Now accurately, neatly and artistically you can draw the above picture of Henry Lindeman. To afford everybody who enters this contest a fair chance, we have placed a dotted outline of Mr. Henry Lindeman's features in the right-hand panel. You can trace your hand over this dotted outline, with such additions or omissions as you believe will improve the picture—or you can send in a free-hand drawing—either pen or pencil may be used. To the person submitting the best sketch—neatest and most artistic—we will award a $450 Henry & S. G. Lindeman Piano.

$450 HENRY & S. G. LINDEMAN PIANO

An offer is made and the gifts will be awarded by Henry & S. G. Lindeman, for the purpose of advertising their celebrated Pianos in this section. Henry & S. G. Lindeman will send a personally signed check in the order as listed above to each person sending in the best drawing. This check will be applicable on the purchase of a new Henry & S. G. Lindeman Piano, Player Piano, or Little Grand Piano. All entries must be made to Reed-French Piano Mfg. Co., Sixth and Burnside street, Portland, Oregon, who have agreed to sell for Henry & S. G. Lindeman.

Guaranteed 14-Karat Gold Point Fountain Pen

They are fully warranted, exactly as if they were sold for $2.50 instead of being given away. Write easily, smoothly. Will give great and lasting satisfaction. One of the excellent fountain pens will be awarded to each of the contestants who fails to win any of the principal prizes.

The judges who will make the awards will be three well-known business men.

These simple rules will govern the contest:

The competition will close at 10 p. m., Saturday, May 28, 1910

No contribution from a professional artist will be considered.

The decision of the judges must be accepted as final.

The sketch submitted may be traced over the outline in right-hand panel, with additions or omissions—or it may be a free-hand drawing.

The $450 Henry & S. G. Lindeman Piano will be delivered to the successful contestant absolutely free of any charge.

OLE MARTIN'S HEROIC STORY

Miles From Any Human Being, He Broke the Land With a Hand Cultivator and Won With His Nerve and Brains—Ole's Experience With Potato Growing.

This is the story of a farmer who won because he had nerve and understanding enough to sit down on his land and fight it out to a finish, a farmer who had never heard of the word discouragement and whose only definition of failure was that it meant "try again a little harder." also it is the tale of a man who farmed as much with his head as he did with his hands, and he did an enormous amount of work with those latter.

His name—not that it matters particularly—is Ole Martin, and six years ago he drifted into these United States from Sweden, where he had been farming in rocky and exhausted land for fifteen years. Six months after his arrival at New York he was in Alaska, and six months after that he had a few acres of land on the Kenai peninsula. Then he began to farm. There were no neighbors—not then, at least, for it was not until later that a taciturn Scot sat down a short distance away and began to farm on his own account.

Had No Dogs or Horses.

The location was three and a half miles north of the new town of Seward, and there was no railroad; also there were no horses and at first not even a dog, so supplies had to be "packed" in. A man who has never carried sixty to a hundred pounds on his back over rough, unbroken country can only imagine that. Ground had to be broken and cleared. Then it had to be prepared for sowing, and the old methods of Sweden and the United States even were useless. Martin began with potatoes and failed. His results were watery caricatures of the potato of commerce. He had got his seeds from Seattle, and he tried again and failed again. Then he began to farm with his head. He proceeded to educate his potatoes and teach them to grow respectably. This could only be done by growing and re-seeding. Soon he had real potatoes and began to sell them.

Cultivation was a problem, for without tools it was difficult. Martin solved this problem, however, in his own patient way. He built himself a hand machine and pushed it himself with prodigious labor. Later, when he had secured a dog team, he broke them to haul the cultivator. It was a severe task, for he was alone. There was no hired man—just Ole himself and the dogs.

Decided on Garden Truck.

Finding himself so close to a growing community, Martin saw that in garden produce there would be a market, and he set to put some seven acres under cultivation. In nearly all his work he had trouble with his seeds. Those from the States would not grow well in a soil where there were 140 inches of rainfall in a year, and so he had to educate his turnips, his cauliflower, carrots, cabbages and the rest to grow in damp soil.

The government maintains experiment stations, but these were and are too few; also they are only experiment stations, and the real work must be done by the real farmer. Martin went through it all, and he built his log house, barn and outbuildings. He cuts his hay—tons of it—by hand and ricks it alone. He finds time for flowers, and these are his amusements. He built an incubator and is raising chickens and is housing them in a log house equipped with a stove. Every bit of work on the place—every last tap—has been done by this farmer single handed. He has combined the work of the experiment stations and the farm, and it is him is due the success of farming on the Kenai. Now the railroad has come to him, and he can ship his products in to Seward, even across the sound to Cordova and Valdez, and he is well to do.

Fought Twenty Hours a Day.

But the trials and the fight of those early days, when he was wrestling twenty hours of a summer day and eight hours of a winter twilight with a rough, semiarctic country, pushing a clumsy, homemade cultivator by hand and smiling cheerfully, will not soon fade, nor will the days when eighteen hours of yellow sunlight brought the seeds rushing to the surface and matured them in five weeks. Those were the moments when he saw the things the future held. And he's not going to sell out and go back to Sweden. He's going to stick on the job. It's his home now, and he sees the time in ten years—no, five—when he will have farmer neighbors all about him and the rich soil will be working for the men who can conquer it.

Up in the Tanana valley and in the Copper river and the Susitna, too, farmers are following the track of Ole Martin, the man who farmed and made it go through—alone.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT NOVELTY THEATRE.

Miss Angela May, the well known comic opera star, will be the feature attraction at the Novelty Theatre in Roseburg for the week beginning next Sunday. Angela May, who is a household word in the world of theatricals, is making a trip in her own automobile from New York City to San Francisco. A metropolitan paper says of her:

"Miss May made her first appearance at Lager's Theatre last evening and judging from the generous applause and the genuine appreciation accorded her on such short notice, she will no doubt play to standing room only during the rest of her engagement."
