UHLIG WINS IN INDUSTRIAL PARADE

Showing Made By Electrical Establishment Is Awarded First Prize By Judges.

BRAZINGWORKSSECOND

Industrial and Fraternal Parade Contains Many Floats Entered by Business Houses, Churches and Fraternal Orders.

A fine industrial parade concluded the carnival parades Saturday afternoon. The parade, led as usual by the O. A. C. band and the queen's float, was excellent in every particular, many local business houses being well represented, while Granges and fraternal orders occupied prominent places in the parade.

The first prize was awarded to the Howard Uhlig electric shop, the float presented by that establishment showing a number of electrical devices that can be operated off of the Western Electric farm lighting system given a prominent place. A complete pressure water system operated automatically by electricity was shown, together with sewing machine, washing machine, utility motor vacuum sweeper and many other devices appropriate for the farm and city home. In the evening the float was left standing on the street where many interested rural residents made inquiry regarding the farm lighting and power system on display.

The second prize went to the Roseburg Brazing and Welding company. This float represented the interior of a workshop, a complete welding and brazing outfit being shown, while several workmen were busily engaged in mending a broken casting as the float made its way along the street. The float was unique and many people who had never before had occasion to learn of this system of making repairs were greatly interested and watched the operation very carefully.

The C. A. Lockwood company's Fordson tractor float won the third prize. This was a large tractor mounted on a truck its wheels revolving from its own power. The truck was decorated and carried banners advertising the tractor on display.

The Grange parade was won by the Evergreen Grange with Melrose Grange second. The Evergreen float was very appropriate, being decorated in evergreen branches and carrying a full sized symbol of the "Flow of Honor," one of the Grange emblems. The Melrose Grange float was in keeping with the times, boasting production to cut the high cost of living.

The Knights of Pythias fraternal float won first prize in that class, being very prettily decorated in flowers forming the lodge symbols. Other entries were made by the fire department which entered the big truck and the emergency equipment carrying several members of the organization. The Willard storage battery shop was also represented by a car in which an electric bell was operated from one of the batteries mounted on the side of the car.

Mrs. Roland Agge and Mrs. O. D. Mrs. Roland Agge and Mrs. O. D. decorated car in the parade at request and won a great deal of applause along the line of march. Their car won second prize in the decorated auto parade.

The Imperial Cleaners entered a very attractive car advertising the business establishment.

The stock offered at the Saturday afternoon sale was also presented in the parade.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

by the noted author
Idah McGlone Gibson

CHARLES AND I DINE.

I do not know just when my illusions changed into dreams. In fact, I do not think I did dream after I went to sleep. I only know that when Hannah called me saying that Charles had come to supper I was surprised, for I seemed to have just stepped out of dreamland, and the vision of Karl writing was still very vivid.

When I looked in the mirror I found the traces of tears had all gone from my face. With a few little touches I knew I was looking as well as possible under the circumstances, and I went down to meet Charles.

"My, but you are looking well," he said when I entered the room. And then I knew that he had been thinking that I had not been looking well for some time past. But he had not mentioned it to me as John had.

Strange, isn't it, that those who love us most are the ones who feel that perfect liberty to tell us unpleasant truths, while those who know us least are always polite in keeping the unflattering things from us and in telling us only the nice things. If we were half so polite to those we love as we are to our acquaintances what a delightful world this would be!

Never Mentioned John. Charles never mentioned John during the entire evening. When I went downstairs Hannah told me that supper was on the table. She not only had strawberry shortcake, but delicious asparagus cooked in just the way that mother used to cook it.

And over the supper table we held a "reminiscence party" and talked of all the joyous times that he and I had had together as children, and what foolish childish things he had done and laughed at.

"Do you remember," he said, "the time when as a very young girl you insisted upon Fred Morton always bringing you home from our little dances, and how angry it made me? Poor Fred used to get more beatings at my hands than any other boy I knew. I used to lay in wait for him when he was coming back from taking you home, and then I would beat him up."

"Did you do that, Charles? I have often wondered why it was that Fred did not seem over-anxious to be nice to me when I cared for him so much. I felt very much hurt when he stopped asking to take me home. I never knew the reason until now."

That was the reason. "That was the reason, all right," said Charles. "You see, Katherine, at that time I thought that you really belonged to me and that some time—well some—"

Fortunately, just at that moment Hannah brought in the strawberry short cake and I am ashamed to say we gobbled it up like two children with "oh's" and "ah's."

I wonder why it is that our creature comforts mean so much to us. I have never been able to be very unhappy when I was physically perfectly comfortable. For this reason I do not take much stock in the old theory that the rich can be as unhappy as the poor. I know that as I ate that delicious strawberry short cake I quite forgot all about the unhappy afternoon with John.

One would think I am a very material woman, but I am not more so than other women. I am particularly honest, that is all. I know that being physically comfortable only can not make you perfectly happy, yet you can not be perfectly happy without being physically comfortable.

How Much Is Love? I would like to ask some of those women who are always telling about their soul's happiness when their bodies are particularly well cared for, just how much of their grievance is love and just how much is really heart hurt.

It is very easy to demonstrate this by just thinking that a person could follow to the grave his nearest and dearest and if in getting out of the door all thought of soul sorrow, all thought of the sad act he had come to perform would be obliterated from his mind.

Tomorrow—Katherine Telegraphs John.

Coast Stage Line May Start Soon

For the purpose of getting data on the roads and making out a time table for a stage line between San Francisco and Portland, the Pathfinder car of the Pickwick stages with headquarters in San Francisco, arrived in Roseburg Saturday. The men in charge announced that the line will be established about June 10, according to present plans, and it is expected that a schedule of two stages each way weekly will be inaugurated at the outset.

Roseburg will be made a stopping place on the northbound trip, they said, and likely a stopover station on the southbound trip.

Six Packard "six" cars will be used on the line and each car will carry eight passengers and the driver. They are the regular seven-passenger cars with the small seat in the middle taken out and substituted by a wide seat holding three persons.

The Pickwick stages have been operating between San Diego and San Francisco for some time and regular stations between these cities are Los Angeles, Oxnard, Ventura, Santa Barbara, Los Alamos, Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo, Santa Margarita, Atascadero, Paso Robles, Bradley, San Ardo, King City, Gonzales, Salinas, Hollister, San Juan, Gilroy, Morgan Hill, San Jose, Oakland and Los Angeles.

J. A. Van Horn, F. B. Archer and Charles Conner are making the trip in the Pathfinder car. They said that the roads in southern Oregon are good considering so much construction work going on and they think the stages will have little trouble in making fast time.

domestic and $2,225,219 export. The same mills have a balance of $608 cars or 258,240,000 feet of rail orders on their books awaiting shipment. The rail shipments for the week were 48,810,000 feet or 1627 cars. The rail orders were 36,620,000 feet or 1221 cars.

The mills are continuing their steady production and probably will run full until the mid-summer period of inactivity early in July. Production for the week aggregated 89,428,662 feet, which was only 5,924,328 feet or 4.21 per cent below normal.

The total volume of new business accepted was 66,112,145 feet and the total shipments 69,833,978 feet.

The monthly stock report of the association shows that the industry as a whole has approximately a normal volume of stocks on hand, although the year short of some of the higher grade items.

SALES MANAGER IS WELL AND HAPPY SINCE TAKING TANLAC

One of the distinguishing features in connection with the introduction and sale of Tanlac throughout America is the large number of traveling men who have been benefited by its use. From Maine to California and from the Gulf to Northern Canada men representing almost every line of business have testified to the remarkable and gratifying results obtained by taking Tanlac.

One of the latest of these to endorse Tanlac is H. Shardlow, sales manager for the Solar Illuminating Co., of Chicago, who lives at the Hotel Stowell, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Tanlac is the finest medicine I have ever run across," said Mr. Shardlow recently. "I gained nine pounds on three bottles and have gotten rid of a case of stomach trouble that nearly cost me my life. For several months I had suffered terribly from acute gastritis and was very nervous. Everything I would eat soured and formed gas, my chest and lungs would pain me and my heart palpitate so at times I would almost faint. I have walked the floor for hours in misery and have been forced to spend days at a time in bed. I lost nineteen pounds, was a nervous wreck and had to give up all ideas of business.

"I had the best treatment and medicine and was put on a special diet but got no better, and was finally told that only an operation would relieve my trouble. One day while in El Paso, Texas, I had an attack that almost proved fatal. I had been reading about Tanlac and immediately tried it. Thanksgiving Day I was sick, blue and discouraged, but since taking Tanlac I can enjoy a good meal and feel well, cheerful and happy. It gives me pleasure to recommend Tanlac and I hope all sufferers from stomach troubles may be induced to try it."

Tanlac is sold in Roseburg by W. F. Chapman, and by the leading druggist in every town.
