SPECIAL TAXES VOTED.

For Building Good Roads and For Special School Purposes.

As mentioned at some length in last Monday's Review, 25 or more of the road districts of Douglas county are preparing special tax levies for good road building during the coming year. Several more districts may be added to the list, although the time is now growing very short. An adjourned term of the county court will perhaps be held the latter part of this week, at which road matters will be among the business considered. Specifications for special road improvement, for which the several districts are voting taxes, varying from three to ten mills, have already been filed by the following districts:

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by Hamilton Drug Co.

WOMAN

Good Women Who Have No Tact. Why the Boy Brought Up by His Mother Is So Often a Miserable Failure.

"If you ask me my opinion," remarked Mrs. Worldly Wise, "I tell you plainly I would infinitely rather have on my visiting list a polished villain than a tactless good person."

Her audience looked a trifle shocked. "Possibly you did not see Miss Smith leave here a few minutes ago," Mrs. Worldly Wise went on, showing traces of irritation. "Well, she has me all wrought up. I'm sure I could have carried on a half hour's conversation with her less unbecomingly than I was during my estimable friend's visit. "Mary Ann Smith is the best woman on earth, but she is as devoid of tact as a bulldog's man is of hair. She always was that way. As a child if she came near you she would poke her finger into your eye with the best of intentions in the world and step on your foot while she was picking up your handkerchief for you. She has grown less awkward physically, but mentally she is the same. Mary Ann Smith is one of the misguided sisters who that believes in telling you the truth for your own good. Women of that kind should be sent as missionaries to the cannibals, but I'd actually feel sorry for the cannibals. I'm afraid they couldn't digest them."

"She must have ruffled you up considerably," the bachelor observed. "From start to finish she beautifully and unconsciously placed the tip of her finger on all my mental sore spots. She irritated me from the moment she climbed into my drawing room with boots better fitted for mountain climbing. She drove me mad the way she fidgeted in her chair. Her glassy way of staring at you and her raspy voice always give me the shivers, and so does the aimless way in which she walks, threatening every vase and bit of bric-a-brac in the room. True, she never does smash anything, but you always feel that she is going to. It's the same way with her conversation. Disimulation is scorned by her. She prides herself on her bluntness and her lack of hypocrisy, and, there's no doubt of it, she is a thoroughly good woman and all that sort of thing. But, oh, how I wish she had fewer virtues and more tact!"

"Lots of good women need it," the bachelor observed cynically.

Where Mothers Are at Fault.

"It's a terrible injustice to a boy to have him brought up entirely by women." I heard a judge in the children's court say this recently, and surely he must know. And why is it so? Because a woman's view of life is so narrow. There are women who bring up their sons like Spartan youths, women who are both strong, liberal and wise, but they are the exceptions, as a rule.

The average mother wants her son to be a good boy to the point of weakness. She doesn't want him to fight; she doesn't want him out of her sight; she keeps nagging at him, like a hen over a duckling that will go into the water, until the lad reaches the age when nagging won't hold him any longer, when he goes his own gait regardless of authority.

The goodly good sort of education which most women inflict on a boy either makes a sissy of him if he is gentle in disposition or drives him to the other extreme if he is naturally strong and active.

What women need more than the ballot is all the influence that can broaden and strengthen their characters.

I say they should come under those influences before they experiment with the ballot. We have enough weak, foolish and ineffectual legislation as it is now, and this is due to weak, inefficient men not brought up to act sharply and think strongly when they were lads at home. MAUD ROBINSON.

A Beauty Hint.

Beauty of grooming, correct pose and ability to make the most of one's good points count for more than a beautiful face. Any woman with a wimple face may be attractive and be considered beautiful if she will be the artist being well groomed.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

A Publicity Expert.
Richard V. Oulahan, head of the publicity bureau of the Republican national committee, is a newspaper man of ripe experience. For the past twenty years he has been stationed at the national capital, half of that period in charge of the New York Sun's Washington bureau. Prior to his connection with the Sun he was attached to the staff of the United Press association. His long residence in Washington peculiarly fits him for his present duties.

as he has come to know every politician of importance in the country. Mr. Oulahan is about forty years old well informed on the political questions of the day and is one of the best liked newspaper men at the seat of government.

Senator Beveridge at a luncheon in Boston during the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs made a telling little speech against the mad pursuit of wealth.

From the window of the room a sunny garden was visible, and in the garden a number of children pursued with breathless cries a swarm of blue butterflies.

Mr. Beveridge, waving his hand toward the racing children, said:

"Take a company of boys chasing butterflies, put long tailed coats on the boys and turn the butterflies into dollar bills and you have a fine panorama of the business world."

Noted Trust Fighter.
Herbert S. Hadley, Republican nominee for governor of Missouri, was elected attorney general of the state in 1904. Through his relentless prosecution of the Standard Oil company and its subsidiary concerns in Missouri he attracted the attention of the entire country.

In a recent address before the Attorneys' General's Association of the United States, of which he is president, Mr. Hadley referred to the $29,000,000 Standard Oil fine.

"The judge," he said, "who cannot see the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and who cannot see through both of these legal fictions to the real owners and the real offenders is either blinded by prejudice or has an unfortunate disposition to obscure the merits of a controversy by strained and irrelevant technicalities."

Mr. Hadley is a native of Kansas and is thirty-six years old. He was educated in the University of Kansas, Northwestern university and Chicago Law school. After finishing his studies he settled in Kansas City, Mo.

When summer has passed in these northern states, the sun is only mild under the bright blue skies of Southern California. This is one of nature's happy provisions—eternal summer for those who cannot endure a more severe climate.

California has been called the "Mecca of the winter tourist." Its hotels and stopping places are as varied as those of all well regulated cities. Visitors can always find suitable accommodations, conventional and varied, pleasing recreations.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.

Will be glad to supply some very attractive literature describing in detail the many delights of winter in California. Very low round trip excursion tickets are on sale to California. The rate from ROSEBURG, OREGON, to Los Angeles and return is $55.00.

Limit six months, allowing stop-overs in either direction. Similar excursion rates are in effect to all California points.
