Resignation Is Accepted Today

WASHINGTON, April 16.—R. C. Leasingwell, assistant to the secretary of the treasury, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson.

More Publicity Books Needed

As a result of the visit to this city of J. H. O'Neal, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific railroad, the chamber of commerce this morning received a communication from Wm. McMurray, general passenger agent, requesting that there be sent booklets of this county to R. A. Smith, supervisor of agriculture for the Union Pacific at Omaha.

This is the third request the local chamber of commerce has had for a shipment of booklets for distribution to people who are interested in Oregon, and in each request the writers have been most complimentary in their remarks concerning the fund of information and the condensed form of the books. They also have said that these books come nearer stating actual facts and conditions without devoting many pages to generalities, than many other books of that nature.

The chamber of commerce is handicapped in the ordering of more of these books by the insufficient funds available to have another edition printed at this time. They are endeavoring at the present time to secure enough money so that it will be possible to place these books on publicity desks in this country.

Communists Are Sentenced to Pen

By Associated Press. PORTLAND, April 16.—Karl Oster, convicted of criminal syndicalism on March 29th, was sentenced to the state penitentiary for five years by Circuit Judge Morrow. Claud Hurst got two years and Fred Fry was paroled under a two-year sentence. They were all members of the Communist labor party.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE by the noted author Idah McGlone Gibson

A MOMENTOUS DECISION.

"What has my stupid brother been doing now?" asked Alice again.

"He has asked me to send him the key to my safety deposit box so that he can get that pin he gave me and have the stone reset, although he knows I sold it to you. He says that he has noticed that I have not been wearing it and that he suspects that I do not like the setting."

Alice laughed so hard that she became almost hysterical but when she could get her breath she said: "Well, I always knew John was stupid but I really did not think he was as dense as that."

"John doesn't know that I overheard you telling him that I had already sold you the pin and he probably thinks he is doing a very clever thing and will bring me to some explanation as to why I haven't it."

"Do you know what he thinks you will do," said Alice suddenly.

"No. What?"

"He imagines that you will buy the pin back from me rather than tell him what you did with it."

"I shall do nothing of the kind," I replied making a quick decision. "What will you do then?"

To Explain it All. "I shall take this occasion to explain the whole matter to him. I think he should know to what straits I was driven just before I went to Atlantic City."

As I said these words I realized that I would never have dared to tell John about the pin if I did not know that I now had plenty of money. The tables were turned. I was able to be myself—to say what I pleased and John must not only make the best of it but of me.

"I have always believed, and believe now more sincerely than ever before that the increase of divorce which so many good people view with such apprehension is because more women in the last few years have found out that they really do not need a man to support them. I remember my mother telling of a friend of hers who found that her husband had been untrue to her. 'She despised him ever after,' said my mother but still went on living with him."

"How could she do it?" I asked my mother and my mother answered, "She had nowhere else to go."

Able to Earn a Living. "That is probably the reason many of our mothers and grandmothers rest under stone tablets upon which is inscribed 'Devoted wife of etc., etc.' For many women of the old order of things marriage was just a way of earning their daily bread, but thank heaven, today most women are able to earn an honest living without the aid of a husband."

I told this to Alice and she remarked, "That is all very well, my dear, but when there are children

I think another factor enters."

"Perhaps," I answered, "but I have determined on one thing. I am going to tell John all about that diamond pin. Once more I am going to try to make him understand to what his penuriousness has brought me. Once more I am going to try and make him realize that his way of treating me in money matters is one of the reasons for our unhappiness."

"I don't think John is unhappy," said Alice.

"I do," I answered. "I am almost sure he is unhappy. Certainly he is very restless or he would not be traveling around with Elizabeth Moreland seeking for moment of forgetfulness."

"But could he not have that forgetfulness with you?" asked Alice.

"No, dear, I do not think he could, because when he is with me all the little annoyances that he remembers in connection with his life with me come up before him. He wants to get away. He knows that he has done wrong and he wants to get away from the thought of it."

Easy Thing For John. Alice sighed. "I think that perhaps I should be in sympathy with John, but, dear, it seems to me such an easy thing for him to make you happy if he would only realize the sensitiveness of your nature and not play fast and loose with you all the time."

He is evidently playing fast with me now," I said, indicating the roses, "but I wonder if these flowers would have come if he had gone back with my power of attorney in his pocket instead of knowing that all this money that has been left to me is still under my own control."

"Well, I think you have done right," said Alice reluctantly as she rose to go.

I started to my feet as she said, "Then you will not come to see Ruth with me?"

"No, I am going to write my letter to John and say good-by—and everything goes black and, as if from a far distance, I heard Alice's excited exclamation."

Wilbur Reunion Speaker Secured

C. L. Chenoweth of this city, president of the Umpqua Academy association, announces that further selections of speakers have been made for the annual reunion which is to take place at Wilbur next June 5th, says the Oakland Tribune. In addition to the address which is to be delivered by Hon. Austin Mires, W. C. Alderson, superintendent of schools of Multnomah county, is to give an address. Mrs. Inez Miller, formerly of Wilbur, now of Corvallis, has been selected to preside at the noon hour as toastmaster. Other features are being arranged for, and it is thought the entire program will be ready for announcement at an early date.

Nifty millinery at Bellows, not over $15.

ELKHEAD ITEMS.

There was a party at Bradford Brothers' last Saturday night. Nearly everyone in the String was there. They passed a very pleasant evening in playing cards and dancing and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

The quicksilver mines are running at full blast again after being shut down for repairs and clean-up for a few days.

Grover Devine went to town last Sunday after his wife and baby. Mrs. Devine has been on the sick list for quite a while.

Ronnie Howard left the last of the week for Comstock, where he is going to build a house for his brother-in-law.

Mr. Dobins and sons are building them a house on their farm near Elkhead.

Mr. Payne has been filling up some of the mudholes on the road the last few days.

Roby Loveless and his sister, Leta, are in Shoestring visiting. They lived here several years ago.

The Elkhead school will be out next week. Miss Mabel Shorrbridge is teaching and her friends regret that she is leaving.

Robert Bradford has been on the sick list for the last few days. Violet Anka is working for Mrs. Woodward for a few days.

For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin and watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strong!

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and herbs, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere.

One of the active ingredients of this temperance alterative and tonic is wild cherry bark with salicin, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root—all skillfully combined in the Medical Discovery.

These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they fortify the body against an attack of grip or colds.

Catarrh should be treated, first, as a blood disease, with this alterative. Then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Send 10c for trial pkg. of Medical Discovery Tablets or Catarrh Tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

We wash and polish cars at Merten's garage. Now is the time to have your piano artistically tuned. C. H. Arundel, phone 189-L, 25 years international experience.
