Roseburg, Oregon, May 21, 1920.

Rose Show In the Review Building

According to plans which were formulated today the rose show and strawberry exhibit during the forthcoming strawberry carnival will both be held in the old Review building on Jackson street. The strawberries will be placed in the windows and on tables in the front room, and long tables will be arranged in the back for the roses. Entries may be made any time Thursday until 1 p. m., and the judging will take place on Thursday afternoon. The committee in charge of the rose exhibit will have vases and bottles on hand but would prefer that rose growers bring their own. The committee have also stated that they will request that the exhibits be kept fresh and replenished each day. A large number of roses not put on display will be used to decorate the interior of the building and those who have blossoms to use for that purpose would assist the committee by bringing them on Thursday morning. Prizes of $1.50 and $1 are offered for one to three roses each of white, light pink, bright pink, red, yellow, copper, single, and for new and unusual varieties. A similar prize is offered for collections of not less than five varieties of each white, pink, red and yellow. For the best collection of any colors of not less than ten varieties two prizes of $2.50 and $1.-50 have been offered, and for the best sweepsteak rose, $2.50. The committee in charge will be Mrs. W. S. Hamilton, chairman, and Mrs. S. D. Evans and Mrs. P. M. Olivant.

BAD NEWS.

"My Dear Katherine," began John's letter rather formally, and I knew without reading any further that he had something to say that was not particularly pleasant.

"I am sending you a clipping from one of the papers here, which will tell you the whole story of your entry into the oil business, and your exit from it, much better than I can.

"It really reads like a movie. You see a bunch of crooks came down here looking for easy money, and after looking up titles, of different parcels of land, they came to the conclusion as yours had been neglected for so many years, that whoever had it had forgotten all about it. They bought up all the land around your little tract, and much to their surprise they did strike a gusher on their own land. Not content to make money honestly they piped out over to yours hoping to be able to sell both their own and your wells at fabulous prices. It was at this moment that your cousin Charles turned up, and having paid the taxes which these two crooks had neglected to do, he was able to prove title for you. Then they decided to deflect the oil back to their own well, and did so. And there you are.

Coming Back to Job.

"You have never had an oil well and I don't believe there is any oil on your land. So sure am I of it, that I was offered a thousand dollars for the acre yesterday, and took it, and I am comin gback to take up my own job again. I have just paid this thousand dollars for bills that have been made down here.

"I shall probably be home the first of the week. Will not come by way of your place, because I know that there are plenty of things that are waiting my coming at the office. It was very foolish of me to allow you to persuade me to go into this matter at all. I never yet have allowed anyone to change my mind about business that I haven't been sorry for it. I drew $2500 on your bank lay before yesterday. I wish you would send me a statement of your account, as I think I will have to use at least $2500 more to straighten up the house purchase.

"That's another foolish thing for me to do, but you see I was almost pushed into that by the thought of your being a very great heiress and I knew that you would not want to live with mother. The property was on the market, at a smaller figure than it ever will be sold again. Frankly, however, I think I had better keep it for an investment, and we'll go right on living with my mother just as we have been doing. You will see by the paper clipping that I have had the men arrested. The job has created a great sensation down here; but I don't like paying out five or six thousand dollars just to provide the reading public with a sensation."

Told by a Telegram.

While I was reading this letter Hannah delivered me a telegram. It was from John and read: "I have changed my mind. Will be with you almost as soon as my special delivery letter. Things are looking rather blue. Since I have been away the office has let two charge accounts slip away from them and with the losses made down here and the purchase of that house there will be considerable cut in our income for the next year. I'll tell you about it when I see you, John."

I went [illegible] up Charles and he came over immediately. I showed him John's letter and wire.

"Katherine, I believe you are psychic," he said in surprise. "No one could have called the turn as you did on this entire business without having some supernatural power."

I wondered what Charles would think if I should tell him all the things I see. Almost every night, before I go to sleep, I can visualize Karl Shepard out there in Lotus Land and I know exactly how he looks and almost what he is thinking.

So intent I was upon my own task that I did not realize what Charles was saying, but after he had read the letter again he said to me: "Please don't thinik, Katherine, that I am making suggestions which I should not, but if I were you I would take out that $2,500 that you have in your checking account and put in a safe deposit box for a little while."

"Why should I do that, Charles?"

Will Want It Immediately.

"Well, dont you see that your husband is coming back and he will want that money immediately to put on that house, and I do think you should have a little money of your own that you can call upon if you wish."

"Yod know I have this little income that I cannot touch for the upkeep of this house, Charles."

"Yes, I know, but—
