side of his life that the isolation of the farm denies to him is a potent factor in the development of the fully rounded out, broad and patriotic character that makes the American farmer the backbone of the nation's stability. Not the farmer alone, but the whole life and environment of the community of which he is a part, the country merchant, the editor of the home paper, the preacher, the village schoolmaster, the country doctor and all the men of many vocations who form the village community, bound together by ties of close neighborly affection and friendly intercourse as well as the feeling of mutual regard born of mutual interdependence in their lives, create a social circle welded together by closer personal bonds than are possible among dwellers in cities. The whole circle of citizenship in the country village or town has the same elements of quiet faith in the final triumph of the good and a loyal devotion to country and the principles for which our nation stands as Lincoln declared them on the battlefield of Gettysburg.

The well stocked general store of the country town, which the mail trade would destroy, is a great educational influence in itself, with its variety of goods gathered from many places and supplying many varied needs. The mental interest is awakened and stimulated by the opportunity it gives to see with one's own eyes the thing that will best supply a need and discuss its merits and cost with the merchant or his salesman. The social side of human nature is developed by the personal contact involved in such intercourse, and the trip to town or village to make the purchase is oftentimes one of the most agreeable breaks in the monotony of farm life for the farmer and his family. They meet there a whole circle of friends, whose neighborly greetings give an added cheerfulness to the humely happenings of the day. But all this out of the farmer's life and you take from it something that has a human and social value that cannot be measured by money any more than family affection can be so measured.

Schools, churches, libraries, social intercourse and entertainments and all that is educational and social in the rural life center around the village. It is the social center of the countryside, and it is the trade that comes to it that supports the village or the town.

Playground Training. It is significant of the spread and strength of the playground movement, which is a benefit to any town, and significant of some other things, too, that thirty-five young women are taking the course offered by the Baltimore Playground association to fit instructors for work in the playgrounds next summer. The training includes folk games and national dances.
