A. A. FRANKS SLAIN

Mistaken For Bear by Oscar Webber Near Riddle

INQUEST THIS AFTERNOON

Although Slayer Could Not Tell Man From Animal, He was Able to Hit Franks 3 Times

While hunting in the vicinity of Catching Creek, four miles west of Riddle, Tuesday afternoon, Alexander A. Franks was shot and killed by his companion, Oscar Webber, who it is reported, mistook Franks for a bear as he was descending a hill. Franks' body was brought to Riddle, and this afternoon it will be shipped here on the Flyer for an inquest, preparatory to which Coroner Jewett went to Riddle this morning to gather evidence. Franks was a Southern Pacific freight brakeman, running between this city and Grants Pass. He was 22 years of age and leaves a bride of 26 days—formerly Miss Birdie Worley, of Canyonville. They resided here at the home of George R. Singleton. Webber is a Southern Pacific fireman and about 28 years old. Following the inquest, Franks' body will be taken in charge by the local lodge of Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen, of which he was a member and in which he carried a life insurance policy of $1,300. Franks leaves a brother at Riddle and a sister in Salem. With their wives, Webber and Franks left here last Sunday for Catching Creek for an outing. They were joined at Riddle by Webber's brother, Horace Webber, and wife. The meager details of the fatality that have been received here do not explain how Oscar Webber made his awful mistake. A hunter from boyhood and thoroughly experienced in woodcraft, it cannot be understood how he mistook Franks for a bear, if such was the case. Unable though he might have been at that time to distinguish man from animal, his eyesight was keen enough, it is reported, to enable him to plant three deadly rifle bullets in Franks' body at a distance of about 60 yards. The tragedy is said to have occurred about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and about one mile from where the party was camped. Later Details. Upon the arrival of the Flyer this afternoon, bringing Franks' body, and since the above was in type, it was learned that Webber shot Franks three times. Two bullets pierced the body in the region of the stomach and a third ploughed through the breast. The two men had separated during their hunt in the afternoon, and some time later Webber, at the bottom of a canyon, saw Franks moving about on the ridge and, mistaking him for a bear, fired at him. Webber's splendid ability as a marksman did not fail him, and at his first shot Franks pitched forward on the side of the canyon. As he rolled down the hill Webber kept firing at him and hit him twice more. When he went to investigate, Franks was dead. Webber's weapon was a 30-30 calibre rifle. He and Franks were cousins, and the two had often hunted together. Contrary to previous plans, the inquest was held at Riddle instead of in Roseburg. The verdict of the jury was accidental death. Franks' funeral will be held under the direction of the local lodge of Trainmen from the residence of J. Wendell Wright, on Mill street, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Services will be conducted by Rev. J. A. Townsend, of the Presbyterian church, and interment will occur in Masonic cemetery.

Late this afternoon the jury in the case of Max Weiss vs. George Kohlhaugen returned a verdict for the defendant. Weiss had sued for $715 damages for the destruction of merchandise by the collapse of a wall alleged to have been caused by the excavation for an adjoining building for Kohlhaugen. Following this verdict, the jurors were excused for the term, leaving only the grand jury in service.

Two more indictments were returned by the grand jury this morning, charging violations of the local option law. In each case the defendant was Dr. M. J. Gray, of Elkton. One indictment accused him of selling liquor to C. R. Franklin and the other to Chas. Freyer. This afternoon, Dr. Gray pleaded guilty to the Franklin indictment and paid a fine of $250, and the other indictment against him was suspended upon good behavior. The grand jury continues in sessions, and that its investigation of alleged violations of the local option law are not concluded is indicated

Murderer Slashes His Own Throat But Will Live—Two Deaths in Wreck at Boise

Special to the Evening Review. SHAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 21.—At least one hundred persons are reported killed by a terrible cloudburst west of here last night. Wires are down and details are meagre. The crest of the flood swept down the country this morning and hundreds of farmers and their families were forced to flee to the higher ground. Bridges were swept away all over the region visited by the storm. It is still impossible to estimate the loss. Wreck Causes Death. BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 21.—Daniel Lawler and Martin Black died today from injuries received yesterday in a wreck in the Oregon Short Line railroad yards here. NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Three persons were burned to death in a big tenement house fire here this morning. WM. OLLIVANT DEAD

Expired of Heart Failure Near Remote, Coos Co.

WAS VIEWING TIMBER CLAIM

Accompanied By His Son-in-Law John M. Throne, and Another Man—Pioneer Citizen

Telephone messages received here this afternoon announced the sudden death of W. H. Ollivant, a well known resident of this city, this morning, while looking over his timberland claim beyond Remote, on the Myrtle Point stage road, in company with his son-in-law, J. M. Throne, of this city. Mr. Ollivant went over to Remote Tuesday to inspect their timber claims. This morning they left there accompanied by another man and went into the woods on Rock Creek, a few miles down on a log to rest, when Mr. Ollivant was suddenly attacked with heart failure and fell over dead. News of the occurrence was brought to Remote as soon as possible and telephoned to relatives in this city. About four o'clock this afternoon his brother, T. M. Ollivant, and nephew, Dee Howard, left by private conveyance for Remote to aid in bringing home the body. Coroner Jewett was notified of the occurrence, but as it happened in Coos county it was beyond his jurisdiction. The Coos county officers will be notified, but as the facts are well known it is probable that no inquest will be held. Mr. Ollivant was upward of 50 years of age and is survived by his wife, and daughter, Mrs. Throne; two brothers and two sisters; E. Ollivant, of Looking Glass; T. M. Ollivant and Mrs. Emma Howard, of Roseburg; and Mrs. T. J. Williams, of Wilbur. Orders taken for Vermont marble. I will have a complete car shipped during December. Any one wishing special designs or colors leave orders before Dec. 1st. Call and see samples. W. E. Marsters, Dist of Jackson street. DTF

REGISTRATION IS CLOSED.

Less Than 300 Names Added to the Rolls in this County.

County Clerk Lenox this afternoon completed the entry of the registrations of voters for the coming presidential election on Nov. 3. The total additions to the registrations of last spring in all the precincts of the county number only 281, and of these a dozen or two are simply changes from one precinct to another. The most noticeable feature of the new registration is the failure of these voters to state their party affiliations. In six of the 31 precincts of the county there were no new registrations. Of those now registering who stated their party preference, a slight preponderance are republicans. Nearly as many announce themselves as democrats. Of the entire number less than 20 are enrolled as socialists, but not more than half give any party affiliation whatever. Registration by precincts follows:

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.

Peter Fry, Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it, and after taking three bottles I began to get better and continued to improve until I was entirely well."
