WARSAW

March 16.—(By Mail).—Major Joseph C. Stehlin, a 23-year-old aviator of Brooklyn, N. Y., who already has fought in three armies, has gone to Riga to enlist under the Lettish flag in the war against the Russian Bolsheviks. If his services are accepted he will have served under four flags in four years. The colors of France, America, Poland and Latvia, in turn, have won his allegiance.

Since last fall Major Stehlin has been fighting in the aviation branch of the Polish army and in that service took part in the Polish drive which threw the Bolsheviks out of Dvinsk.

Stehlin, who was formerly a lifeguard at Sheepshead bay, Brooklyn, went to France in January, 1917, and joined the French flying corps, where he won two citations and was promoted to be sergeant for aiding fellow aviators attacked by German planes.

When the American army came over to France Stehlin transferred his allegiance to the American flag, received a commission as first lieutenant of aviators, and took part in actions in the Champagne, Verdun and Soissons sectors. After the armistice he returned to the United States and is said to have joined the aviation section of the New York police as captain.

Last September he joined the Polish forces recruited in New York, was commissioned as captain, came to Poland and was assigned to duty on the northeastern front. He spent four months with a Polish flying squadron, the only American with the Poles on that particular front, and participated in all the aviation work preceding and during the Polish attack on the Bolsheviks in the region of Dvinsk.

Stehlin has flown over parts of France, Belgium, Spain, Russia, Poland, Lithuania and the United States, and has hopes soon of seeing Latvia and Riga from the air in his service with the Lettish.

Major Stehlin says he has no idea what vocation he will take up if the war should end over here, but he feels certain that he can never go back to the prosaic duties of a lifeguard at the beach. That game is not exciting enough for a man not yet 24, who has fought under four flags.

CLEARING GROUND FOR NEW GARAGE

Workmen today started breaking ground for the Miceli-Hoover garage, to be erected on North Jackson street on the space now occupied by China Sam's store. The building now occupied by China Sam will not be torn down until he has had sufficient opportunity to move his stock to a new location. A large sum to assist the aged merchant was raised by the sale of tags Saturday and he will soon be provided with a new location. The concrete garage will be rushed to a hasty completion and when finished will be occupied by the Service Garage company, which will be composed of Glenn Taylor and his brother from Albany, who are to operate a complete garage in addition to an auto sales agency.

PLANS FOR SCHOOL BUILDING RECEIVED

County School Superintendent O. C. Brown this morning received the plans for the proposed $20,000 high school building which the voters of Roseburg are now considering. An election will be held within the very near future for the purpose of considering the issuance of bonds in that sum, and as the sentiment is very strong for the erection of such a structure, it is quite probable that it will be built. The plans were drawn by Architect Bergdorf of Albany and provide for a building two stories in height with all the latest and most modern conveniences and appliances. It is proposed to consolidate the several districts in that locality for the purpose of building this fine structure. According to law, the plans must be approved by the county superintendent before the school house can be built.

ROBBERS CAUGHT AT WORK

They scoured the roads in the district until 1:45 p. m., when they happened upon the two robbers, guns drawn and searching the members of two automobile parties at a smaller avenue and Donovan street. A few blocks inside the city limits, "Put up your hands," one of the deputies called out. Scott had not stepped out of the machine yet. The deputy's command was met with a fusillade of shots from the robbers. The deputies sought cover, better to shoot at the outlaws from the backs of persons standing in the roadway with their hands up and then opened fire. More than a score of shots were exchanged. Amid the din of shot the deputies called out, "Get out of the car." The robbers, pointing their guns at the deputies, H. A. Egan, of 1920 Rainier avenue, commanded him to speed up. Scott found head in auto.

With the disappearance of the machine down the road, the deputies came into the open, calling on Scott to start their car. Scott remained motionless in his seat. On reaching his side he was found dead, the bullet having struck his neck. He was turned inside out by the robbers and his gun and money were seized.

The deputies reported some time later that they were unable to give any clue because the wiring on their car had been cut by the robbers. In the meantime, Egan urged his car to the scene of the robbery in the hope of finding the car in the seat behind him to still find it was slackened speed.

Robber kills "Pal" in car.

He had been under way but a few minutes when a shot was fired in the machine. Egan tried to stop the car but he was unable to do so. He heard the voice of only one man who thrust the muzzle of a gun against his head and shouted to him to speed up faster. The car was making better than 50 miles an hour when police car flashed by, going to the scene of the robbery.

At First avenue and Pike street, the heart of the business district, Egan was ordered to stop. Covering him with a revolver the robber searched his companion, taking money, jewelry and a revolver from his pockets and then departed to-
