At the regular meeting of the city council tonight, John T. Long will tender his resignation as councilman from the First Ward. Mr. Long's chief reason for the move is that his connection with the city administration forces him to reject offers to act as counsel, in his capacity as a lawyer, in litigation involving the city. His successor in office will probably be chosen by a vote of the council, and it is not improbable that the names to be voted on will be those of J. F. Culver and Frank Clements, who received a tie vote for councilman in the First Ward at the last city election.
