5000 ELK WILL FAIRVE UNLESS HAY IS PROVIDED.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 11.—A telegram from the Jackson Hole country quotes S. N. Leek, a big game authority, to the effect that 5000 elk will starve unless hay is provided for them at once. The state legislature recently appropriated $5000 for hay, but its purchase has not begun.

HEMMED IN BY LIONS.

A Bad Case of Stage Fright and a Record Stunt in Singing

Stage fright of the sort that afflicted Whit Cunliffe at one time a proud and stout in English music halls, is not avoidable. Fortunately also it is not common. At a place where he was engaged in Birmingham one of the attractions was a lion show, some of the beasts being really wild and untamed. Nearly the whole stage was taken up with the "setting"—the animal show.

"Just as I was going on," said Cunliffe in telling the incident, "I heard a hurried rush and confused shouting, and some one slammed an iron gate. I heard a voice say, 'Just in time; he was nearly out.' My music was starting, so I had no time to inquire. I went on the stage.

"In a moment I heard ominous growls and savage snarls mixed with much whelp crackling and strenuous breathing. I am never fond of a wild animal show, and I felt distinctly nervous that night. The cloth behind me sagged and swayed, and then, to my horror, suddenly in the wings I saw the huge head and front of a lion. 'I was singing a song called 'I Would,' which had a lot of short verses. As I sang them, my blood running cold, I watched the lion. It seemed slowly to advance, and its baleful eyes glittered in a truly horrible way. I could not go off that self without passing it, so I prepared to 'exit' with haste.

"Turning, I was doubly horrified to see another lion on the other side.

"I was caught like a mouse in a trap. I dared not go off the stage; I dared not show my discomfiture to the audience. There was only one thing for me to do—sing. So I sang in desperation, hoping that some one would come and take those lions away. They told me afterward that I sang ninety-eight verses. But I think that was unkind.

"I wondered how long it would take those two brutes to make up their minds to come into the full glare of the footlights, and I had just prepared to leap into the stalls, regardless of the consequences, when I heard the hoarse voice of one of the stage hands say: 'Ere, Bill, these two chaps are too far forward. Give a hand with them, will yer?' And, coming up between the two lions, they lifted them bodily. They were papier mache!"

LOW HOTEL RATES FOR ROSEBURG PEOPLE.

Mr. W. M. Seward, proprietor of the new Hotel Seward at Portland, Ore., wishes us to announce that the rates for rooms at the Seward are $1.00 per day and up. The Seward was opened in July, 1909, and is one of the most artistic, modern and elegantly appointed hotels in the Northwest. All rooms have direct outside exposure, and the hotel is located directly opposite the main entrance to the Olds, Wortman & King new department store, thus affording guests an easy opportunity to do their shopping. Mr. N. K. Clarke has succeeded Mr. A. A. Wright as head of the office force. Mr. Clarke will be remembered by many as one of the most congenial and obliging clerks that ever stood behind a hotel counter in Portland. We would suggest to our readers that they give the Seward a trial. Take 'bus at depot or car marked 'W' and get off at Tenth street.

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

E. D. White, Chief Justice of the United States.

Edward Douglass White of Louisiana, the new chief justice of the United States, has been on the supreme bench since 1894, when he was appointed by President Cleveland. At that time he was a member of the senate from Louisiana. Mr. White's appointment to the supreme bench followed two unsuccessful attempts by Mr. Cleveland to make appointments that would escape opposition in the senate. The late David B. Hill, then senator from New York, with the aid of many southern senators, held up the confirmation first of Wheeler H. Peckham and second of William B. Hornblower. President Cleveland then named Mr. White, who, like the two preceding nominees, was a Democrat, and Mr. Hill through senatorial courtesy withdrew his opposition.

Chief Justice White was born in Lafourche parish, in Louisiana, in November, 1845. He was educated at Mount St. Mary's in Maryland, at the Jesuit college in New Orleans and at Georgetown college. He served in the Confederate army and was licensed to practice law by the supreme court of Louisiana in 1868. He was elected state senator six years later and in 1878 became associate justice of the supreme court of Louisiana. He took his seat as United States senator in 1891. Justice White is a Catholic.

New Jersey's Farmer Orator.

James E. Martine of Plainfield, Governor Woodrow Wilson's candidate to succeed John Kean as United States senator from New Jersey, is also the choice of the Democratic party as expressed at the recent primary elections. Mr. Martine is known as the "farmer orator" and is one of the most picturesque figures in the state. It is said that he has led more forlorn hopes and been defeated for more of times than any man within the borders of New Jersey. This is due to the fact that he has always been nominated in strongly Republican districts and when there was nothing to hope for but the glory of the fight.

JAMES E. MARTINE.

Mr. Martine was born in New Jersey sixty years ago, but since boyhood has lived on Cedar Brook farm, a historic place near Plainfield. His father died while he was still a lad, and he took charge of the farm. He is a natural born campaigner and has been making speeches since he was eighteen. He has given all that is in him for his party. He was an ardent supporter of William J. Bryan and spoke in many states for the Nebraska man. Mr. Martine believes in free trade in life's necessities and is an advocate of municipal ownership of public utilities.

Tarkington's Wit.

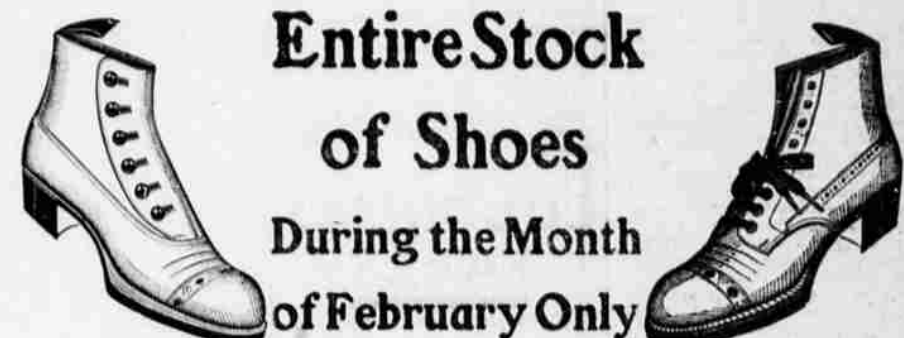

Booth Tarkington at a dinner in Indianapolis praised wittily the husband of domestic fasts.

"A good match," he said, smiling toward a group of pretty Indianapolis girls—"a good match, ladies, is one who never goes out."
