OCTOBER 6, 1908.

Roseburg favors law enforcement.

Now "get busy" with that street paving.

Help Roseburg grow—everybody be a booster.

Remarkably close in some wards, but good government won.

One element that was over-prominent will now figure in the "has-been" class.

The city council is no longer owned or dictated to by hizzoner. And the motion will be continued.

Very strange, but somehow the Olly News failed to display the mayor's picture on the front page this time.

That "honesty is the best policy" may not appeal to some individuals, but starting false reports about your opponents prove severe boomerangs sometimes. Possibly Ward 4 might furnish an example.

Now it's up to the new councilman to give that street paving such a boost that the actual construction work will begin at the earliest possible moment. Other improvements must also be made.

Mayor Hoover's threats to oppose building the Deer Creek bridge as long as he is in office if the election did not go as he tried to dictate, didn't scare the North Roseburg voters "a little bit." He is the one who was "shown," and they are ready to "show him" some more, if needed.

Possibly Hoover, Norman and the Olly News outfit may now begin to realize how little use the people have for any of them. That combination was properly put in the "down and out" class at Monday's city election. They may snarl a little yet, but that won't be noticed long. Shaking off the incubus, Roseburg will soon grow into a bigger, better city.

Enforce the laws, pave the principal streets, improve and clean up the others, build new sidewalks, tear down the unsightly awnings and overhanging signboards, rebuild the Deer Creek bridge, all of which will attract investors and homebuilders and be worth to Roseburg several times what these things will cost. The new councilmen will do their share toward securing these needed improvements. Let everybody help.

HASKELL—AND OTHERS.

Admitting all that is charged against Haskell; assuming that he is guilty of everything of which he has been accused—what then?

We all know most of their names; they have been reprinted until they are familiar—Aldrich, Cannon, Elkins, Dalzell, Crane, Payne, Hopkins, Sherman, Du Pont, Tawney, Penrose, Lorimer, Hemenway, Fordney, Burrows—the list is too long to take space for—who have run this government for the past four or more years, and who will continue to do so unless Bryan and a Democratic Congress are elected.

The gang is fighting for its life. It finds a chance in Haskell to divert attention from the real game. Every one of these and a hundred other tools of the "interests," are supporting Taft.

Not that Taft is a bad man, but they fear Bryan. Roosevelt never jarred them. Taft would never feaze them. He is beholden to them. He belongs to and with them, partisanly. Bryan is independent of them. They would have to begin to scurry if he were elected.

Admit, if you please, all that is said against Haskell—and kick him. Then turn around and you will need a thousand-toed boot to kick worse fellows who are attacking him.—Portland Journal.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

W. S. Hamilton et al to Sarah F. Cobb, $300; lots 3 and 4, block 10, Waite's addition to Roseburg.

Annie Reed to Mrs. H. A. Richards, $50; lots 6 and 7, block 8, Gardner's addition to Drain.

I. W. Gardner to Mrs. H. A. Richards, $150; lots 4 and 5, block 8, Drain.

W. Witte to Oscar H. Langdon, $1200; 160 acres sec. 32, 22-4.

Mrs. R. C. Morris arrived here on Monday afternoon from San Francisco, and after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Harry C. Slocum, left this morning for Portland. Mrs. Morris' husband, the well known S. P. engineer, has been elected grand chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the Southern Pacific, with a territory extending from Portland to New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Morris will shortly change their place of residence from Portland to San Francisco, which latter city will be Mr. Morris' headquarters.

TRANS-MISS. CONGRESS

are 25,000,000. The value of farm property was given by the government census as $2,137,000,000—today it is $19,898,000,000. The production of the farms of the United States this year is estimated at $7,500,000,000, of which fully 50 per cent comes from the trans-Mississippi country, an increase of 100 per cent in the past 15 years. The mining industry has increased in even greater proportion. While these tremendous growths have been taking place in the value and production of the trans-Mississippi territory, the transportation facilities have not increased in any such measure. In 1888, the railroad mileage was 68,057 miles. The statistics for last year, which are the latest available, give to this territory 102,286 miles. This increase of less than 60 per cent is far below the needs of the richly productive area that these lines serve. It is evident to the student of commercial affairs that we need tens of thousands of miles of new railway in order to handle properly the tremendous and growing output of our farmlands and mines.

"Here and there a commonwealth has a mistaken idea of its own needs and attacks the railroad as an enemy, when it should have considered it an associate in its development. It is a poor policy on the part of individuals or a community to hinder those things that make for present day progress. Thousands of communities today would have railroads if the builders of great lines were not afraid of what may come in the way of hostile legislation. Another great influence that is working toward the advancement of the states we represent is the growing improvement in oriental trade, a vast portion of which passes through the portals of the Golden Gate. When we recall that the export trade to Asia twenty years ago was only $17,325,000 and that now it has become $135,504,000, we realize the tremendous importance of this portion of our national commercial life. With a corresponding increase we shall have in less than a decade $1,000,000,000 of exports shipped from the Pacific coast to Asia. This one feature means tremendous things to San Francisco and to all the coast cities. It means that there are to be on the sunset side of the nation, magnificent and mighty ports that shall rival the greatest in the world.

"Upon the west's progress depends the progress of the nation and its interests deserve our heartiest good will and the sacrifice of our time and our money. Because its members believe in this idea the trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress is the greatest force for business advancement existing in America today.

Roosevelt Defended.

Following the address of President Case, the congress listened to the following remarks from Governor Cutler, of Utah:

"President Roosevelt's policies looking to the conservation of the conservation of the great natural resources of the country, has been of the sort referred to. Such epithets as "autocracy," "tyranny," "grandstand play," "King Lear policy," "insincerity," and many others equally final and convincing, have been used overtime, in season and out of season, by the opponents of this policy. And yet there has been no good argument against it, unless you can apply the terms to the statement that we have these resources, and if we choose to exhaust them we have a right to do so, leaving our children and our children's children to shift for themselves. But this appears to me the doctrine of selfishness and tyranny, for it is equal to the claim that the power to do a wrong thing justifies the doing of it. With such a doctrine I cannot agree; nor do I think any of you can entertain it.

"As to the 'King Lear' policy, I will merely pause long enough to say that King Lear gave his kingdom to his daughters while he was still competent to administer it. He ought to have retained it until he became incapacitated, and then given it unimpaired to his children. That is true conservation policy. We are to use with economy and prudence and judgment the wonderful resources we possess. But we are to give those resources, not only unimpaired and undiminished, but increased and improved, to our children, to be so transmitted to coming generations. If inducing us to do this is tyranny, let its opponents make the most of it. Anything less is downright injustice to unborn generations, and a tacit acknowledgment that we are not the advanced and civilized people we claim to be."

Waterways Convention.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—With William H. Taft, William J. Bryan and Wu Ting Fang as its guests of honor and principal speakers, the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterway convention will begin its sessions in the Auditorium tomorrow. Judge Taft is scheduled to speak tomorrow morning at the opening session, and will meet Mr. Bryan at the Chicago Association of Commerce "waterways dinner" tomorrow evening. Owing to the non-political nature of the gathering, both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft will confine their remarks to waterways and commercial development and campaign issues will be carefully ignored.

The primary object of the Waterways Congress is to interest the government in a general plan for deepening the channels of the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and other rivers and the construction of canals which will give a direct water transportation line from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. Much has already been accomplished by the congress toward these projects and it is believed to be only a matter of a few years until a great chain of adequate waterways will link the Mississippi Valley.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into 'Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. You are the loser in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is a result to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar coated granules—easy to take.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

To the Officers and Members of Philetarian Lodge, No. 8, I. O. O. F.:

Millions of flags may float at half mast today for the loss of one upon whom we have looked as a great and almost indispensible leader; but tomorrow those same flags will float as high as ever. The great world will move on, the progress of the nation will be stayed, if at all, only for a moment. Instinctively, we turn our faces from the tomb and take up anew the ordinary pursuits of life. However great or strong or mighty, however exalted in position or power or achievements, whatever of fame or wealth he may have possessed, death, the great leveller, reduces high and low alike to the dust, and but a memory or an example remains.

The places of the departed are filled, even as the waters of the sea cover and level the space where the ship has gone down. The greatest monument that any man can rear for himself or leave to mark the place that he has filled in the world, is that in his time, in the age and generation in which he lived, he made the most of his opportunities; that, considering his environment, as he was given to see the right, he did the best he could. Measured by this standard, Robert Robertson left a priceless legacy to his family and friends, a legacy in which his legion of friends all share.

It is therefore fitting that with the best means in our power we record as a memorial some of the life and characteristics of one whose face and form are gone, one whose steps are heard no more, and whose memory will ever be but an unwritten part of our order.

Robert Robertson, P. G., became a member of Philetarian Lodge, No. 8, I. O. O. F., on August 15, 1896, and it may be truly said that since the institution of the lodge in 1859 it has never suffered a more severe loss than that which was announced to us so suddenly and unexpectedly in open session on the night of September 10, 1908. While his health had been poor, his death came as a great shock not only to the lodge but to the whole community.

Had this man lived in other times, and amid other surroundings, had his day been timed, or his destiny been to uphold his country's honor or safety, or some great or noble sacrifice demanded of him in service of his God or his country, instead of this memorial which we now write, he might well have had devoted to him a page in history. But, after God's plan, he was set in his appointed place to perform his duty, no less important in that great plan than that of the most illustrious of history. How unfathomable are the purposes, how inscrutable are the designs of God, how wonderful are the simple things of thy creation! Is it not said that the most precious thing in the whole world is a human soul? The spirit which belonged to God, grown large and great and strong, has returned to Him who gave it, increased a hundred fold and we know the welcome words have been spoken: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Robert Robertson was of heroic, mold, gentle, just and strong; bearing every burden "as the flint bears fire." Of fine sensibilities he was a profound thinker and accomplished actor. And his whole heart and soul was wrapped up in the teachings, examples and aspirations of Odd Fellowship. He received and imparted all that was good and noble in the order, which means all that is good and noble in life. Humble of station, yet great of soul. In his life and death are depicted the most striking teachings of the order, the frailities of human life, the power of love, the loss of a friend, and exemplication of truth.

We can never forget the time when he was found dying by the wayside. How tenderly we would have raised his stricken body and with what gentleness we would have poured balm into his wounded heart could we have done so; but we could only lament as David lamented the death of Jonathan.

Let us in the light of this memorable example, highly resolve to visit the sick, remember the distressed, bury the dead and care for the widow and orphan, and take new and added inspiration to carry on the business and objects of our order.

Wherefore, Be it Resolved, That in the death of Past Grand Robert Robertson the Lodge has lost one of its most valued members and the order one of its best, most faithful and effective workers in the entire Oregon jurisdiction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge; that a copy thereof be sent to his widow and family; that copies thereof be published in the Pacific Odd Fellow and in the local papers.

Fraternally submitted,
