POSTAL SERVICE IS THREATENED

Low Wage Scale Causes Loss of Competent Clerks Is Statement of Officer.

CAMPAIGN IS STARTED

Federation of Clerks Institutes Publicity Campaign to Spread Facts Pertaining to the Needs of the Postal Service.

"Save the Postal Service," is the slogan adopted by the National Federation of Post Office Clerks in its national publicity campaign to acquaint the American people with facts concerning the threatened collapse of the nation's postal facilities. According to the estimates of the national officers of the post office clerks' organization, the public is heavily penalized by being forced to use telegraph and special delivery facilities for the transmission of mail matter that should go by the usual channels. The decline in postal efficiency, it is stated by Thos. F. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer of the national federation, is directly due to the large number of resignations of trained employees and the inability of the department to recruit the working force to its proper strength because of the low wages and general unattractiveness of post office employment.

"It takes years to train expert mail distributors," said Mr. Flaherty. "When any number of these postal workers leave the postal service, as they are now doing, it is reflected in a slowing up of the mails and the large number of misdirected letters and papers. Unless the present exodus is stopped the service efficiency for many years to come will suffer. Which means that the public will be asked to pay for service and get in return only the present demoralized make-shift."

"Much is said of the government's liberality as an employer and the great number of superfluous clerks on its payroll. This does not apply to the postal service. The government cannot secure clerks enough to properly man its postal service at the prevailing rates of compensation. And rates of pay for substitute employees—sixty cents an hour—are higher than the hourly rate of the experienced employees. Thus it frequently happens that the skilled, veteran employees receive less compensation than new entrants. No wonder service morale is broken and the labor turnover is large and expensive.

"The government, through various agencies, frequently points out desirable industrial reforms for private employers to institute and follow. But the government itself makes no attempt to modernize its postal labor policies. We find in the postal service all the evils that cause industrial unrest in private industry; namely, low wages, long hours for many groups, unsanitary working environment, speed-up systems, and no recognized avenue of approach to those in authority.

"The postal workers are protesting in the only way open to them—by petition to congress, which has the power to apply the remedies, and by quitting singly to accept more agreeable employment. Our desire is to get early action from congress so that the expensive labor turnover will be minimized and the services of skilled, trained men retained to insure a restoration of service efficiency.

"It is difficult to arouse public interest in the postal labor problem. The average mail patron views the service as an automatic machine that functions without human labor. Very few people realize that seventy-five per cent of post office mail distribution is done at night by men who receive neither a wage or time differential for the admitted hardships of night work. Moreover, these men must study distribution schemes at home, after office hours, without compensation.

"The base maximum pay for post office clerks and city carriers was fixed at $1200 in 1907. It has not been permanently changed but the congress has granted bonuses from time to time, averaging about thirty-five per cent. Postal wages, it can be seen, have lagged far behind advancing living costs. A commission appointed by the 65th congress is now investigating this subject of postal wages with a view of a readjustment.

"The employees feel that if the people knew all the facts concerning the serious service impairment, the commission's report will be sustained by public sentiment, provided it meets the requirements, and its subsequent adoption assured before adjournment of congress."

Auto Sales Room Attracts Attention

The auto sales rooms of H. Merten is certainly a credit to the city of Roseburg, is the opinion of those who have inspected the classy exhibit of motor cars of the local dealer. His place of business was a great source of attraction last evening and large crowds were gathered in front of the establishment throughout the evening marveling at the beautiful arrangement of the windows and the interior of the building. The lighting arrangement is exceptionally fine and today the sales rooms were thronged with local and out of town people who were admiring this valuable addition to the city. Such enterprises as this savor of the metropolitan style and cannot help but be noticed by everyone.

Fire at Welding Works This Morning

The extreme high temperature developing from a large welding job caused a fire at the Roseburg Welding and Brazing works building this morning. The fire was discovered about 2:30 o'clock this morning by Cecil Black, as he was going home after working late at his store. He broke into the building and extinguished the fire as much as possible then went to the fire station and notified the firemen. The fire department responded promptly and by hard work quelled the fire with the use of chemicals. A large gear wheel, which required a great deal of heat to mend, was the cause of the blaze as it had been in the furnace from early morning until after 8 o'clock at night, and in spite of all precautions the intense heat ignited the floor through two layers of brick and a heavy layer of asbestos. Mr. Calkins stated today that the wooden floor will be removed and a furnace constructed entirely of fireproof material capable of withstanding a very high temperature will be installed at once. This will eliminate all future danger of fire from such sources.

American Legion to Be Big Brothers

By Associated Press
TOPEKA, April 24.—Twenty-eight American Legion posts in Kansas already have pledged their cooperation in the "big brother" plan inaugurated by Capt. William F. MacLean, superintendent of the state industrial school for boys here. When a boy is paroled by the institution, his name and essential facts concerning him are forwarded to the commander of the local post in the city or town to which the boy is going. The commander appoints a legion member to act as "big brother" to the boy.
"Results have been excellent," said Captain MacLean. "These ex-service men give the paroled boys advice, help them find work, receive their reports from school, and in various ways aid them to make good."
The plan has been endorsed by the state board of administration.

Car Shortage to Bring Barges Back

By Associated Press
CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 24.—Shipping by barge down the Ohio river is "coming back," according to river men. A few years ago indications were that freighting by barge would soon be a thing of the past because of the quicker transportation by rail. However, the tables have turned.
Since the beginning of the war, freight congestion, coupled with acute car shortage, has forced manufacturers to seek every known means of transportation.
Automobile manufacturers were particularly hard hit.
Last year a few enterprising dealers along the Mississippi as far south as New Orleans began driving their cars overland from Detroit and other cities to Cincinnati where they loaded them on barges to be pushed by tugs to their destination. The cost is said to have been about the same as shipping by rail and to have been much quicker.

OAKLAND HAS TEAM

A sensational baseball game is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon on the Oakland diamond. Bill Hogan, the barber, has organized a famous team known as the "Oak-grub Specials" who will engage the regular Oakland team of Manager R. D. Bridges in mortal combat for a practice game. Everyone is invited to see this spectacular contest, as it is expected that the list of prizes for besnead plays will all be taken care of during the first inning. Come out and give the boys encouragement. Oakland wants a winning team this year.—Oakland Tribune.

DUCK IS DEAD.

The four-legged duck, belonging to Ralph Church, which was inspected by a large number of local residents during its short career, turned its four feet in the air yesterday and gave up the ghost. Although it was very lively for the first few days of its life, its deformity evidently worried it to death.
