CEMENT SUBSTITUTE FOR WOOD.

The relation between the increasing use of cement and the diminishing timber supply in the United States has been the subject of some interesting correspondence between the Geological Survey and the Forest Service at Washington. It is quoted by Cement Age of New York. In a letter to the Forester, the Director of the Survey took occasion to quote from a statement of a large Philadelphia firm to the effect that it would be difficult to estimate what the additional drain on the lumber supply would have been during the last few years had not cement come into such general use. The Forester replied in part as follows:

"The Forest Service is watching with a great deal of interest the increasing use of cement and other substitutes for wood. They are undoubtedly having some influence in the price of lumber, though I do not think that up to the present time they have greatly retarded the advance in lumber prices. The fact is that our industrial progress has been so great that our requirements for every kind of structural material have increased tremendously. We are using at the present time more lumber per capita than ever before and probably twice as much per capita as we did fifty years ago. The conclusion can not be escaped, therefore, that in the future we must depend more than in the past on other materials than wood for certain purposes at least. As to the increase that will take place in the production of cement, my impression is that this will be very great."

If the increase in the use of cement in the United States in past years is to be regarded as any index to its future use, the conclusions of the Forester are well founded. The statistics of the production of minerals show that our output has more than doubled in the last five years, and it is well known that its use is being very widely extended. This is due to two conditions: In the first place, excellent cement materials are common in almost all sections of the country; in the second place, reinforced concrete for heavy building material is receiving increased favor among engineers, while in the country regions large amounts of cement are being used for building blocks for smaller structures. Reports received by the Survey during the six years from 1902 to 1907 show that the production of cement in the United States has increased from 25,000,000 barrels, valued at approximately $5,000,000, to 51,000,000 barrels, valued at $55,000,000, the annual statistics showing a steady increase in production with some slight fluctuation in price.

INSANITY ON INCREASE.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—"Insanity grows three times as fast in proportion as the increase in population in the United States."

Dr. David Paulson, president of the Anti-Cigarette League, made this statement yesterday. "China," he continued, "used 26 grains of opium last year for every man, woman and child. The United States used 56 grains. There are at least 1,000,000 opium users in this country."

RICE & RICE.

The Grants Pass Athletic Club basketball team turned the tables on the Roseburg High School team in the former city last night, winning by a score of 28 to 19. The teams will play another game tonight. A week ago Roseburg won two straight games from Grants Pass in this city, but it was claimed by the visitors that their first team was not fully represented. Tomorrow and Saturday nights, Roseburg plays at Ashland against the Athletic Club team of that city. Ashland has one of the fastest teams in the state, and the locals will do well if they keep the games from being one-sided.

CUT DOWN AND REVIVES.

EUGENE, Or., Dec. 16.—Sheriff Brown received a telephone message calling him to Junction City today to investigate what seemed to be a case of attempted suicide. The telephone construction gang was at work on the line near Junction City when they found a man's body hanging from a bridge. Supposing the man to be dead they cut him down, but he soon regained consciousness and ran away.
