Made in Oregon Banquet Is Great Success

SAMUELS SCORES "DEAD ONES"

Douglas County Will Prosper When the People Patronize Home Industries and Institutions of County and State

That the housewife and the local merchant, the investor and the booster might better co-operate and understand each other for the good of the community, 250 people assembled Friday evening at the Presbyterian Church at a banquet given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Commercial Club; and the entire gathering was filled to capacity with the spirit as well as the reality of goods that are made in our own state and county.

With roses that are famous throughout the state decorating the tables, and home products and home cooking loosening the tongues of everyone and also bearing silent testimony that we are more fortunate than we often realize, the evening was a treat to all those present.

Prof. J. W. Groves acted as toastmaster and cleverly added the spice to the program. Hon. L. E. Eddy spoke first on "The Industrial Opportunities in Douglas County." He pointed out that the present need has not digressed materially from that of the early pioneer. His first need was neighbors, then roads, "and now," said Mr. Eddy, "we should undertake a campaign of greater road building, as well as to send out information about our soil and climate and thus increase our neighbors." He believed that the money we spend is not spent advantageously for this purpose.

Mr. E. E. Alex was called on to discuss the stockmen's opportunities. He said that this is the most important business in the county, for it amounts in value of marketed output to more than all the fruit, lumber and grain products together. "Because feed may be had on the ranges all the year around, and ready sale is always assured Douglas County is the best country in the world for livestock purposes."

The farmers' situation was presented by J. E. McClintock, who predicted that within five years our hillsides would be sown to clover and orchard grass, while wheat and oats would be secondary. He also spoke of the value of corn, for which he estimated a return of $1500 on ten acres, in feed value.

"In the fruit business," said O. H. Cash, "the conditions in this county are ideal, but success will depend upon the man. It is necessary to apply business principles and to make a careful study of the methods of production. He believes the time will never come when there will be no market for Oregon's fruit apples. Within five years, he said, the output of our orchards will annually reach 250,000 boxes, and the money they bring will be largely spent in Roseburg, aside from what is paid out for labor."

G. P. Schlosser spoke of transportation facilities in the county and said that the unfair rates charged by the railroads in the past were being changed to the advantage of Roseburg. Our greatest difficulty, he pointed out, was the county road situation. Although we have been spending $145,000 annually, we have got no real, permanent highway outside of this city. "Two permanent highways, one east and west, the other north and south, are necessary and with wise use of the money we are spending these can be constructed."

C. D. Shoemaker spoke on "Public Interests and the Press." He said the chief duty of the newspaper man was not to any individual or class, but to the community. In this age of progressiveness we need new blood and the need is being met by the professional newspaper men who are now being trained in the state universities and schools of journalism. Dr. A. C. Seely gave an interesting talk on "Successful Communities Have Progressive Commercial Clubs," saying that proposition is admitted, without argument. Mrs. H. Jay Stone ably showed how the women could aid the movement to patronize Oregon made goods and urged all the ladies to buy home products.

L. Wimberly, speaking on the subject of "The Home Newspaper," said that as the newspaper is the daily mirror of the every-day life of the community, it is therefore the best possible advertising medium for the community in general.

Mrs. J. E. Sawyers made an appeal for a public park and suggested the property owned by the city near the Deer Creek bridge as a suitable place. To this should be added the residence property in front of it and also the block just across Deer Creek. Together this would make a beautiful park.

Prof. Groves then spoke of introducing manual training and domestic science in the public schools the coming year, leaving the question with the people to consider, whether or not they want them, and suggesting that they present their views to the school board.

L. Samuel, of Portland, the representative of the Oregon Manufacturers' Association, was the last speaker of the evening, and he drew an analogy from the custom of the Elks' lodge, in which they toasted the absent brothers (whom he mentioned as the dead ones). The lack of interest in the "Made in Oregon" movement by those not present who should have been there occasioned this remark. The association he represents in the various manufactures in this state 20,000 people, and they produce annually $95,000,000 worth of goods.

"This amount can be trebled," said Mr. Samuel, "if every citizen in Oregon would make it a point to call for Oregon made goods. Instead of buying blankets and robes manufactured in our own factories at Portland, we have been in the habit of sending east, even to Massachusetts, while the eastern people buy the Oregon product. It is also a fact that goods are manufactured in Oregon under more healthful conditions than in any other state. The 'Supreme Biscuit,' made in Portland, is as good a biscuit as there is on the market, and the sanitary conditions of its manufacture are perfect. 'It is the purpose of this association,' he declared, 'to encourage the use of all Oregon products, and we will have prosperity as soon as all of us pull together.' The mail order business was criticized, as it does not give the local merchants a fair deal, yet he is the only one who will sacrifice his own interest for the customers. Mr. Samuel said that 90 per cent of the expenditures in the world are made by or on behalf of women, so upon them falls the chief burden of supporting the home industries, first of the country, then the state. All were urged to read the advertisements of their home merchants in their home paper, and give to them their patronage."

The bountiful repast served by the ladies of the auxiliary was highly enjoyed and netted a neat sum for the children's playground movement.

Mrs. F. A. Stewart, of Laurel Crest, left for Eugene this afternoon to be gone for three weeks. Last evening Mrs. Stewart entertained the Epworth League upon the lawn at her home, which is two and a half miles from town. The lawn was beautifully decorated with lanterns, and there was excellent music.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Lovejoy and James S. Patterson, of Portland, and Mrs. Lovejoy's sister, Mrs. W. C. Blanchard, of Skagway, Alaska, are in the city, having driven up from Portland by automobile. Mrs. Lovejoy was formerly Dr. Esther Pohle, a prominent physician and club woman of Portland. They are making the trip in Mr. Lovejoy's car, the big brown Laverne. This is practically a new make of car, and Mr. Lovejoy will demonstrate its many features while in the city. Mr. Lovejoy is one of the owners of the Dumbleton farm at Winchester, and they are looking after their interests there while on this trip. Their trip from Portland was a very enjoyable one, with the exception of considerable rain in the upper Willamette Valley. While here the party will visit several of the fruit farms in the Empqua Valley.

J. R. Connors, of the Soldiers' Home, who has been traveling for the Gaule XIV West show, returned Friday evening from points in Western Washington. He says Fred Wright, who is acting as advance agent for the show, was at Raymond, Wash., and was going from there to the cities and towns of Puget Sound. He says Fred is "making good" on his tour so far. Mr. Connors expects to go to Albany on June 29 to begin work for the Barnum show.

SALEM, Ore., June 24.—Mrs. Nettie Foster, of 304 Mill street, Roseburg, has written to Governor West asking him to locate William E. Campbell. She writes:

"I have tried to find him through the pension department, but failed. He drew his April pension at Glendale, Or."

BASEBALL TOMORROW:

YONCALLA VS. ROSEBURG.

Tomorrow the fans will have the pleasure of witnessing one of the fastest games of the season, as Yoncalla is coming with the best they can find in that neck of the woods, with Medley on the mound for them. The local team has been practicing this week and will surely show some fast ball. The boys need the support of the fans, and last Sunday's crowd pleased them. They are therefore trying all the more to satisfy the people.

Do not forget that on June 29 the Harriman Club of Portland will appear on the local diamond, and Manager Wells says he is going to have a team that will take them in on that date. In fact all the boys are working with him to defeat the Harrimans next time.

Sunday's game will be called at 2:30 sharp.

FRUITGROWERS ARRANGE FOR MARKETING PRESENT SEASON'S CROP

Will Meet Again in Two Weeks to Complete Plans—Crop Reports Show the Conditions Favorable

The local fruit growers' association held an important meeting this afternoon, at the office of Kitchen & Black, in this city. Steps were taken toward plans for marketing this year's crops. The board of directors will now hold meetings every two weeks and all fruitgrowers are invited to meet with them. All growers who desire to market their fruit through the association are requested to make the fact known by the next meeting on July 5. They are also requested to make estimates of their probable needs as to boxes, paper or other supplies. A. L. Kitchen and F. W. Hinkley were appointed to see that publicity to this matter for the benefit of the fruitgrowers and all persons interested.

The local association is in communication with the recently established Pacific Northwest Distributors Association and if found satisfactory may arrange to join them. The association here is gaining members right along, so President S. D. Conley reports.

The crop conditions reported today are: Apples, generally fairly good; peaches, fair; prunes, good; berries, fine. Blackberries and loganberries are now beginning to ripen.

Destroy the Marine Laboratory—Porter Charlton Must Go to Italy for Trial For Wife Murder.

(Special to the Evening Review).

VIENNA, June 21.—A dispatch from Athens says that Bulgaria has 200,000 men massed on the Serbian frontier and another force of 70,000 in Macedonia, prepared to attack the Greeks. Despite Russia's attempt to secure peace, Bulgaria demands territorial boundaries which are considered intolerable by Greece and Serbia.

SUFFRAGETTES BURN UNIVERSITY LABORATORY.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 21.—Suffragettes today burned the marine laboratory of the university. Valuable records and instruments were destroyed.

PORTER CHARLTON CANNOT ESCAPE EXTRADITION.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The last hope of Porter Charlton to escape extradition to Italy to stand trial for wife-murder is gone, following a personal appeal by Father Bryan, who was assured that the State Department will instruct the officials to see that justice is done. Further than this the department is helpless. Young Charlton, who is at Hoboken, is said to be suffering from tuberculosis in an advanced stage. It is not believed that his father will make an appeal to President Wilson on this ground.

League Gossip.

George Hammond is out in the country, and his absence coupled with that of Kille, somewhat weakens the Christian team. Dr. DeLapp, however, has a number of players on the roll who fill in well, and the Christian games next week, one with the Methodists and the other with the Baptists, will be hot ones.

L. Whipple may leave next week for the country. He is one of the injured men on the Methodist squad. M. Dunham also may go at any time. Walter Fisher has joined the Methodist squad, and his presence before the end of the season is expected. The absence of these men, Fisher also this spring pitched in the club league at the U. of O. with marked success. The Presbyterians may develop into a dangerous team in the next two weeks. A new man, Naylor, is with them, and if Page, the swift shortstop, gets out, they will be as hard to beat as any team in the league. Consider this lineup: French, catcher; Jackson, 1b; Schlosser, 2b; Naylor, 3b; Page, ss; Thylak, who has been doing so well at Ark; Parsons, pitcher.

er, and they would be a dangerous aggregation.

The Baptist team is in the lead, and the team is in first class condition. The discovery that Cecil Black is a pitcher of ability gives them just what they need, two slabsters. The ability of Jimmie Wright to work behind the bat was demonstrated in a recent game. That fact gives the Christian team three mound men, Mathews, Fitzgerald and Myer, and two or three catchers.

Players want to dig in, for very soon the managers will probably choose an all star team for games against other teams.

Big Game for July Fourth.

An all-star team from Eugene will play the all-star team composed of the best players in the Twilight League of Roseburg on the next Fourth of July. The game will be on the regular Chautauqua program, and will add athletic interest to the day.

The Eugene team will be chosen from the churches of that city, which have been conducting games something on the order of those in Roseburg. The team which has been chosen there is said to be very fast and strong, and will put up a royal battle against the local men.

The managers of the four teams in Roseburg will decide on the personnel of the local nine. This aggregation is also bound to be very fast, and

STALEY IS ENDEAVORING TO GET HIS RELEASE FROM JAIL

More Details of Crime For Which Illinois Fugitive Was Arrested in Roseburg Three Weeks Ago

The Illinois State Register, of Springfield, Illinois, gives a detailed report of the return there of James H. Staley, who was arrested in Roseburg about the first of this month. That paper says:

James Staley, railroad man and owner of this city, under indictment on a charge of murdering Matthew Monahan and wounding Hugh Monahan, his brother, will fight the charge that is against him to the limit. In his cell at the county jail yesterday, after he had been returned to this city from Roseburg, Ore., by Sheriff Henry Meester, the prisoner stated that there were two sides to the story, one of which the public had not heard, and the one which will lighten the charge in the eyes of the law.

Will Seek Admittance to Jail.

Immediately after he arrived in this city Staley secured the services of William S. John Wines, who will start proceedings in the Circuit Court next week to have his client admitted to bail. So far nothing has been done to have Staley admitted to bail, but it is thought that the state attorneys will have no objections to such action, according to the statement made by Attorney Wines yesterday afternoon.

His trial will probably come during the September term. All time from the present will be occupied with other work until court adjourns in August, and Staley's case will probably be taken into court as soon as the September term starts.

Refuses to Discuss Shooting.

Staley arrived in this city at 7 o'clock yesterday morning or 7 the Chicago & Alton Railroad, accompanied by Sheriff Henry Meester, from Roseburg, where his arrest was made some two weeks ago. He was committed to a cell on the upper floor of the county jail. No admittance to see him has been or will be made except by special permit. In his cell yesterday special advice of his counsel, Staley refused to discuss the shooting that occurred here March 18, 1912, at the Monahan saloon, which street and North Grand avenue further than that there were two sides to the argument, and that the wrong man had been slain.

Quarrel Started With Hugh Monahan. When asked how he escaped from the city on the morning the shooting occurred, he told of the episode, but when asked to go into detail stated that any information for the press would have to come through his attorney. He is said to have admitted, however, that the quarrel which started the trouble was not with Matthew Monahan, but with his brother, Hugh, who was wounded, and that it was necessary for him to shoot at Matthew Monahan to protect himself after he had fired several times at Hugh Monahan, who at that time was behind the bar in the saloon.

After he had shot the Monahan brothers he ran from the saloon across the watch factory grounds, and some time later boarded an Illinois Traction car for Decatur, believing that the authorities would think that he would leave by freight train. In Decatur he remained in hiding for several days and then made good his escape to Chicago, where he remained for some time.

Tells of His Wanderings.

He was never out of employment for any length of time from the time he left this city until the time he was placed under arrest. From Chicago he went into Michigan and Minnesota, where, while he was hounded by the police, he was still able to keep employed. While in the northern part of the country he was compelled to quit work for some time because of an abscess, which later on in his wanderings was mistaken for a scar, supposedly sustained while in Mexico.

Didn't Go to Mexico.

While Staley yesterday said that he had been in Mexico, he denied the story that he had joined the rebel forces during the recent rebellion, and was wounded during a conflict in that country. He told his attorney that he had never been in Mexico while a fugitive from the local authorities. Most of his time, Staley said, was spent in Glendive, Mont., where he made his headquarters, and where he had built up a business in the contracting line.

Staley said he did a considerable business, and was on his way to Roseburg, where he had secured a contract to build a fence near that city. Part of his time, however, was spent in working on ranches in Montana.

Wife Tried to Meet Him.

Sheriff Henry Meester, while in Roseburg, received a telegram from Staley's wife at San Diego, Cal., stating that she was permitted to visit her husband at some point during the trip east. She had not seen him since the day of the shooting. The Sheriff consented and arranged for a meeting in San Francisco, Cal., where he had to wait some two hours for a train east. Mrs. Staley failed to appear, however, and Sheriff Meester again made arrangements for a meeting at a point four hundred miles east of the western coast. Sickness had prevented Mrs. Staley from arriving at the point in time to see her husband. She is still in the West, but is expected back before Staley's trial.

Confinement Is Close.

In his cell yesterday Staley expressed sorrow for the death of Matthew Monahan. He did not seem greatly worried over his fate, and talked with his jailers throughout the day. No visitors, however, will be permitted to see him, with the exception of the members of his own family and the attorney for his defense.

LIGHTNING STRIKES NEW YORK SKYSCRAPER.

NEW YORK, June 21.—New York is recovering from one of the worst tempests of wind, lightning and rain in its history. Trees have been blown down, and half and rain have flooded the sidewalks. A bolt of lightning struck the foremast of the steamer La France, at quarantine, its sails being being struck. The Woolworth building, the tallest in the city, was struck by lightning. The temperature fell from 84 degrees to 64 in three hours.

A battered telegraph grip containing some greasy clothing apparently discarded by some machinist, was picked up on the river bank in this city yesterday by Sheriff Meester. It is R. Garner was a fugitive carrying the grip a short time before, and the man had taken it to where it was found and rifled the contents, which were of little value. The Sheriff has been unable to locate the owner of the grip or the clothing.
