BLOW AT HARRIMAN

'Frisco Congress Urges Federal Steamship Lines

POOR SERVICE CONDEMNED

Delegates Ask Stubbs if More Cars and Better Mail Service are to be Provided

Special to the Evening Review. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The first blow in the fight against the Harriman lines was delivered in the Trans-Mississippi Congress today by the California Traffic Association, which introduced a resolution condemning the control of the steamship lines by trans-continental railroads, asserting that the service is insufficient and that there should be new ships as often as the traffic justifies. The resolution asks the government to establish a steamship line between all coast points and the Panama canal and the western coast of South America.

Previous to the passage of the resolution, J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Harriman lines, who led the discussion on transportation, was subjected to a running fire of questions from delegates who wanted to know if there would be more cars for the transportation of cattle and if Harriman was going to improve the Pacific mail service.

Prince Reported Assassinated.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 7.—Dispatches received here today appear to confirm the rumor in Constantinople that Prince Constantine, of Greece, was assassinated yesterday while attending the Servian army maneuvers. This city and state are wild with excitement over the reports, which, if true, may draw Greece into the Balkan war.

Report is Denied. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Cable advices from European capitals this afternoon discredit the reported assassination of Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. The origin of the report is unknown.

Fashionable Gambling Place. LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Protected operation of a roulette wheel gambling outfit in a fashionable apartment house in this city, is causing an investigation of an alleged police ring implicated therein by City Prosecutor Woolwine. It is reported that Chas. Clark, son of former Senator Clark, of Montana, is said to have lost $20,000 there, but when confronted with a statement that he had lost such a sum he protested and declared he had been a victim of crooks.

May Renew Canadian Strike. WINNIPEG, Oct. 7.—Mass meetings are being held all along the Canadian Pacific railway line today, from Port Arthur to the coast, by the machinists looking to a renewal of the strike which was just ended. They declare the strike was called off without their consent and only a few of the men have returned to work. Many of the machinists declare they were sold out by their officers who ended the strike.

Harriman's Latest. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Reports that Harriman is arranging two new transcontinental railroad systems are being discussed in Wall street. Confirmation of the report is lacking but it is generally believed. It is rumored that one system will connect the Erie road with the Union Pacific by using the Illinois Central from Chicago to Omaha. The other combination includes the Union Pacific, the 'Frisco road and the Central Railway in Georgia.

WINDOW SALE OF HOME COOKING.—To be held by the Ladies' Aid of the Christian Church, at Marsters' Drug Store, Saturday, October 10, commencing at 10 a. m.

JAPAN GETTING NERVOUS.

Sale of Japanese Stocks Causes Government Great Anxiety.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Japan has become nervous. Wise people have been selling their Japanese securities for many months past, and Japan has been buying them. This kind of a game cannot go on forever—not even with the complaisant bank managers in London, who have always advanced on Japanese stocks as long as the Japanese government keeps handsome balances in the tills of the said banks.

So, in order to induce a fresh gang of buyers to come in and replace the old sellers, we are treated to a beautiful story of how Japan has determined to turn over a new leaf. She is going to do wonderful things—she will devote $25,000,000 a year to reducing her debts—she intends to continue her expenditure upon armaments, but she will extend the time over which the proposed money is to be spent from six to eleven years. During this time she swears she will not borrow any more money—at least, not much. She wisely leaves a loophole, for she has her state railway system, which eats up money. This money she will raise by means of domestic bonds.

She also nobly declares that if any surplus occurs in the future they shall be excluded from ordinary reserve. All of which sounds very pretty, and were such promises made by the Chinese, or by any western nation, they might be hailed as reforms, but the little Jap is the trickiest thing ever seen upon earth. He can coo as sweetly as any dove, but he has the claws of a tiger. He sees very plainly that Europe is disgusted with him. The Fukuman Railway has shown him in his true colors. The cheating in trademarks has exposed him to every trader. The manipulation of his yearly budgets has been an eye-opener to the financial world. Therefore he smiles blandly, and promises everything. But he takes care to mark up all his stocks—thus hoping to lure in the unwary investor.

LANDS FOR ENTRY

91,840 Acres in Lane, Douglas and Benton Counties

MOST OF IT APPROPRIATED

Remainder Open to Squatters After Dec. 20, 1908, and to Entry After Jan. 20, 1909

Upon order of the Secretary of the Interior, another public land opening will take place at the United States land office in Roseburg on December 21, 1908. The area embraced in the order is approximately 91,840 acres, but it is estimated that not more than one-fourth of the land will actually be available for entry. The larger part of the land was covered either by homestead or timber entries and railroad scrip prior to its inclusion in the Unpopulated National Forest by order of President Roosevelt on March 2, 1907. Most of the land lies in Lane county. The remainder lies in Northern Douglas county and southern Benton county.

President Roosevelt's order was made at the time congress was about to pass a law taking the power of creating forest reserves out of his hands. Regardless of what had been filed on or selected under the lieu land law, the President's order swept almost every bit of unpatented land into reserves. There it remained until the government could select the best timbered tracts that had not been appropriated. This was followed by throwing the remainder open to entry, and the order for the opening next December is one of several that has been issued from the Interior department since that time. Among other things the order says that while the land will become subject to settlement (squattling) on and after Dec. 21, they will not be available to entry, filing or selection until on and after January 20, 1909. Warning is given that no person will be permitted to gain or exercise any right whatever under any settlement or occupation begun prior to December 21, 1908, and that all such settlement or occupation is hereby forbidden.

All of the land lies south and west of the Willamette Meridian, and is particularly described as follows:

Township 15, Range 8. Section seven (7), south half of eight (8), all nine (9), west half of ten (10), all eleven (11), fourteen (14), fifteen (15), sixteen (16), seventeen (17), twenty-one (21), twenty-two (22), twenty-six (26), and twenty-seven (27).

MADE NO VOTES FOR TAFT.

Beveridge's Address in Roseburg Only Evokes Cheers for Bryan.

"Hurrah for Bryan!" was the repeated cheer that fell on the ears of United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, as his train, the southbound flyer, No. 13, began pulling out of Roseburg at 9 o'clock this morning. For fifteen minutes during the stop of the train the Senator, through a volley of questions, was a target for a volley of questions, and fired at him by Bryan followers, and Debs men, too, and if the Hoosier orator made any votes for Taft by his replies it was not evident from the manifestations of the crowd, which numbered no more than that which greeted Debs in this city a few weeks ago.

Mr. Beveridge, who is perhaps the only self-respecting resident of Indiana, who took no offense at the hissing of Vice-President Fairbanks' name at the republican national convention, was introduced from the rear platform of his car by C. N. McArthur, of Portland, secretary of the state republican committee. The senator was very hoarse from the three-hour speech which he delivered in Portland Tuesday night, but he did the best he could. Previous to his remarks, a lot of Taft buttons were handed out by Mr. McArthur, and most of those who pressed forward to get them were not of the laboring class.

Explaining that the stop of his train would be too short to permit of a formal address, Senator Beveridge invited the Bryan men in his audience to question him regarding the planks in the democratic platform. The invitation was immediately accepted, not only by democrats but by Socialists as well, but every question fired at Beveridge brought back replies mainly in ridicule of Bryan. This tickled the republicans in the audience, but the questioners failed to grasp the logic of it.

Perhaps the most surprising portion of Mr. Beveridge's address was his pronounced position against what has hitherto been termed "hidebound partizanship." Instead of repeating the threadbare appeal to support the grand old party, he declared that parties should belong to men and not men to party; that any man who could not rise above partizanship had lost his independence as a free, intelligent voter. This was heartily applauded by his hearers. The question by the audience largely interested with his making a general address, and many would have been glad to have listened to him longer. As there were hurrahs for Bryan as the train pulled out it was evident that many of the hearers were not in accord with the speaker.
