Junior Chautauqua.
Miss Mildred Goodrow has charge of the junior chautauqua, and judging from the energy with which she began her work this morning, she will prove to be one of the best that has yet been sent to Roseburg. Miss Goodrow is considered by Ellison-White as one of their very best junior chautauqua leaders. She has a degree from an eastern university and is also a graduate of Northwestern, from which institution Ellison-White secure most of their junior leaders.

Every morning at 9 o'clock Miss Goodrow will meet the youngsters of the city at the chautauqua tent and will teach them new games and tell them stories. She is also training them for a pageant, which will be given by the juniors the last day of chautauqua and which will be a spectacular affair. Every one of the kiddies will have a part in the pageant. Miss Goodrow carries with her the costumes and music for the affair and will train the children in their parts during the week.

Mrs. Hazel Packard Marjory will be here the last day to inspect the work done by Miss Goodrow and to witness the pageant. Mrs. Marjory travels over the entire circuit of chautauqua supervising the work done by the junior girls.

Mrs. Robert H. McCreddie delivered the lecture this morning, presenting her subject, "The American Girl's Americanism," in a particularly pleasing way. Mrs. McCreddie is a speaker and club woman of much note and it is not often that a woman appears on the local platform who is as gifted as Mrs. McCreddie.

In the opinion of many, the Lewis Military Quartette, which appeared this afternoon, furnished the most attractive music that has appeared yet this season on the chautauqua platform. Four soldier boys selected from the thousands of singers who found their way to Camp Lewis, made up the quartette and each and every one of them is an excellent singer.

Their program was varied, ranging from the classical selections to the favorites of the soldiers in the cantonments. Clever parodies, popular soldier songs and ballads made up their program and each selection delighted the audience. Following the quartette, Dr. Elliot A. Boyd delivered an address on the "Advantages of a Handicap."

For tonight the program has been somewhat changed. At latest reports, Hon. William Jennings Bryan may not reach Roseburg until the 19.15 train tonight, and will appear at the big tent immediately thereafter. Prior to Mr. Bryan's appearance the Lewis Military Quartette will sing and Edwin M. Whitney will give a series of miscellaneous readings. The program will begin at 8 o'clock sharp.

Married Here Today--
Harry D. Mathews, of Dixonville, and Miss Helen Emery, of Umpqua, were united in marriage at the M. J. parsonage, Rev. J. C. Spencer officiating, at noon today. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple were given a luncheon at the Umpqua hotel, attended by a few close friends and relatives. Mr. Mathews is a prominent farmer of the Dixonville district, where the young couple will probably reside. Miss Emery is a daughter of Mrs. W. T. Emery, who is now residing in California, she has been living with her brother, Loyal Emery, of Umpqua.

Miss Lena Porter, who had been visiting her parents at Ten Mile, left this afternoon for Oakland, where she will visit for several days before continuing on to Salem, where she is employed.

necessities of life could not be secured. That Russia will again come into her own, that ignorance will be displaced by a knowledge of the affairs of the world, and of their nation in particular, Dr. Clark feels assured. Conditions are terrible there now, however, and about ten million persons have died of starvation. Factories are closed and means of transportation is wholly inadequate. Russia is a very productive country, but the large farmers now grow only enough for their own use, fearing confiscation under the terrible misrule of Bolshevism which is far worse than under the dictatorship of the Czar. Bolshevism, Dr. Clark believes, is bound to collapse of its own weight, and it does not have the support of the mass of the Russian people. They are pronounced "fatalists" and therefore endure their burdens, rather than attempting to throw them off.

His lecture was extremely interesting and well worth while. Dr. Clark is a pleasing speaker, and his wit and humor are irresistible.

Sunday Program Features.
Dr. A. D. Carpenter, scientist, theologian and astronomer, proved the feature of Sunday afternoon. Although his subject was in a way "above the heads" of his audience, his lecture on "Worlds in the Making" was so simply discussed that one with the slightest knowledge of astronomy could not fail to grasp his meaning.

He dealt with astronomy in the simplest way, and his talk was warmly appreciated by the audience. Pertinent facts brought out by Dr. Carpenter shed a new gleam on the astronomical knowledge of the audience, and his explanations of some of the phenomena of nature were surprisingly clear.

"The Light of the Milky Way," which you see any clear night, has been 20,000 years reaching this earth," asserted the doctor. "When the pyramids, now approximately 5,000 years old, were first constructed, the light of the Milky Way had been on the way to us for 25,000 years."

And the sun, he assured the sweltering audience, is 93,000,000 miles away, and is very gradually being condensed into a smaller body. All of which the Roseburg audience was glad to hear, but which fact they may have been a trifle skeptical of, considering the temperature under the chautauqua tent.

The light travels at the rate of 182,000 miles per second, and the rays of the sun reach us in approximately eight minutes. Dr. Carpenter says that he firmly believes that many other worlds, besides the one on which we live, have life and probably as high or higher state of civilization than this one.

The prelude to Dr. Carpenter's lecture, by the Fillion concert party, was very good. Professor Fillion is a violinist of rare ability. Miss Goltz, the other active member of the company, is seriously ill at Astland, and could not appear with the company yesterday, but Professor Fillion and his splendid accompanist did their best to make up for the absence of the singer.

Miss Jessie Laurance, who had been visiting in Roseburg with her cousin, Mrs. S. L. Green, returned to her home atillard this morning.

Carl Stebbinger, who has the contract for the erection of the California Packing Co's new prune packing plant, now going up on Winchester street, left yesterday for Salem on business.

O. A. C. Regents Visit--

Hon. J. K. Weatherford and wife, of Albany; Hon. Jefferson Myers and wife, of Portland, and Addison Bennett, of the Portland Oregonian, arrived here from the south about 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening and spent the night here. The two former gentlemen are regents of the Oregon Agricultural college and were on a tour of the agricultural experiment stations of the state. President W. J. Kerr and others of the party took the train north from Glendale, their auto having broken down, before leaving here Sunday morning. The party visited for a short time at the home of Hon. J. H. Booth. They report a most interesting trip.

Expecting Bond Money--

John Karis, one of the Scottsburg robber gang, who languishes in the county jail awaiting trial charged with assault and robbery, and who was released from custody on $2,000 bail prior to entering a plea before Judge Hamilton, is today expected to again obtain his liberty. His bond was raised from $2,000 to $3,000, and the prisoner telephoned Portland friends this morning to raise that amount.

Long Range Forecast--

Weather Observer Bell this morning received a long range forecast of the weather of this section. It follows: "Today, Tuesday and Wednesday continued warm, with gentle, variable winds. Thursday, probable thunderstorms in mountains, cooler."

Automobiles Collide--

A Cadillac automobile, driven by E. L. Parrott, of this city, and a Maxwell, driven by D. N. Rosenback, of Medford, collided at the intersection of Jackson and Oak streets at about 10 o'clock last night, resulting in the latter car being somewhat damaged. Mr. Parrott was proceeding north on Jackson street and Mr. Rosenback was traveling west on Oak when the collision occurred. Mr. Parrott stated that he did not notice the approach of the other car until too late to avoid striking it. The damage to the Maxwell was slight and no one was injured.

Small Forest Fires--

According to information received at the local forestry office this morning, two or three small fires are reported raging in the timbered districts in the Steamboat vicinity. Mr. Rosenbrake stated, however, that the fire was well under control.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Fowler and Little Daughter, Louise, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Fowler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Althaus, left for their home in Portland this afternoon.
