HAPPENED IN OREGON.

The Booth-Kelly Lumber Co. this week shipped from Wendling four large logs to be used as pillars in the construction of the Oregon building at the Panama Exposition. The logs were 50 inches across at the top, and will be used in their natural state. There are to be 48 of these pillars—one for each state in the Union—and a state banner will surmount each. A number have been shipped from Coos Bay.

A passing track, fully a mile long, and extending from near the Springfield station almost to Mohawk Junction, will soon be constructed by the Southern Pacific, according to statements given out in Portland.

Becoming frightened at an approaching auto, a horse belonging to J. D. Barber, which was being led behind a wagon Thursday evening on Market street in Salem, plunged into a telephone pole by the side of the road, and a spike, which is used for the purpose of climbing the pole, struck the animal in the forehead and passed through the skull the full length of the iron, which was about six inches. The unfortunate brute lost about a gallon of blood, but despite the terrible wound, Dr. W. G. Morehouse, the veterinarian, believes he can save the animal's life.

Since January 1 the Ashland police have handled 2984 wayfarers, and since the first of November last almost six thousand have passed through Ashland. During the past month 954 have been housed at the police station and passed on. This shows from 20 to 54 have been handled each day during the month.

"Another puncture," he said. Then he swore. But it wasn't a puncture. It was a pinched tube. Inner tube had slipped under edge of the casing. Never could have happened had the man been using Goodyear No-Rim-Cut Tires. They always hold tight against the rim. Have 126 braided piano wires in the bead which do the trick. Tube can't get under.

For this and other reasons we push Goodyear No-Rim-Cut Tires. We carry a fresh supply at all times, in your size—smooth tread or "All-Weather." Drop in. See these tires before you spend any more money for tires.

WHILE ROSEBURG SLEEPS.

Out with the hatchets, boys, out with the knives,
And let the old scrapping go on;
Let the fitting survive, it's the fight for our lives,
And our hammers must start with the dawn.

What matter if railroads and mills pass us by?
What matter if payrolls are lost?
It is war to the hilt, till our enemies wilt,
It is not we, who reckon the cost.

Oh, we boost, now and then, boost some newcomer out,
We can drown any cheer with a groan,
While the other towns fight for the mills and the like,
We do all our fighting at home.

Arthur Woods, Police Commissioner of New York.

New York's new police head, Arthur Woods, is no novice in the business, having previously served as deputy commissioner of the department. Shortly after Mayor Mitchel took office he appointed Mr. Woods to be his secretary, and when it became apparent that Colonel Goethals of Panama canal fame would not accept the police commissionership of New York city Mr. Woods was named for the position.

Arthur Woods, the new police commissioner of New York city, is forty-three years old and is a graduate of Harvard of the class of 1892. In politics he is a Progressive. Before removing to New York he was a master at the Groton school in Massachusetts, where Colonel Roosevelt's sons received their preparatory education. In the summer of 1905 he went to the Philippines as a member of the party headed by ex-President Taft, who was then secretary of war in the Roosevelt cabinet. In 1907 Mr. Woods went abroad to study police systems in England and on his return was appointed fourth deputy commissioner under General Theodore A. Bingham. In that capacity he had supervision of the detective bureau, the bureau of repairs and supplies and the school of recruits. After the removal of General Bingham by Mayor McClellan, Mr. Woods went to Mexico, where for a time he was the superintendent of a mining camp in the Pacific coast state of Colima.

Last fall he was one of the managers of the fusion campaign.

An Alabama Statesman.

When Representative Oscar W. Underwood assumes the senatorial toga he won in the recent state primaries in Alabama he will have completed twenty years of service in the lower house of congress. For many of those years he has been a power in framing legislation and since Champ Clark's accession to the speakership has been the leader of the majority on the floor of the house. Mr. Underwood's opponent for the long term in the United States senate was Richmond P. Hobson, known to fame as the hero of the sinking of the freighter Merrimac in Santiago bay during the Spanish war. While Mr. Underwood won in the primaries, the actual election will take place next November at the general election. This will be merely a ratification of the primaries.

A native of Kentucky, Mr. Underwood's boyhood days were spent in Minnesota, whither his parents removed at the outbreak of the civil war. Later he returned to Louisville, where he was prepared for college. In 1882, at the age of twenty, he entered the Law school of the University of Virginia and after his graduation went to Birmingham, Ala., to practice his profession. Ten years later he was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress and has since been regularly returned to represent the Ninth Alabama district. Mr. Underwood's paternal grandfather, John W. Underwood, sat in the United States senate as the representative of Kentucky and the colleague of Henry Clay. At the Democratic national convention at Baltimore in 1912 Mr. Underwood was a candidate for the presidential nomination.
