IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Joe Tinker, Manager of the Chicago Cubs.

Photo by American Press Association.

In many ways Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago National league team, is the most interesting person in organized baseball. For many years he played shortstop on the Chicago pennant winning teams managed by Chance. But it was as a teammate of Johnnie Evers, now captain of the Boston Braves, that his skill at short made him famous. Fans say today that the Tinker-Evers combination has never been exceeded on the ball field. Tinker's defection from organized ball was the turning point in favor of the Federal league and enabled that combination to fight the two older leagues to a finish. He managed the Chicago Feds last year and won the pennant. He expresses confidence that he will repeat that feat in this year's race in the National league.

Willard Stands Alone.

Those who make a close study of the pugilistic situation assert that there is no heavy weight in sight who would have a chance of beating Jess Willard. If the champion does not decide to quit the ring it is not likely that any one could be developed within the next few years who could defeat him. It is likely that Willard will have to retire undefeated. If he does he can present his title to any one whom he considers qualified to take it. In 1885 Jim Jeffries did this when he decided to retire. He received a bout between Marvin Hart and Jack Root at Reno and presented his heavyweight title to Hart, the winner of the bout. "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien also claimed it, but his claim was ignored, and the championship went to Hart, who was later defeated by Tommy Burns. Jack Johnson got the title when he defeated Burns. Jack McAuliffe also retired undefeated as lightweight champion, his title going to Kid Lavigne, who he thought was best qualified to take it.

Ben Sayers to Visit America.

Writing recently from his home at North Berwick, Scotland, Ben Sayers declared that the Merion club's links, where the next amateur championship is to be held, is a thorough test and justifies its selection. His son George is a professional there, so Ben knows every inch of the ground. The latter compares it to the Deaf (England) course despite its inland location. Ben, by the way, can't help crowing a little over the fact that, although he is not yet 40 (the oldest "pro" active in competition), he qualified with the same score as Mike Brady, Boston's young star, and Jim Donaldson, Chicago's dependency in course record breaking, in last year's United States open championship. Besides, Sayers was two strokes better than Outback. Ben is soon to sail for this country again, to remain six months. It will be his third visit here.

Blue Blood Tells.

A wire haired fox terrier which carried off several cups at the Del Monte (Cal.) dog show recently and was sold for $500 by Hugh McCracken, a dog fancier, had its "past" revealed when it was learned that the cup winner was impounded a year ago by a policeman who caught the terrier, a vagrant living in a vacant house, sore eyed and lame, making a living by trailing a milkman and tapping the bottles on front porches. The dog was bought from the pound for $3, nursed to health, entered in the dog show and his blue blood proved.

War Heroes as Cadillacs.

A new solution of the riddle problem is being tried out at the Walton Heath links in Great Britain. Here the aged and infirm are given precedence over boys who ought to be in school or usual haunts. It is hoped that many soldiers who are partially incapacitated by the war will be able to earn a living by this method. The old men are guaranteed a minimum sum of 10 shillings a week and are allowed to keep everything they earn in excess of this amount.

British Golfers Abandon Trip.

British golf professionals will not invade the United States this year. It has been announced that Vardon, Taylor and Braid have abandoned their projected American tour as unwise.

WILL SLOAN'S LINIMENT RELIEVE PAIN?

Try it and see--one application will prove more than a volume of claims. James S. Ferguson, Phila., Pa., writes: "I have had wonderful relief since I used Sloan's Liniment on my knees. Don't keep on suffering, apply Sloan's Liniment where any pain is and notice how quick you get relief. Penetrates without rubbing. Buy it at any drug store. 25c."
