CARELESS SHOOTING. On New Year's Eve some person carelessly fired a gun on Jackson street, the bullet crashing through a window in the Nygren storage battery station and through the wall of the adjoining building occupied by Sloper's cleaning and pressing establishment and lodging in one of the bedrooms in that room. It was not until yesterday that the bullet was discovered, the damage it wrought having passed unnoticed since the first of the year. The hole in the window had been previously seen, but it was thought to have been the prank of a child, the holes in the wall not being seen until yesterday when the bullet was found imbedded in the door of a locker. It was removed and proved to be either a .32 or .38 caliber revolver bullet.
