J. W. Malden, of this city, is anxious for a number of people in this county to engage in raising broomcorn. He wants to operate his broom factory but is unable to secure the necessary material. It has been demonstrated that fine broomcorn can be grown in this county and there is a good demand for it. In fact, there is such a shortage of broomcorn all over the country that broom prices are rapidly going up. If growers show a willingness to take up this matter Mr. Malden will endeavor to secure for them a large quantity of seed to begin with. The Roseburg broom factory turns out a good article but is handicapped for lack of the necessary material. dtf

BAR PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE WILLIAM R. WILLIS.

Memorial resolutions in honor of the late William R. Willis, of this city, were adopted in the Circuit Court this morning. Conjointly, addresses eulogizing the character of the deceased were delivered by Judge J. C. Fullerton, Dexter Rice and C. S. Jackson. The resolutions follow: Resolved, by the court and members of the bar of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Douglas County, that we have learned with deep regret of the death of William R. Willis, the oldest member of this bar and for almost half a century an able lawyer of the State of Oregon. Resolved, that his well known industry in his profession, his careful preparation of his cases, his fidelity to the interests of his clients, his clear conception of the essence of a controversy and his concise manner of framing pleadings were virtues worthy of our emulation; Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the journal of this court and a copy thereof, duly certified by the clerk of this court, be delivered to the widow of said deceased. Respectfully submitted, O. P. CUSHOW, A. N. ORCUTT, W. W. CARDWELL.
