UTH FINED $25 IN COURT TODAY

ed This Morning on Charge of Assault With Intent to Kill Aged Man.

GHT WAS THRILLING

dle Creek Residents Stage a Real Encounter Which Ends in the Court Room of Justice of the Peace Riddle.

NEW CHARGE MADE.

Late this afternoon Judge Riddle changed the charge in the complaint from assault with intent to kill to assault and battery, and Duncan pleaded guilty to the new charge and was fined $25. The change was made owing to the fact that no proof was shown to the effect that the intent of the assault was murder. The fine was paid by the youth and he was allowed his freedom.

Glenn Duncan, 20-year-old youth, charged with assault with intent to kill on the person of Lafe Brumbaugh, a Myrtle Creek resident, this morning appeared before Justice of the Peace Riddle for trial, with the result that he was bound over to appear before the grand jury in the sum of $150 bail. The complaint signed by Mr. Brumbaugh charged assault with intent to kill, but no evidence was introduced to substantiate the charge and the judge ruled that the case appear before the grand jury for investigation of the fight which occurred Saturday night in Myrtle Creek at the home of Mr. Brumbaugh, in which the aged gentleman was severely injured.

Glenn Duncan was represented by Attorney Dexter Rice, and District Attorney Neuner prosecuted the case.

Mr. Brumbaugh was the first witness called to the stand and testified that he was 55 years of age and has lived in Myrtle Creek for 20 years. On Saturday night he had just returned from work and entered his home at 6 o'clock and declared that he remembered nothing from that time on until consciousness was regained at about 5 o'clock on Sunday morning. He stated he could not remember one thing that occurred and could not point out his assailant but was certain that he must have been struck brutally for when his senses returned the next morning his face and head were cut and bruised and his eyes were blacked.

"It seems funny to me I can't recall one thing that happened after I arrived home," said Mr. Brumbaugh today. "When I awoke the next morning I was in bed and had undressed myself. I got up and went into the kitchen and found a wash pan filled with blood where I had washed my face. On the porch I found a pool of blood. I cannot remember having fought with anyone but I have heard that Duncan had said he came and so had a warrant sworn out for his arrest."

Ray Allen, a Myrtle Creek boy, was next called and testified that he visited the home of Mr. Brumbaugh Saturday evening at about 8 o'clock and found him washing blood from his face. He talked with him a short time and then left the house in company with Mr. Thomas Laughead. They were driving a car and just as they reached the auto to drive away Glenn Duncan approached the pair and asked them if they had been over talking to Brumbaugh and also inquired what the old man had said to him. Allen refused to give out any information, whereupon Duncan told him he had fought with Brumbaugh and had hit him. The fight started, he said, when the old man told him to get out of his house or he would throw him out. Mr. Laughead substantiated the testimony of Allen in every detail.

The defendant, Glenn Duncan, also testified and told his version of the affair as follows:

"I have only been residing in Myrtle Creek for about two months and had arrived there for the purpose of looking over the homestead land. I am an ex-service man, having served in the U. S. cavalry for about three years, and only recently received my discharge in San Diego. I have had practically no business dealings with Mr. Brumbaugh, but a piece of mine was bickering with me on a homestead relinquishment. It fell through, however, and I started work on the Pacific highway, near Myrtle Creek. On Saturday night a friend of mine, Jimmy Lee, and I were up to the school house playing the mandolin and decided to go down to Martin's and get some sheet music. Martin's house is but a short distance from where Mr. Brumbaugh lives. Just as we reached the gate I saw Mr Brumbaugh coming up the road. For several days I had been hearing of some stuff alleged to have been said about me by Brumbaugh. The story he had been telling was damaging to my character and I wanted to see him about it and really find out whether or not he had said anything like that. When I saw him approaching the house I handed the mandolin to Jimmy and said, 'Here, you take the mandolin and go and get the music. I want to see Mr. Brumbaugh a minute.' I walked over and met the old gentleman at the gate and we started talking, walking towards his house as we did so. He would not give me a civil answer and sneered all the while I was talking. After we reached the interior of the house he turned to me and said, 'You get out of here or I'll put you out,' and then he made a plunge at me and I backed up against the wall. He was between the door and me. He struck me on the arms and shoulders and once on the lip, which started to bleed. I then lost my temper and hit him on the forehead a glancing blow. He turned and fell face downward on a pile of rubbish and boards in the corner. I stood on the edge of the porch until he got up, and then I walked away. I reported the affair to Harry Rice, the mayor, and he informed me that I would get a square trial after I had told him that Brumbaugh said, 'You are a stranger here and I have lots of friends. We can hand it to you.' I did not intend to harm Brumbaugh, but his answers aggravated me so that a fight resulted."

Jimmy Rice, who was with Duncan just prior to the fight, testified that he emerged from the Martin home shortly after Duncan left him to go with Brumbaugh, and heard a noise like someone scuffling. He started towards the scene of actioon and arrived at the gate just as Duncan left the house. Rice testified that Duncan was spitting blood and that his lip was swollen. He said that he had never heard the boy say anything tending to show that he was laying in wait for Brumbaugh.

Mayor Harry Rice, of Myrtle Creek, was called next and told his story of the affair. He asserted the wounds received by Brumbaugh were not serious and said he dressed them for the old man. "If it had not been for the small town gossips this trouble would not have started," said Mayor Rice. "They cause more trouble in a small town than all the rest put together ,and I wanted the affair settled right here at home."

At the close of the testimony a heated argument took place betwees Attorneys Rice and Neuner, and Judge Riddle closed the case by changing the charge to assault and battery and fining the boy $25.

Freight Train Runs Wild.

ELLENSBURG, June 16.—One man was killed and two injured near here today when a train of 48 loaded freight cars got beyond control on the steep grade and ran wild. An eastbound Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train started from near Bolyston tunnel and plunged along for 17 miles, doing great damage to the main line and switches when it finally piled up in a heap, totally destroying the cars and contents. The accident is attributed to over-generation of current on the electric locomotive.

PICTURE MUCH ENJOYED.

The picturized poem, Evangeline, at the Antlers theater last night was a worthy success from every standpoint, according to the many interested spectators. Miriam Cooper, who has enacted many tragic roles in the William Fox productions, of which this was one, played the stellar role, her spiritual beauty and faithful characterization making the beloved Evangeline live before the eyes of the public. The scenery, the picturesque little Arcadian village which came to a sad end, were beautifully worked out in detail, the remainder of the cast ably supporting Miss Cooper.

Tiller to Stage Big Celebration

Monday, July 5th, will be a big day at Tiller, where the Independence day celebration is to be replete with eagle screams n'everything. The Tillerites are preparing for the best time they have ever had and a great many Roseburg people expect to celebrate with them. The 4th of July celebration at Tiller is becoming well known throughout the county and the crowds are larger each year. Walter Norman and several other residents of the vicinity were in Roseburg today making arrangements and completing details for the big event.

City Residents Raise Poultry

The "Grove" section of the city near the river is becoming quite well known for the excellent poultry being raised there. During the past few months Earl Vosburgh has conducted a modern up-to-date henery at his home and has had marvelous results. Other residents are also taking up the poultry industries and equipment is being put in by L. B. Moore and S. M. Britt, which will make the section of the city where they live resemble a modern poultry farm. They are using the latest methods and doubtless will find a very profitable business developing.

Climate Attracts Teachers Here

From the increasing number of applications being received at this time from teachers in various parts of the country asking for positions in the Roseburg schools, the Roseburg school board,are of the opinion that the stringency in the teaching situation, which at one time seemed serious, is now a thing of the past, at least locally if not generally. A large number of applications, all from experienced high-salaried teachers have been received and no anxiety is now felt as to the filling of all vacancies. One of the determining factors much in the favor of Roseburg, seems to be the climatic advantages which never before has been cited as a drawing card for those in the teaching profession. Many of the applications state that they have heard of Roseburg's climate, and although they are receiving high salaries where they are, they are desirous of changing their location. Several have come from eastern Oregon, and although there is a large difference in salary between here and there, the climatic advantages seem to atone for the variation. Within a short time it is expected the entire teaching staff will have been selected, and will be announced as soon as several of the contracts which are out at present have been signed and returned.

City Objects to Highway Change

PORTLAND, June 16.—Tuesday has been set as the date on which a hearing will be granted in the circuit court on the controversy of the towns of Dallas and Independence against the state highway commission, involving a section of the Pacific highway through Polk county.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs that a state highway has for 50 years passed through Perrydale to Dallas and Monmouth and from there to Independence, Albany and Corvallis. The commission proposes to change the route so that the Pacific highway will instead go through McMinnville, Holmes Gap, Rickerall and Monmouth into Benton county and the plaintiffs are after an order restraining the commission from designating the proposed route as the highway. It is also asked that A. D. Kern be enjoined from proceeding with the construction work on the new road and that only the old one be considered as the Pacific highway.

PICTURES ARE PRESENTED H. S.

Senior Class Gift Is Lasting Memorial of Love and Respect.

LARGE SUM EXPENDED

Sum of $250 Placed at Disposal of Committee From High School Who Selected Beautiful Masterpieces—Fine Frames.

One of the finest gifts that has yet been presented by a graduating class to their Alma Mater has been conceived and offered by the class of 1920, and the arrangements for the acceptance of the gift have just been completed. Since the burning of the Roseburg high school several years ago and the erection of the new building, there has been a noticeable lack of pictures, both in the assembly hall and the class rooms. A certain number of good masterpieces are necessary in a good school and are one of the requisites, the lack of which lowers the standards of the school. Although up to this time few have been purchased, it was the intentions of the school board later to authorize the purchase of several to hang about the building. The senior class of this year anticipated this move on the part of the board, and will leave as a lasting memorial of their love and respect for Roseburg high school copies of famous pictures by well known artists amounting to the sum of $250.

This sum was placed at the disposal of a committee composed of Miss Ruth Ann Wilson of the mathematics department, Superintendent A. G. Smith, Miss Irma Marteus, Leslie Butner, president of the student body, and Vernita Kohlhagen, president of the senior class, who, from a large number of masterpieces selected the following list:

The Fighting Temeraire	Turner
The Dawn	Eggleston
End of Day	Adan
Angelus	Millet
Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial	Photograph
Horses of Schilles	Regnault
Joan of Arc	Le Page
Reading From Homer	Alma Tadema
Avenue of Middel-Harnis	Hobbens
Temple of Philae	Pharoahs
Atlantas Race	Poynter
Indian and Lilly	Brush
Matinee	Corot
A. Lincoln	St. Gaudens
Poet's Corner	Westminster Abbey

The pictures are attractively framed, and several were selected for their especial fitness for several branches of the school work. For instance the Joan of Arc will be hung in the French room, the Reading From Homer in the Latin room, Abrsham Lincoln in the history department, and The Poets Corner in the English room. Each picture will contain in one corner a small silver plate on which will be inscribed the words: Presented by the Senior Class of 1920.

The sizes of the frames will be from 20x24 to 28x36. They were ordered from the Elson Art exhibit and the J. K. Turner company, both of Boston and both well known houses. The Elson Art exhibit will send with the order two large pictures which are to be given away as prizes to the rooms selling the largest number of tickets for the exhibit when it opens in this city next fall. A contract has been signed between the Elson people and the Roseburg school board for them to show their famous collection of pictures in this city early next fall as an educational feature.

Forest Truck Causes Trouble

In "trading" trucks with the Umpqua forest, W. E. Naylor, of the Cascade forest, found that the "flivver" would not negotiate the mud holes resulting from the recent rain and was forced to abandon the machine before reaching Eugene. The heavy truck used by the Cascade forest officials was too heavy for the roads and it was decided to trade with the Umpqua officials for the Ford truck used here. W. E. Naylor attempted to take the light truck back after bringing the heavier one here, but was held up in the mud near Yoncalla. R. S. Shelley, supervisor of the Cascade forest, succeeded in getting the truck to Eugene Saturday. He drove to Yoncalla in his car, Mrs. Shelley going along and driving their own machine back. As Mr. Shelley was driving the truck along the road he picked up a pedestrian who asked for a ride. It was learned that the stranger could drive the truck and Mr. Shelley asked him to drive ahead while he went back to see what had become of Mrs. Shelley as he had not seen her with the car for some time. He went back and found that one of the tires had blown out. The stranger drove on with the truck but Mr. Shelley failed to find it where he told his new driver to leave it. He notified the police but it was not located until next morning. It was standing near the Oregon Electric station and everything was intact. The stranger had evidently misunderstood Mr. Shelley's instructions as to where to leave it.

WILL ARRIVE SOON.

According to word received here this morning by School Clerk Roscoe Green, M. S. Hamm, recently elected superintendent of the Roseburg schools for the coming year, will arrive in this city within a few days. He is at present in Eugene visiting with his mother and sister, who reside at that place, arriving there from Lewiston, Illinois, where he closed a successful term of school. Supt. Hamm will not remain here permanently at this time but will return to Eugene to remain until his household furniture arrives. It is expected that he will be on the job here about July 1.

Big Meeting Is Expected Tonight

Indications are that the mass meeting to be held at the city hall this evening for the purpose of organizing a chamber of commerce will be largely attended and will be very enthusiastic. All members of the former organization have been notified and from the responses received it is certain that there will be a large number in attendance. The meeting will be called to order by J. W. Hamilton as temporary chairman and officers will be elected and the organization established.

There is a great and immediate need for organization at this time, for with unprecedented crowds scheduled to pass through the city there is a great opportunity for publicity. The work initiated by the former chamber of commerce is just beginning to bear results in the way of bringing newcomers to this city and of interesting outsiders in Douglas county.

Former Students At University

Mrs. E. R. Hanan and Mrs. S. F. Strange left this morning for Salem to attend the alumni meeting of the Willamette university. The commencement exercises, alumni meeting and banquet were scheduled for today and a large number of the former students were in attendance. A gift of $350,000 from the general education board of Rockefeller institute was reported at the annual meeting of the board of trustees yesterday. The money will go to the endowment fund, for which a campaign for a million dollars is on. In addition to this sum, $17,500 will be received from the same source in the next two years, provided the university matches it with a like amount, the sum to be used for new laboratory equipment and increased salaries.

Woman's Name Kept Secret

MARSHFIELD, Ore., June 15.—The woman who was detected distilling liquor a short time ago by Sheriff Gage and a number of other officers was released from custody after the case against David Kirkland had been presented to the grand jury of Coos county, then in session. Kirkland was indicted, but released on a $400 bond.

The arresting officers refused at the time of the arrest to make known the woman's name, and after the case had been disposed of the public was no wiser. This action of the officers was excused by them on the ground that the woman has a family of three children. She is separated from her husband, who has failed to pay her alimony.

Makes Long Trip In Big Canoe

ASTORIA, Or., June 15.—Amos Burz, who gives his residence as Portland, Ore., arrived here today in a 16-foot canoe, in which craft he declared he had traveled all the way from Lewiston, Idaho. Burz said he made the 500-mile journey down the Snake and Columbia rivers in three weeks, and was accompanied as far as Portland by Fred A. Hill of Spokane.

Several times the canoe was swamped between Wasco and Biparia, Burz said today, but they saved themselves by using a 100-yard line to which was attached a drag, the men swimming to shore each time by the aid of the line.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl McCleary, who have been residing in Silverton for the past year, arrived in this city recently and will remain here permanently. Mrs. McCleary was formerly Miss Mildred Scott, a Roseburg girl.

LOWER UMPQUA COUNTRY UNITED

Reedsport and Gardiner Bury Hatchet and Make Provisions to Pull Together.

DEVELOPMENT KEYNOTE

Will All Strive to Bring About a Greater Degree of Advancement in Rich But Heretofore Neglected Section.

On June 8th a step towards the unification and future welfare of the lower Umpqua country was taken. A sincere representative body of business men and taxpayers from Gardiner met a similar body of business men and taxpayers from Reedsport. The meeting was called to order and Mr. Gray, of Gardiner, was elected chairman. The object of the meeting was to crystalize and solidify the lower Umpqua country, to bury any old and imaginary feelings or illusions that may have existed heretofore, and to look and work faithfully for the future progress of this fertile and productive part of the great northwest. "The Lower Umpqua Country."

Mr. Gray called upon a number of the people present at this meeting for an expression of their views. Mr. F. W. Angus when called upon said there ought to be peace and harmony and suggested a means to attain that end, that is, that five men be selected, two from Gardiner and two from Reedsport, these four men to choose a fifth, whereupon the four men being selected they chose the fifth man from Reedsport.

This committee is to act as a sort of an arbiter for any future questions that may arise. The men on this committee are Messrs. T. W. Angus and W. H. Jewett, of Gardiner, and Messrs. Napier, Lamb and Cavers, of Reedsport. Mr. Napier in his address before the meeting told of the advantages he, as a newcomer, could see in the lower Umpqua region.

It was with a great deal of satisfaction to all concerned that unity is in sight for the lower Umpqua. Unity spells progress.

Here are the reasons why differences should be buried: The resources of the country are unlimited; the country is rich in timber; the dairying industry promises to stand out foremost in this state, and the same future is in store for the fishing and canning industries. Many mills are operating in the lower Umpqua country and there is room for twice as many more.

The roads leading to within and out of the lower Umpqua country need attention. New roads have to be built and the country must be opened up with the outside world by a good system of roads. The waterways must in the same way be improved. The Port of Umpqua must have official recognition in Washington, D. C. The port with its wonderful resources must be made known at the national capital and its wants, financially, given attention. Government aid is necessary.

All of these natural resources ought to be developed and they can be developed by taking hold of the situation in a business like way. Problems that may seem gigantic at the present time for the uplift of this wonderful Umpqua country will soon be mastered and solved. The country itself will prosper and so will each inhabitant prosper. All are anxious to hear the wheels of progress revolve without friction. However, charity towards one another must be shown before the big things can be accomplished.

The lower Umpqua country includes, recognizes, and is willing to concede the wants of every geographical part of the country, be it Smith river, Reedsport, Gardiner, Scottsburg, Elkton or Ash. All these parts of the country have to be considered. These places, every one, must be considered as an integral part of the whole. If roads or bar and harbor improvements are what some one part of the lower Umpqua country needs, then the lower Umpqua communities ought to stand as a unit until their demands are heard and granted.

This spirit of get-togetherism will be successful and bear fruit only insofar as the spirit grows and spreads. The germination and maturity of the move together will show stages of steady progress in proportion as each part of the lower Umpqua country urges the rest of the same country into its confidence with utmost good faith, good will and sincerity. The lower Umpqua country must prosper and progress. All want to see it go ahead and all should help to push it ahead.

E. M. Mathews, of Reston, a well known strawberry producer, spent the day in Roseburg attending to business matters. Incidentally he brought with him a crate of fine strawberries, although he stated that his crop this year was not up to the same standard as formerly owing to the cold weather.
