The appeal of the Applegrowers' association at Hood River for cooperation in the drive against the apple tree diseases which Origin incricentariats call anthranose is finely, and will be heeded without waiting for official compulsion in other districts in which the mennes exists. By whatever name it is known, apple tree anthranose is a threat against orchard existence; yet it method of combating it is so standardized that it is distinctly positive to keep it under control if it is not probable that it will be entirely gradiented, says the Portland Orogonian.

The principal is that of prevention. Without going into too technical decians, it can be said that the sole purpose of spraying is to make the hoot, which is the bark of the tree, inhospitable to the propagation of a new generation of the post. The laster is propagated by spures after the death of the old generation, and after the spores have found root in the light of present knowledge that are practical for its cradication. There is theoretically a period in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has ded out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation has died out and in which its progeny are seeking only favorable ground in which the older generation favorable ground in which the older generation favorable ground in which the older generation favorable ground in the fight of the favorable ground in the favorable ground i couraging number of finstances in the fination. The result of this, according to me farm journel, is a carding to one farm journel, is a carding to one farm journel, is a chorage of 24,000,000 acres of wheat this year, with a correspond fine sould duty of the orchardist emphasized by the eternal combat dates fungus and other enemies.
