CHILDREN DO THE WORK IN INDUSTRIAL CONTESTS.

Last year, as near as we can get at it, there were about 60,000 children engaged in making or raising something with which to compete for prizes in the industrial contest. That was only a little start in the work, but it was a great stimulus to future effort. As a result of the inspiration gained last year we hope to have practically every one of the 125,000 school children of the state engaged in some phase of the work this year. To those who did not get interested last year, and are not familiar with the rules of the contest, we wish to say that they are very simple. The most important one is that the children must do the work themselves and that the parent or guardian will be required to sign a statement to that effect. In raising garden, some one else may plow the ground and harrow it, but the child must do the rest—the planting, cultivating, harvesting, etc. In raising poultry the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit.

One of the main objects of these contests is to get the boys and girls interested in doing something. To teach them to do something practical, something worth while, something by which they can earn a living when they grow to manhood and womanhood. And the only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself.

Not only that, but in showing something that is not the product of his own effort he is practicing deception, cultivating dishonesty and laying the foundation for a life of dishonesty and trouble. He may be successful in deceiving others. No one but himself and the members of his own family may ever know that he has cheated, but that is enough. In doing what he knows is not right he loses respect for himself, and that is a long step in the wrong direction. When a person loses respect for himself he soon loses the confidence and respect of others. "To thyself be true, and it follows as the day follows night that to no other man thou canst be false." Every child should early in life get this principle firmly fixed in his mind, and through life never depart from it.

Parents, don't think you are favoring your child by giving or loaning him something to take to the fair to win a prize with, for you are not. On the other hand, you are doing him an absolute injustice. You are cheating him out of the valuable experience of learning how to do something, and at the same time educating him to be dishonest. Character building is the most important part of the early education of the child, and the greatest value in these industrial contests is along that line—forming in the child habits of industry, economy, system, honesty, self-reliance and all of the traits that go to make up the good citizen.

There will be many valuable prizes for the children at the state fair next year, but none of them will be worth as much as a clear conscience and the experience gained by raising or making something with which to win the prizes.

money into the country schools and the country school teachers' salaries instead of into supervisors. We should spend more money on individual teachers and get a better grade of teachers. Former President Garfield never spoke truer words than when he said: "A university consists of Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and a student on the other."

No Improvement, He Says.
 "The present salaries will not command the men we need in the supervisory conditions, and as a result there has been much friction. I find on investigation that not one member of the different boards of trustees in my county is in favor of having rural school supervision. The school teachers, of course, think it is all right."

"I find one case where the supervisor visited a certain school once, and called on the teacher in the next district six times during the term."

The speaker declared it was not his intention to oppose improvements in rural schools, but he did not think the supervisory system an improvement. The success or failure of a school, he said, lay entirely with the teacher.

Senator Neuner Will Ask $40,000 for Soldiers' Home.
 With the statement that the Oregon Soldiers' Home at Roseburg is now badly overcrowded and that with a raise on the pension limit there will be a large number of veterans seeking entrance into the home, Senator Neuner, of Douglas, will introduce a bill in the Senate this week asking for $40,000 for an additional building at the home.

Mr. Neuner says that at the present time there are 188 old soldiers at the home, with quarters there to the veterans' care for and house only 150. There are now 12 veterans on the waiting list.

At present no old soldier is allowed in the home who is receiving a pension of more than $20 a month. "Practically all other states place the limit at $30 a month," said Mr. Neuner, in discussing the bill today. "It is merely a question of time before that limit will be placed in Oregon. The question is one for the State Board to decide, and the State Board will be unable to take any action until provision is made for an additional barracks."

Douglas Territory Wanted.
 Parsons, of Lane, presented a bill to create the county of Siuslaw out of the western parts of Lane and Douglas counties, with Florence as the county seat.

Grange Good Roads Bill Again Up; Reames Has One, Also.
 Satisfied that had not the ballot at the last general election been burdened with initiative and referendum measures a bill fathered by the State Grange, giving counties the right to issue bonds to build roads would have carried, Representative Hurd, of Lane County, at the request of the Grange today introduced a duplicate of the bill rejected by the voters.

Representative Reames, of Jackson and Douglas Counties, has also introduced a bill on this subject, and the committee on roads and highways has so far considered it favorably. The two bills are much alike, the difference being that the Reames bill does not provide for the calling of conventions to decide what roads shall be built or the amount of bonds to be issued. His bill provides that upon petition the County Court shall call an election for the purpose of having the people vote bonds and to determine the roads to be built. Another difference is that it provides for the issuance of serial bonds, and that one-twentieth of the sum called for by the bonds issued shall be paid each year.

Laws in the Making.
 Two Senate bills passed the Senate, one providing for rotation of names on the ballot at both the primary and the general election, and for elimination of numbers on the ballot. The other provides that railroads shall make as speedy a change of intrastate traffic as possible.

Memorializing Congress that $1,400,000 becomes immediately available for the completion of the Cello Canal and the opening to free navigation of the Columbia and Snake Rivers that they might be open during the year 1915, Senator Joseph introduced a joint memorial in the Senate today. Similar action was taken today also in the Washington Legislature.

Representative Carpenter introduced in the House today a bill aimed at the paving trust. Its provisions, in substance, are that the lowest bidder shall receive contracts, irrespective of the patented materials, provided competent engineers approve the kind of article such bidder contemplates using.

Ed E. Kiddle was formally seated as State Senator from Union and Wallowa counties by the State Senate today and John S. Hodgkin lost in the effort that was made to unseat Kiddle. The original vote showed that Kiddle was elected by a vote of 2108 to 2104 votes for Hodgkin, but a recount in some precincts put Hodgkin in the lead.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and no ointment will ever be found worth while. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of whiteoxygen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

In fact, we are so sure of what D.D.D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a 25 cent bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.
