A WOMAN'S TACT.

And the Way She Explained Her Diplomacy to Her Husband.

It being a holiday, the blundering man made calls with his wife. The first place they went the hostess said, "Julia is engaged."

"Is she, indeed?" said the man's wife admiringly. "Which one did she finally accept?"

The next place they were informed that Margaret was engaged, and again he man's wife beamed sympathetically and murmured: "Is she, indeed? Which one did she accept?"

At the third place it was the news of Jessie's engagement that was broken to them. As before, the man's wife put the question, "Which one did she finally take?"

On their way home the man said: "Why did you ask 'which one' every time a new engagement was sprung on us? Are those girls so attractive that men were falling over each other in the scramble to get them for their wives?"

"Not at all," said his wife. "I don't suppose either of them ever had but one offer, and it is a wonder she got that. I shouldn't be surprised if the men back out even now before the wedding day. But you see, dear, I had to be diplomatic. Those people can do me many favors. The surest way to make myself solid with them is to pretend to think their girls so popular that very man in town was crazy to marry them."

"With my opportunities downtown," croaked the man. "If I had your genius we'd be millionaires inside of six months."—New York Sun.
