Water Rates Lowered

Word has been received here from Salem to the effect that the Oregon Public Service Commission has made some changes in the water rates affecting Glendale and other southern Oregon towns. While the rates have not been lowered materially, discriminations have been removed and the consumers will be better satisfied with conditions.

People Are Profane

A woman was arrested down at Yoncalla the other day and fined by the recorder for using profane language, says the Myrtle Creek Mail. Yoncalla people are either over-sensitive or else see Myrtle Creekers as hardened to such things. At least no official complaint is taken of the bunch of carstone cussers here in town, who practice their disgusting habit in the presence of all passers-by.

Suffers Broken Arm

Mrs. J. J. Robertson, of Green, sustained a broken arm Saturday morning from a fall. It was broken just above the wrist. It is said that Mrs. Robertson was playing a rat at the time she sustained the fall. She was attended by Dr. E. V. Trovner, who made an X-Ray photo of the fracture.

Leaves For Seattle

J. H. King and wife, of the Bush Street, will leave here Monday for an automobile trip to Portland, Bend and other distant places. They expect to be gone for about two weeks and are looking ahead to a good time.

WILL OPEN COMMISARY

SOMETIME NEXT WEEK;

SUPPLIES ARE NEEDED

W. H. Hiney, who is employed in the forestry service, will leave for Rulinda, Lane County, late this evening when he will be placed in charge of the commissary to be established by the Government at that point.

The establishment of a store there has been necessitated because of the many fires that have been discovered recently in different parts of the National forests. Supplies are now purchased from private concerns and the cost is considerably more than when the Government operates its own commissary. Mr. Hiney is said to be experienced in this work, having been previously employed in similar capacities at other points.

W. E. R. John, of Sutherlin, spent this afternoon in the city visiting with friends and looking after business matters.

Letters received here from Grants Pass today state that Bighar J. D. Fry, who was stricken with paralysis a week ago, is still in a critical condition. He had not regained consciousness since suffering the stroke. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. T. Fry, who was visiting at Silver Lake, has returned to Grants Pass.

CAR STARTED ACCIDENTLY STRIKES OTHERS; THREE MACHINES ARE JAMMED

Starting ahead when the car was supposedly left in neutral, the heavy Studebaker touring car recently purchased by Charles Beckley, of Dixonville, this morning crashed into a Ford in front of the Grand Hotel and then ran the second machine into the rear of another Ford, owned by Harry Mathews, also of Dixonville. Before the Studebaker could be stopped, the three machines were driven for a distance of over 20 feet, finally being halted by striking a pile of gravel and other material lying in front of the Federal building. The incident attracted a large crowd of people.

The immediate sequel to the event was staged a few minutes later when the parties were taken to the city recorder's office to attempt to settle the damages. W. L. Gregory, of Portland, a service man in the employ of the Studebaker company, admitted starting the Beckley machine, and for a short time it was thought he would be charged with violating the traffic ordinances. Gregory was a obstinate, however, and the matter was only adjusted after the parties went into private consultation, and Mr. Beckley promised to give satisfaction outside of court. The charges against Gregory were then dropped.

According to those seeing the accident, Gregory started the heavier machine with a view of testing the carburetor. He supposed the car had been left in neutral gear and did not even take the driver's seat. He had one foot on the ground and with the other pressed the self-starter. The machine then started and he was unable to stop it until it had done the damage.

Mr. Beckley said he asked Gregory to look after the carburetor. The Ford ahead was owned by L. D. Sherman, a tourist from California, and was damaged to the extent of broken lamps and bent fenders. The Matthews machine was damaged but slightly.

HOLD LAND SALE ON SEPTEMBER 15

THE TRACTS TO BE SOLD ARE INDIAN ALLOTMENTS AND ARE LOCATED IN VARIOUS PARTS OF OREGON AND CALIFORNIA—MANY BIDS EXPECTED

SOME LANDS ARE VALUABLE

The Sale Will be Held Under the Direction of C. E. Cox, Superintendent of the Roseburg Indian Agency

E. E. Cox, superintendent of the local Indian agency, announced this afternoon that another land sale would be held under the direction of that office situated in Northern California, Curry County, and in Central Oregon.

The last land sale, which was held about two months ago was very successful and bids were received from many parts of the Pacific Northwest. Some of the more desirable tracts brought good prices, while the more inferior tracts were sold for lesser figures. While not all of the lands offered for sale by the Indian Department will not pay dividends, many of them are fertile and can be made to give abundant crops with proper cultivation. This is true of all lands contained in the public domain, according to Mr. Cox.

Advertisements for bids for the lands to be offered for sale by the Indian Department will be out in a few days and will be circulated over the country. The sale will be conducted under the personal direction of Mr. Cox, who has charge of the Indian affairs in this vicinity.

Mrs. Helen Vining left this afternoon for Yoncalla, where she will spend a few days.

Miss Delpha Enos, who has been visiting here, returned to her home in Portland this afternoon.

FRANK NEUNER LIKES TRAINING CAMP LIFE; HARD WORK REPORTED

Mr. and Mrs. George Neuner this morning received a letter from their son, Frank Neuner, who is attending the officers' training camp at the Presidio. In his letter to his parents, the young man says the boys have experienced much hard work and those persons who thought they were going to San Francisco to enjoy a vacation were disappointed. The boys arise at 5:30 o'clock in the morning and the routine continues until after 8 o'clock at night. An hour later the boys must be in bed, unless given a leave of absence by one of the officers in charge of the camp.

Although having received no commission, Mr. Neuner says he is in charge of drilling some of the men. Final examinations are now in progress and the assignments will be made within the next few days. It is Mr. Neuner's opinion that many of those who are attending the camp will receive commissions, and will later be assigned to the various forts situated in different parts of the United States.

FRUIT UNION CONSIDERS CHARGES

MEETING HELD TODAY TO HEAR REPORT FROM EXPERT, WHO WAS HIRED TO GO OVER THE BOOKS OF FORMER BOOK-KEEPER, F. H. DAVIES

MANY IRREGULARITIES SHOWN

Accountant Shows Growers Result of Broccoli Season. After Complete Review of Business—Directors Take Up Case

Although no definite action was taken in regard to charges against F. H. Davies, former bookkeeper for the Umpqua Valley Fruit Union, more than 50 broccoli growers were present at the union's headquarters in North Roseburg this morning, when the meeting was held to hear the season's report and learn the extent of various irregularities in accounts.

The report was made by H. W. Collins, of Portland, an expert accountant hired by the directors of the union to go over Mr. Davies' books. The accountant declared that every item in the books had to be checked over, and that many had been omitted which had to be supplied, before even an approximate understanding of the firm's affairs could be determined. The growers contented themselves with learning the results of the broccoli season from Mr. Collins this morning, and the directors took up the case of Mr. Davies with the accountant this afternoon. At a late hour the directors were still talking, and it probably will not be learned before Monday what steps will be taken toward seeking satisfaction for the alleged shortages. According to the figures presented by the expert, the shortages may amount to more than $1,000. Mr. Davies was discharged about a month ago, and is now in Los Angeles, after being confronted with an accusation by the board of directors.

The report, which was prepared by Mr. Collins, places the average return on the broccoli crop at $1.04 a crate, for the first grade produce, 84 cents for second grade, and 62 cents for third grade produce. The total return was over $21,000. Eight per cent of this amount, however, will be retained by the union. In explanation of the low price, several of the officials pointed out that the 1917 crop was greatly inferior on account of the cold weather last winter and that many of the cars were handled at a deficit. New plans were discussed this afternoon, and one advanced was that of pooling the product in each car separately. It is believed, however, that no change will be made from the methods employed in marketing heretofore.
