HOMES OF THE NAVAJOS.

Stuffy Winter Hogs and Light and Airy Summer "Cottages."

The Navajos are the least gregarious of native American tribes, never congregating in towns and villages and never forming permanent communities. Their homes, called hogans, are mere hovels, built of stones or the trunks and limbs of trees, with round roofs thickly covered with earth. A smoke vent in the roof and a doorway in the side are the only means of ventilation. In cold weather these cave-like structures are kept tightly closed, so that no one but an Indian could live in them at all.

But when springtime comes the Navajo squaw constructs a summer cottage, sometimes consisting of no more than a windbreak of sagebrush around a circular clear space. Sometimes the summer hogan is a shade bower under a desert cedar tree, with leafy branches piled around as a measure of protection against winds and sandstorms. Sometimes it is a shelter formed by the utilization of old pieces of canvas, sheet iron and other cast away material picked up around the refuse dumps of the railroad towns. In any event, the dwellers in the summer hogans are practically in the open all the time. Fresh air is never for a moment excluded. —Christian Herald.

NAILS IN STONE WALLS.

Easy Method of Placing Them So They Will Remain Firm.

Few women know how to drive a nail into a brick wall, and yet it is what they often need to do for themselves if there is no man about.

The following method is easy and has been found entirely satisfactory: Having decided upon the exact spot into which the nail is desired to be driven, which must be in the plaster between the bricks, provide yourself with a hammer and screwdriver. With these tools commence working out the hard plaster by tapping the handle of the screwdriver. As the plaster turns to dust it must be blown or dusted out so that the size of the hole may be seen.

When a space about one inch long and nearly one inch deep has been worked out get a small piece of wood about the same size and with the hammer wedge it tightly into the space. When it seems firm take the nail and drive it into the wood. It will go in nicely, without bending, and remain firm an indefinite length of time. This same method was used at one time when it was decided to hang a hammock between the fence and the wall, with the exception that the hole was dug out a little longer and deeper than for an ordinary nail. —Minnesota Journal.

RIDDLE AND VICINITY.

(Riddle Tribune).

Joe Rhodes, Mike Swarts and Frank Harmon departed Tuesday morning for Klamath county, where they will look over the country and probably engage in hay making during a part of the summer.

Mrs. M. F. Earl, wife of the local signal maintainer, arrived the last of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Earl have established their residence in a tent house in the Cedar Grove, where they will enjoy outdoor life during the summer.

Miss Mellie Quine returned home from Grants Pass Tuesday, after spending several months there, recovering from a surgical operation. Miss Quine went to Grants Pass to make a short visit with friends, but was taken seriously ill, the developments of the case making the operation necessary.

R. W. Wallace, a timber and farming lands investor of Everett, Wash., was here the latter part of the week, looking over the country and made an inspection of this valley in company with L. P. Gardner and H. A. Nasor, being well acquainted with many of Mr. Nasor's old neighbors at Everett. Mr. Wallace was very favorably impressed with what he saw here and announced his intention to return in the near future.

A baseball team composed of players from Riddle and Canyonville under the colors of Riddle will go to Roseburg Saturday, the last day of the Strawberry Carnival to cross bats with the home team of Roseburg. The game will be played on the grounds in North Roseburg. The line up of the Riddle team will be: Bollenbaugh, c.; Cooper, p.; Willis, 1b; Crosby, 2b; Kimmel, ss; Mattice, 3b; Cornutt, cf; Lewis, Mellor, lf; Briggs, rf; Martin, sub catcher; Swarts, sub pitcher; Quill, Mellor, sub 1b.

Ed. Joelsyn reports seeing a pair of Hungarian Partridge, with a flock of young, numbering at least five or six, this week, near the Garnant home a short distance from town, which is evidence that some of these birds at least are nesting and adapting themselves to local conditions. These birds were imported from Austria last fall and distributed over the state by the State Game Commission. Many China pheasant nests have been reported of late, and some have already hatched. S. L. Bigelow, who received a shipment of pheasants from the state game farm not long ago, reports finding two nests on his ranch in Orchard Valley.

Graduating exercises were held in connection with the local school last Friday night, when a large crowd assembled in Sell hall to witness the exercises. A miscellaneous program of vocal and instrumental music, sketches, etc., was presented by the pupils and friends, the whole being under the auspices of the Parent Teachers' Association. Professor Robley, lately of Iowa, made the address of the evening, and B. F. Burnett, chairman of the board of directors, presented the diplomas to the graduates, viz.: Iva McGilvray, Ethel Blackford, Lola Newman, the Vaqueiro Thompson, Lawrence Boyle and Arthur Smith.

Otto H. Watzig, who is co-operating with the German department of the Oregon State Immigration Commission writes that C. C. Chapman, state immigration agent, is getting interested in this part of Douglas county, and wants Mr. Watzig to get him as large a list of lands for sale as he can. Mr. Watzig is very busy with his own work just at this time and would be glad to have land owners who have property for sale to hand the lists to him or mail them to Canyonville. The people of this valley should not overlook this splendid opportunity to attract newcomers here, as what this country needs more than any other one thing is more people of the right sort. If you have any land for sale drop a line to Mr. Watzig, or tell him what you have.

In our report of the Choral Club concert in yesterday's issue, the name of Mrs. Claude Smith was omitted by mistake. This lady, who played the orchestral accompaniment with Mrs. Sheppard, was one of the star performers of the evening and her name was frequently mentioned by the musical critics present in the highest terms of praise. The difficult music of the great composer was rendered with a finish and perfection which marks Mrs. Smith as an artist of great merit.
