County Judge Wonacott received word last evening that about one-half of the 150-foot approach to the Elk Creek bridge in the town of Elkton had collapsed. He immediately summoned County Bridge Builder R. Jennie, who was working at Ten Mile, and sent him to Elkton this morning with three of his crew to repair the bridge. The collapse was due to the weakening of the foundation by the freshet of last winter.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes: "Our general superintendent Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea which this remedy stops at once." For sale by Hamilton Drug Co.

ROOM FULL OF BOOTY.

'Frisco Police Capture Man Who Held up Tillamook Stage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Matt Jackson, held in connection with the holdup of 16 lumbermen near Stirling City, Aug. 10, will be taken to Chico today by Sheriff Buchanan. The loot found in Jackson's room here at the time of his capture, which has been identified as belonging to the men held up, will also be taken to Chico as evidence.

The local police have identified Jackson as an old offender with a number of convictions against his name. He is identified by checks and postal-orders in his possession as the highwayman who held up the Tillamook stage in Oregon in July. Among the great quantity of loot discovered by the peace office are many checks on banks at Tillamook, taken from the mail sacks of the stage robbed at that time. From other plunder the police believe they will be able to connect Jackson with enough highway robberies and the like to brand him as one of the boldest and most desperate criminals captured in many a day.

PEOPLE KNOW THEIR ENEMIES.

Real Meaning of Defeat of Kittredge, Long and Hansbrough.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—It cannot be properly said that there is any national significance in the defeat of United States senators Hansbrough, Kittredge and Long, unless it be that the downfall of these three men be indicative of a general determination of the people to be faithfully represented in congress. This trio went down to defeat for a single reason; every one of these senators betrayed the people he was supposed to represent, and shaped his course in congress to meet the approval of corporate interests. Each regarded himself as bigger than his constituency, and each relied upon his machine to keep him in office. But in these uncertain days machines have lost their power, and are of little assistance to men in office who have no popular support.

Of the three defeated senators, two were cowards; Kittredge alone had the nerve to pursue a consistent course up to the moment of his defeat. Hansbrough, to curry favor, became an eleventh hour convert to Rooseveltism, and Long, when he saw defeat ahead, forsook his old friends and turned appealingly to Taft, the ascending republican leader. But Long and Hansbrough were converted too late; their people had no more love for cowards than for traitors and they were each handed the same bitter dose that was prepared for the sturdier Kittredge.

Radicals Will Succeed Them.

Each of these senators will be succeeded by a republican, but the three new senators will be anti-corporation men, known as "radicals" in their respective states, and all will be supporters of the Roosevelt-Taft policies. Had Hansbrough, Long and Kittredge been victorious they would have returned to the Aldrich camp in the senate, and would have been as active anti-Taft men as they have previously been anti-Roosevelt. The elimination of Hansbrough, Kittredge and Long is in the interest of party harmony, and will be of material aid to the Taft administration if the republicans are victorious in November.

Hansbrough, Long and Kittredge were sent to the senate by the railroads, and there they labored to the best of their ability to serve their strongest backers. They also were mindful of other corporate interests, for "railroad senators" always rallied under the Aldrich banner—Aldrich, the friend of the Standard Oil—and in matters of legislation corporation influence in the senate was always concentrated.

The "weeding-out" process has begun. It will be continued in Wisconsin later on, when Senator Stephenson, the richest man in the senate, is retired at the close of his present short and uneventful term. Stephenson, who was elected to fill out the remainder of the Spooner term, promised, when elected, to retire next March. It was only on this condition that his election became possible. He also promised to act with La Follette. But, when he got a taste of senatorial life, he forgot his promises; he joined the Aldrich forces and now has announced himself a candidate for re-election.

As Mr. LaFollette is at present conducting things political in Wisconsin, Mr. Stephenson's term will expire as orignally intended, on March 4, 1909, and he will be succeeded by a man of the La Follette rather than the Aldrich type.

EBONY WOOD.

All of the Several Varieties Are Heavier Than Water.

Ebony was known and highly esteemed by the ancients as an article of luxury and was used by them for a variety of purposes.

In India it is said that it was employed by kings for scepters and also for images. On account of its supposed antagonism to poisons it was used largely for drinking cups.

The name ebony is given to the wood of several varieties of trees. All kinds of ebony are distinguished for their great density and dark color. The wood in all varieties is heavier than water. The heaviest varieties are the darkest. The other grades require a considerable amount of staining to make them black.

Ebony is of a uniform color throughout and will not show any deterioration even from long continued use.

There are three varieties of ebony well known in commerce. The ebony from the Gaboon coast of Africa is the darkest. The Madagascar ebony is the densest. The Macassar ebony furnishes the largest pieces. It is sold by weight.

Imitations of ebony can always be distinguished by their lighter weight, and the cheaper imitations can be detected by merely scratching the surface.

SPECTRAL WARNINGS.

The Bloody Mark That Appeared on Cardan's Finger.

Who shall say that spectral warnings are entirely chimerical? History has many instances to the contrary. Thus the once well known tragedian John Palmer died on the stage at Liverpool. At the same hour and minute a shopman in London, sleeping under a counter, saw distinctly his shade glide through the shop, open the door and pop into the street. This an hour or two later he mentioned very coolly, as if Mr. Palmer himself had been there.

Cardan, the noted Italian philosopher, saw on the ring finger of his right hand the mark of a bloody sword and heard at the same time a voice which bade him go to Milan. The redness progressively increased until midnight. The mark then faded gradually and disappeared. At that midnight hour his son was beheaded at Milan.

The father of Dr. Blombey was captain in an army serving in America. We are told by Dr. Rudge that six officers 300 miles from his position were visited after dinner by this modern Banquo, who sat down in a vacant chair. One said to him, "Blombey, are you mad?" He rose in silence and slowly glided out at the door. He was slain on that day and hour.—St. James' Gazette.

The Wooing of the Woodcock.

The wooing of the woodcock is one of those sights to witness which a lover of nature in all its moods will make a journey of miles. The scene is enacted at twilight, and the setting is of willow or alder bushes whose branches are just beginning to show the tender green of early spring. Suddenly from the damp ground a bird form shoots upward like some swamp spirit until it is outlined against the gray of the evening sky. Then it circles above the branches, and the song of the wooing begins. Hidden in the darkness of the thick lower growth is the object to which this love song is directed. The bird above circles perhaps a score of times, then drops back to the damp thicket, making a sound which can be likened only to the dropping of water into a woodland pool. Again the bird soars and circles, singing still the love song. This is repeated time after time until the last gleam of light has faded and night's darkness comes down.

The Life Saving Service.

The first stations of a life saving service in this country were established by the Massachusetts Humane society at Lovell island and Cohasset. All efforts for saving life and property in cases of shipwreck were made by this society till 1837, when the president of the United States was authorized to employ ships to cruise along the shores and render assistance to distressed navigators. In 1848 congress passed a law creating a few life saving stations between Sandy Hook and Little Egg harbor, New Jersey. From this has grown the splendid system which now takes in all the coasts of the country. —New York American.

A Watch Tip.

"So you lost your watch in the crowd, eh?" Lecoq, the detective, sneered. "Well, I'm ashamed of you.

"You ought to know after your long friendship with me that there's only one safe way for a man to carry a costly watch—in the right hand vest pocket, with the chain running into the right and left pockets.

"The thief always snatches at the left pocket, and of course by my system he gets only a key or a cheap compass."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Quite Unexpected.

The Mistress—What, Suzanne, going to leave me? Going to get married? This is most unexpected. The French Maid—Oui, madame, but cet ees not my fault. Eet was only last night zat your son proposed to me.—Harper's Bazar.

Why They Doubted Him.

Hewitt—Figures won't lie, Jewett—That's what I tell the people I meet in business, but they won't believe me. Hewitt—What is your business? Jewett—I'm collector for a gas company.—Town and Country.

A landlord can always raise the rent. That is more than many of his tenants can do.
