

CANADA'S CHEAP FARMS
CREATING GREAT EMPIRE.

Our neighbor on the north is rapidly attracting the watchful eyes of over-populated Europe, to whom free homesteads and cheap farms offer possibilities impossible in the homeland. While the volume of immigration coming into Canada is much less than that coming into this country, it is very much larger in proportion to the resident population of the two countries. During the past two years the Canadian Government gave away land to homesteaders in size equal to the state of Illinois, and this year 200,000 homesteads are available, equivalent to the state of Ohio. Canada expects to receive half a million additional population this year, of whom 150,000 will enter from the United States. This, with the construction of 1600 miles of railroad into the new country, will make half times across the border.

Until the past few years immigration to Canada was comparatively small, and the country, notwithstanding its vast area and natural resources, has been handicapped and held back by lack of population. This construction of her lines to the Pacific and the inducements offered settlers, with the excellent facilities and inviting opportunities, have directed attention to the Canadian Northwest and the tide now flowing is that the vanguard of millions yet to come.—H. H. Windsor in the July Popular Mechanics Magazine.

How King George Will Be Crowned

Details of the Coronation of England's New Sovereign and His Queen, June 22, in Westminster Abbey. Form and Order of the Service and the Ceremonies, Compiled From Official Sources—Solemn Rites Attending the Function—Archbishop of Canterbury Personally Crowns His Majesty and Queen Mary.

It would require a book, and that book has been published, to tell in detail just how King George V. and Queen Mary of England will be crowned and enthroned in Westminster Abbey on the 22d of June in the midst of a splendid gathering of princes, nobles and ecclesiastics, with as many spectators as possible access to the great hall.

A little volume issued "by command of the King" gives the exact service and ceremony of the coronation. It is titled "The Form and Order of the Service That is to Be Performed and of the Ceremonies That Are to Be Observed in the Coronation of Their Majesties King George V. and Queen Mary in the Abbey Church of St. Peter, Westminster, on Thursday, the Twenty-second Day of June, 1911." The tenets of the title indicate the duration of the ceremonies, which are long drawn out. According to the "Table of Contents" in the book, here is what takes place:

1. The preparation of the throne into the church; 2. the entrance of the King, the Queen, the Archbishop, the Bishops, the Peers, the Knights, and the Knights of the Garter; 3. the coronation of the King; 4. the coronation of the Queen; 5. the presentation of the King to the people; 6. the presentation of the Queen to the people; 7. the presentation of the King to the people; 8. the presentation of the Queen to the people; 9. the presentation of the King to the people; 10. the presentation of the Queen to the people.

Archbishop's Busy Day.
The Rev. Randall T. Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury and as such the highest prelate in the Church of England, is a highly important personage on coronation day. For it is he who crowns the king, and conducts the solemn ceremonies inherent thereto. He is assisted by the dean of Westminster and other bishops, all of whom, it should be remembered, are peers of the realm.

On coronation day the procession of bishops, headed by the archbishop of Canterbury, will form immediately outside the west door of the church and wait till notice is given of the approach of the king and queen, when they shall begin to move into the church. Their majesties are to be greeted by the singing of an anthem by the choir of Westminster. Compiled and entitled from the official book mentioned, the procedure of crowning and anointing King George, with many incidental details necessarily omitted, is as follows:

Presenting the King.
The king and queen pass into the theater of the church, walk past their thrones and kneel at the south side of the altar, where they make brief private prayers. They then sit down in chairs provided for them. The archbishop, the lord chancellor, the lord high treasurer and the earl marshal go in turn to each side of the church "and at every of the four sides shall in a loud voice speak to the people, and the king in the meanwhile, standing in his chair, shall turn and show himself unto the people at every of the four sides of the theater" at the archbishop's say.

"Then, I pray you, King George, the undoubted King of this realm, Whosoever ye be, who are come this day to do your husband's and service, are you willing to do the same?" "God save King George! God and repeatedly cry the people. Then the trumpets sound. The bishops place the Bible, psalm and chalice upon the altar. The lord who carry the royal approach the altar, each handing over what he carries to the archbishop, who delivers them to the dean of Westminster, who places them upon the altar. Two bishops, kneeling, sing the Litany, the choir singing the responses. Then comes the communion service, with the singing of the Creed, king, queen and people standing. One of the bishops follows with a sermon, which is short, as it should be, considering the conglomerate length of the ceremonies.

All this time the king has been uncovered, but when the sermon begins he puts on his cap of crimson velvet turned up with ermine. The sermon ended, the archbishop goes to the king and administers the coronation oath. These are the questions asked and answered:

Archbishop—Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and dominions thereto belonging according to the statutes in parliament agreed on and the respective laws and customs of the same?
King—I solemnly promise so to do.

Archbishop—Will you to your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?
King—I will.

Archbishop—Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the gospel, and the Protestant reformed religion established by law? And will you maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the Church of England and the doctrine, worship, discipline and government thereof as by law established in England? And will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of England and to the churches there committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall appertain to them in any of the said parts?
King—All that I promise to do.

Kneeling upon the steps of the altar, with his hand upon the Bible open at servant George our King, and as thou wert this day set a crown of pure gold upon his head [here the king must be put in mind to bow his head], so enrich his royal heart with thine abundant grace and crown him with all princely virtues, through the King eternal Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Then, the king sitting down in King Edward's chair, the archbishop, assisted with other bishops, shall come from the altar, the dean of Westminster shall bring the crown, and the archbishop, taking it of him, shall reverently put it upon the King's head, at the sight whereof the people, with loud and repeated shouts, shall cry, "God save the king!" the peers and the kings of arms shall put on their accoutrements, and the trumpets shall sound, and by a signal given the great guns at the Tower shall be shot off.

The acclamation ceasing, the archbishop shall go on and say:

"God crown you with a crown of glory and righteousness, that by the ministry of this our benediction, having a right faith and manifold fruit of good works, you may obtain the crown of an everlasting kingdom by the gift of him whose kingdom endureth forever. Amen."

Then shall the choir sing:

"Be strong and play the man, keep the commandments of the Lord thy God and walk in his ways."

The dean of Westminster takes the Holy Bible from the altar and gives it to the archbishop, who presents it to the king, first saying these words:

THE REV. RANDALL T. DAVIDSON, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, WHO WILL CROWN THE KING AND QUEEN.

to the king, first saying these words: "Our gracious King, we present you with this book, the most valuable thing that this world affords. Here is wisdom; this is the royal law; these are the lively oracles of God." The Bible then is replaced upon the altar.

The Enthronization.

Now comes the enthronization, second only in interest to the actual crowning. The king is lifted into his throne by bishops and other peers, all the great nobles standing about the steps of the throne. The archbishop administers his majesty to stand firm and "establish your throne in righteousness, that it may stand fast forevermore, like as the sun before him and as the faithful witness in heaven."

Beginning with the archbishop, all the princes and peers kneel before the throne and vow allegiance to the sovereign, after which the archbishop kisses the left cheek of his majesty.

The Prince of Wales also takes the vow of homage, and all the princes of the royal blood touch the crown on his majesty's head and kiss the king's left cheek. When the homage is ended the drums shall beat and the trumpets sound and all the people shout, crying out: "God save King George! Long live King George! May the king live forever!"

Queen Mary's Turn.

Thus end, the coronation and enthronization of the king. The ceremony for the queen is not so elaborate. Queen Mary is anointed by the archbishop, four peeresses meanwhile holding over her a rich pall of cloth of gold. The ring is put upon her finger and the crown upon her head, after which all the peeresses present put on their coronets. The presentation of the scepter and the ivory rod with the dove follows, and the queen takes her seat upon her throne, bowing reverently as she passes the throne of her husband.

After communion the king descends from his throne and, wearing the crown and carrying the scepter and rod, goes into St. Edward's chapel, followed by a great procession of bishops, peers and princes. The queen follows, and they proceed in state into the chapel, where his majesty is relieved of the royal robe of state and reclothed in his robe of purple velvet. Their majesties proceed to the west door of the church, where they entered, all the peers following, wearing their coronets.

Model T
Touring Car $900

4-Cylinder—20 H. P.—5 Passenger
With Extension Top, Automatic Brass Windshield, Speedometer; Two 6-inch Gas Lamps and Generator

The FORD Model T is made through and through of Vanadium steel, the most expensive steel in the world and the toughest known. It is impossible to obtain the same results with any other steel. Although it is made a feature in the specifications of several makers, in no other car is it used so absolutely as in the FORD cars.

Vanadium, an alloy, melted into the crude steel, adds to the tensile strength, prevents crystallization, or crumbling of the steel and gives additional elasticity that is not found in any other steel. Vanadium steel is stronger than chrome-nickel steel, manganese steel, or any other kind of steel.

All steel is able to withstand heavy load; the test comes with the vibration or shock. A steel girder which helps hold a great building will perform faithfully as long as there is little vibration, but it will quickly break if subjected to unusual vibration or shock. Automobile steel is under constant vibrational strain, torsional strain, or shock. Vanadium Steel has greater strength to withstand such wear. This is the reason for the strength of the FORD Model T.

Gears, axles, shafts, springs, levers and every strain, or load bearing part of the FORD Model T is of Vanadium Steel. This is the secret of the lightness and strength of the FORD. With such a steel it is only necessary to make parts one-fifth the size of ordinary automobile parts, and still have them stronger.

Vanadium Steel causes FORD repair bills to be less. FORD weight proportionate to the horsepower causes fuel bills to be smaller—tires to cost less. One gallon of gasoline carries a FORD twenty to twenty-five miles. One set of tires carries a FORD from 5,000 to 10,000 miles.

The FORD magneto is an integral part of the unit power plant. No batteries are used, no brushes, gearing, or moving wires. Trouble makers have been banished. A slight movement of the flywheel generates current enough to make a powerful spark.

The FORD Model T was the first car with the left drive, now being copied by many. When you are seated upon the right side you are at a great disadvantage in learning whether a vehicle is overtaking you upon your left—as required by traffic regulations—and the moment you turn to the left, looking behind you on the right a large section of the car prevents that view by your own car. If the design of the car prevents that view you must leave your seat and look behind you from the left. A turn to the right does not require any of these precautions. Vehicles are not supposed to pass you on that side, and there is no occasion for extreme caution when changing your course in that direction.

In stormy weather you are permitted to alight from your car at the curb from the right side. With the right drive you are either forced to crawl over the lovers, or tramp around in the mud from the left side.

The FORD Model T has met all the demands of city and country life. It is the family car of pleasure, the fast car for the busy business men, the reliable car day and night for the doctor, the dependable car on the farm—all because of its being built to fill a practical mission. It is all that a car should be—filling in all around service—a car for the people, and at a price that any one who can afford to keep a horse and buggy can pay.

Surely the FORD is the car you want. Make arrangements with me for a demonstration in the country, where there are hills, sand, mud, fording streams, or any kind of a grilling test you may wish. Then have any other car do the same test, and compare the performance.
