

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Chafing Dishes, alcohol and electric, $3.25 to $16.00; dandys. Coffee Machines, alcohol and electric, $6 to $10; new and nice. Coffee Percolators, alcohol and electric, $3.50 to $10. Tea Balls, as far ahead of the old tea pot as the percolator is ahead of the old coffee pot. Just what your good lady would like. Electric Portables, both wood and metal. We must close the wood portables out and to make the price attractive have cut an average of $1.50 each from them. Electric Laundry Irons, the new Dover that will not burn up, $6.50; the old reliable Hot Point at $5.00; the newest, the Double Point, used either way, $4.50. You remember the American Superior, as good as the best; we have a few of them left that we offer at the attractive price of $3.50. Silver Plated Knives, Forks and Spoons. The 1847 Rogers that you all know, and the newer Smith brand with 25 years guarantee. Russian Hammered Brass Novelties, pleasing and attractive. Pocket Knives from 10c to $3 each. H. & B., an American knife, fully warranted; Bowker, the best German, and Jordan, a leading English make. Don't forget the shaver's delight, a good razor, but ask to see the D. E., the leading and best safety, $1.50; a good safety at $1 or at 50c; the best old-style razors, strops, hones, soap, etc. Be sure to ask for an Aero Mirror; it will make any shaver smile to get one. Also remember Kodaks, and that the only kodak is an Eastman. Nothing better, nothing as good. Clauss Shears, the kind that are fully warranted the best on earth. Carvers, don't forget that a turkey well carved is better than one haggled to pieces. Andirons and Fire Sets, brass or iron. Casseroles, a few choice ones left, but hurry if wanted. Prices $6 down. Asbestos Table Mats, always use under hot plates; very acceptable as gifts. Six pieces $1.50. Aluminum Ware, the "Wear-Ever" kind. The only thing fit for cooking purposes. Rifles, Shot Guns, etc. We must stop for lack of time, but come in and see what we can show you.

BUYING A TURNER.

How One of the Painter's Favorites Came to America.
In Henry Stevens' "Recollections of Mr. Lenox" is given his version of the purchase of a Turner by this gentleman "about 1847," without any title or description of the picture, but which is apparently the "Staff, Flag's Cave," stated in the catalogue to have been "bought from the artist for Mr. Lenox by Mr. Leslie in August, 1845."
C. R. Leslie had been instrumental in securing for the New York collector a number of paintings, and on this occasion received from him a sight draft on Harings for £800, "requesting him to be so good as to purchase of his friend, Mr. Turner, the best picture by him he could get for the money." Turner's "grumpy reply" was to the effect that he had no pictures to sell to Americans, that his works were not adapted to their commercial and money grubbing tastes and that Leslie had better go elsewhere.
On sight of the draft, however, he became somewhat mollified, finally "turned around a small picture standing on the floor against the wall and said: 'There, let Mr. Lenox have that. It is one of my favorites. He is a gentleman, and I retract. Will that suit you, Mr. Leslie?'"
Mr. Lenox was at first slight not much pleased with his purchase, and so notified Leslie, but he soon wrote Leslie to burn his first letter: "I have now looked into my Turner, and it is all that I could desire."—Scribner's Magazine.

BLOWING THE PIPES.

A Scotch Music Lesson by a Clever Highland Master.
A highland piper who had a pupil to teach originated a method by which, says a writer in Blackwood's Magazine, he succeeded in reducing the difficulties of the task to a minimum and at the same time fixed his lesson in the pupil's mind.
"Here, Donald," said he, "take your pipes, lad, and give us a blast."
"See! Verra weel blawn indeed, but what's a sound, Donald, w'eent sense? You may blaw forever w'out making a time o' it! If I donna tell ye how the queer things on the paper, mairn help ye."
"Ye see that big fellow w' a round open face?"—pointing to a semibreve—"between two lines of a bar? He mairn blaw from that line to this, while ye beat him w' your flat an' gie a long blast."
"If ye put a leg to him ye mak' twa o' him, an' he'll move twice as fast."
"If, now, ye black his face he'll run four times faster than the fellow w' the white face, and if, after blacking his face, ye'll bend his knee or tie his leg he'll run eight times faster than the white faced chap I showed ye first."
"Now," concluded the piper sententiously, "whenever ye blaw your pipes, Donald, remember this—that the fatter those fellows' legs are tied the faster they'll run and the quicker they're sure to dance."

RAILWAY JOURNALS OF LONG AGO.

It was only the adventures which shared his first railway journey in 1823. A writer in the Quarterly Review commenting on the proposed line to Wootton Bassett, remarked: "We would as soon expect the people of Wootton Bassett to suffer themselves to be tried off upon one of Charles's rocks as trust themselves to the mercy of such a terrible gale at such a rate." The third class carriage at those days was a thing of horror. "It had no roof and no seats," writes J. C. Wright. "Into this the passengers were packed and led to scold during the whole journey or, if there was room, to squat on the floor, exposed to the rain or sun and tormented by sparks emitted from the engine. Second class passengers were kindly advised to provide themselves with gowns, spectacles and to sit as far from the engine as possible."—London Spectator.
