Children's Ailments

DISORDERS of the stomach and constipation are the most common diseases of children. To correct them you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Tablets. One tablet at bed time will do the work and will make your child bright and cheerful the following morning. Do not punish your children by giving them castor oil. Chamberlain's Tablets are better and more pleasant to take.

NOTICE OF SALE OF GOVERNMENT TIMBER.—General Land Office, Washington, D. C., June 1, 1920.—Notice is hereby given that subject to the conditions and limitations of the Act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat., 218), and the instructions of the Secretary of the Interior of September 15, 1917, the timber on the following lands will be sold July 12, 1920, at 10 o'clock a. m., at public auction at the United States land office at Roseburg, Oregon, to the highest bidder at not less than the appraised value as shown by this notice, sale to be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. The purchase price, with an additional sum of one-fifth of one per cent thereof, being commissions allowed, must be deposited at time of sale, money to be returned if sale is not approved, otherwise patent will issue for the timber which must be removed within ten years. Bids will be received from citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens and corporations organized under the laws of the United States or any state, territory or district thereof only. Upon application of a qualified purchaser, the timber on any legal subdivision will be offered separately before being included in any offer of a larger unit. GUESS THE CENSUS.

Guesses of every size and description as to the population of Roseburg soon to be shown by the 1920 census figures are pouring into the census editor of the News-Review. Some are overly optimistic and not a few are quite pessimistic but "all are entitled to their private opinion" and it remains to be seen who will come the closest in their estimate. To the person guessing the closest to the population of the metropolis of Douglas county the News-Review will give a year's subscription. What's your guess? Send it in at once to the census editor. You may have the right hunch.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE
by the noted author Idah McGlone Gibson

THE OUIJA BOARD.

Charles said nothing, as I voiced my doubt of John's coming making me happier, but his face took on a very sympathetic expression.

"I must be going now," he said. Then putting his hand into his pocket he remarked, "Oh, I had almost forgotten to hand you this."

"Do you think the nurse will let you read it," he asked somewhat tantalizingly, as he held the thick, square envelope just away from my reaching fingers.

"It looks interesting," I said, "but not greatly exciting. I think she will let me read it. I never get exciting letters you know."

"Oh, but this letter has a foreign postmark."

"Please let me have it," I pleaded, holding out my hand, for when he told me of the foreign postmark I knew my letter was from Karl Sheppard. I knew it was the letter I had seen him write in my vision.

"Charles," I said, "did you ever read DuMaurier's novel of Peter Ibbetson?"

"Yes, why?"

"What did you think about it?"

Must Think it Over.

"It's so long since I have read it that I shall have to think it over a bit before I can remember just what I did think of it at the time. You see I was much younger than I am now and, if I remember rightly, its romance and fantasy appealed to me greatly. The idea of these two people living entirely different lives after they went to sleep than they did while awake intrigued my fancy. I do not see why it might not be done; in fact, I wish I could dream a different life sleeping than I live every day," he said with a sigh.

"Then you think that it is possible for two people to have some sort of psychic bond between them, where they can each know what the other is doing at certain times?"

"I don't know, of course, that this can be done, it never having happened to myself, but I think it might be very delightful. We all of us have other lives we long to lead, I am sure; and, while none of us could perhaps always take up another life upon closing our eyes in sleep, I think to find oneself perfectly enrapt with some one you cared for who might be far away when you felt particularly out of sort and unhappy, would make a heavenly existence. Of course, with the English author it was purely fanciful, but today, when we are making such a research into things unseen and unheard, when we consult the ouija board on all occasions, I am not sure but that one might find himself at times translated to the side of a distant loved one if we only thought about it enough."

What Then?

"But suppose one was not sure of the loving. Suppose one was only interested, and suppose the vision had come without one's willing it, what then would you think?"

"Katherine," asked Charles in surprise, "are you asking a hypothetical or a real question?"

"Why, of course it's hypothetical," I hastened to assert, yet all the while the thick letter in my hand telling me that I was saying something untrue. I knew just as well as I knew that I had the letter in my hand that I had seen Karl Sheppard writing to me from that faroff land of the Lotus and I was perfectly sure that he would tell me that when he had shut his eyes he had seen me over here.

The nurse came to the door and beckoned to Charles. "I'm afraid you have overstayed your time, Mr. Goodwin," she said.

"His visit hasn't hurt me one bit," I eagerly remonstrated. "Do you know I have not seen anyone but you and the doctor since my baby came?"

"Oh of course I didn't mean that I haven't loved to have you around," I hastened to add, as both Charles and the nurse began to laugh, "but you see I really did want someone else to whom I could sing the praises and explain the beauties and wonders of my baby."

Very Sympathetic Listener.

"I am sure you have found Mr. Goodwin a very sympathetic listner," said the nurse, "but I am also sure the doctor would not approve of his staying longer. He may come tomorrow, if you wish."

"John will be here tomorrow," said Charles, "and you will not need me."

"I am sure, my dear, that I shall always need you. You have been more than a brother to me and I have no one else in the world to whom I would rather go with my joys and sorrows."

Charles' eyes grew misty and he bent down and pressed a kiss on the little unconscious face of my child and as he left I noticed a check had been pressed into the tiny hand. I opened it and read: "Pay to the order of Mary Gordon, $25,000."

Tomorrow—Charles' Request.

Chamber Commerce Work is Felt

Although the local Chamber of Commerce has not been functioning for some time, the effects of the last year can still be felt. Yesterday F. W. Keller and F. A. Fisher, brothers-in-law, from Minneapolis, arrived in the city with the announced intention of locating permanently. Mr. Keller is a musician and was through this section of the country with the "Birth of a Nation" orchestra. He liked Oregon very much and upon returning from service wrote to the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce expressing his desire for further information. He was greatly pleased by the prompt reply and has corresponded at frequent intervals. Yesterday he arrived and went at once to interview Mr. Heinline. He expects to spend the ensuing week looking at the grant land now open and also for other locations. Both men are married and will bring their wives to Roseburg as soon as a location is obtained.

OH, DEAR! MY BACK!

Merciful Heavens, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking "Anuric" (anti-uric-acid). This can be obtained at almost any drug store, in tablet form.

When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, get Dr. Pierce's Anuric, it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Send Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., ten cents for trial package.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's remedies in my family for fifteen years and have found on every occasion that they gave satisfactory results. Recently I was troubled with my kidneys and my back constantly pained me. I took three packages of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets which removed all pain and cleared up conditions. I advise every one to give Dr. Pierce's remedies a fair trial."—MRS. E. EVE, 422 Brannon Street.

CAVE-MEN IN MANY LANDS

Some of Their Dwellings Are Not Without a Fair Standard of Modern Comfort.

Troglodytes, cave men, living in their cave dwellings, are to be found in Mexico, the Canary islands, in the Crimea, as well as in Spain, France, Italy and England, according to Harold J. Shepstone, in the Wide World Magazine. The Italian troglodyte dwellings at Bari are little more than houses which it has been found simpler to cut out of the soft rock rather than to go to the trouble of collecting building materials.

The chief headquarters of the Spanish troglodytes is the village of Burgasot, near Valencia. Their dwellings are practically entirely beneath the ground. Many of these dwellings have been recently excavated and offer a fair standard of comfort, often having a handsome palm tree in front of the entrance.

Throughout the whole of Crimea there are endless successions of cave dwellings, but the only ones still inhabited are in Inkermann, a name which itself means "cave castle." There are vast holes and cozy rooms, with ledges of stones which were doubtless bedsteads in prehistoric times. There is also a wonderful cave church, fitted with columns, a choir loft and elaborate sarcophagi. The altar and the cross are of so unique a form that antiquarians are unable to connect them with any known sect.

WEAR DEAD HUSBAND'S SKULL

Andaman Widows Carry Grewsome Relic for Full Year, and Then Take Another Mate.

Widows in the Andaman islands mourn on the death of their husbands by detaching the jaws of the dead, placing the heads on a platform in a tree for the birds to pick, then cleaning and ornamenting them with shells and wearing them on their backs for a year, even while working. At the end of the year they are free to marry again.

The widow has a warrior picked out for her by the chief, and he is usually accepted by her at sight. Then she goes to some lone spot, buries her beloved skull and returns to the camp to feast and dance. She soon, however, returns to the skull and spends a week in praying and fasting in its company, after which the skull is unearthed and brought to the village, where it is stuck on a pole and made to look on at a scene of feasting and dancing. When the marriage ceremony is over the skull is buried somewhere and forgotten.

The dead man is of no importance to the tribe. At the banquet the people gorge themselves and whirl and dance like mad things to the sound of the yemnga, a native instrument, until they drop one by one from sheer exhaustion.

An After-War Bride.

A returned soldier and his sweetheart called on a judge to marry them. The judge married them, and, apparently satisfied with his work, he said to Vic, "Sainte the bride." For an instant the groom was flustered. Then he took two steps to the rear, came to a distinct halt, clicked his heels together and gave Mrs. Vic one of the "doughboys' finest." "Oh, well, I guess that will have to do," sighed the judge as he signed the license.—Argonaut.
