Marshfield Times, Nov. 25: A crew continues to drag the bay for the body of Ruby Braten, the unfortunate, who, on last Wednesday, either jumped or fell—probably the latter—from a launch. H. Heinken, of Woodburn, the father of the girl, who is now here directing the search for the body, was formerly a detective.

The life the girl had been leading was a shock to him as he had supposed that she was employed as a bookkeeper and stenographer. Today was her twenty-fourth birthday. Mr. Heinken said that she was an expert swimmer, having learned when but a child. A big black dog played with her in the water, supporting her when she became tired and carrying her ashore, if necessary.
