MANY NEW PARTIES BORN.

Since the republican party came into being, 64 years ago, 14 attempts have been made to found other new parties and none of them has elected a president, says the Spokesman-Review. The closest approach was by the progressive party in 1912, when Roosevelt received 4,119,597 votes. The next considerable splash was made by the populists in 1892, when James B. Weaver polled 1,041,928 votes.

Yet men go on bolting and trying to launch new parties in the face of the discouraging lessons of history. In 1892 a split in the republican party led to the nomination of Horace Greeley by the "liberal republicans" and the democratic party, but Grant was re-elected by a majority of more than 700,000.

Four years later, in 1876, a greenback party was organized and ran Peter Cooper for president. It was the predecessor of the populist movement. It ran Weaver in 1880 and Ben Hunter in 1884; slumbered in 1888 and came to life again in 1892 as the people's party, with Weaver its nominee for president.

The prohibition party came into the field in 1876 casting 9522 votes for Green Clay Smith of Kentucky. It has had a presidential candidate in every contest since then.

The socialist party has also been a frequent contender, and at one time and another we have had socialist labor nominees, social democratic candidates, American party candidates, non labor, united labor, gold democrat and independent candidates.

As the result has been the same in every instance—defeat and the election of a republican or a democratic president.

This year will be no exception. The socialists have nominated Eugene Debs again, and there are signs that a motley aggregation of radicals and malcontents will run La Follette for president, but they are foredoomed to crushing defeat. That is why Hiram Johnson, canny politician that he is, promptly fell into line for the republican ticket, that is why William Jennings Bryan will maintain his unbroken record of regularity no matter what may transpire at San Francisco.

Forty years ago, when Portland had the only street railway in the Pacific northwest, a single fare was 10 cents, with four tickets for 25 cents, remarks a Washington exchange. Now the city council at Seattle, struggling with a growing deficit in its municipal system, has passed an ordinance that hits upon the exact schedule of 40 years ago. But there the analogy ends. Forty years ago living was cheap in this region. We had 5-cent butter, 5-cent milk, 25-cent bread, 25-cent eggs, 15-cent loin steaks and everything else about in proportion, with occasional years when potatoes and apples could be had almost for the digging and the picking. At the best Portland restaurants 40 years ago they served a breakfast of two eggs, a large dish of potatoes, bread, butter and coffee, all for 15 cents. A generous portion of ham or bacon cost 10 cents more.

Happy, halcyon days—shall we ever see them again? When taxes were low, living and rents were cheap, and the people, having no automobiles to drain away their substance, managed to live like epicureans and be reasonably happy and contented as by the day laborer of today.

The very great number of underweight children, and the many that suffer from defects that could be remedied, has started systematic movements on the part of schools and hospitals in many localities, to help these children attain better physical form. Parents of such children are urged to have them weighed frequently, and to send them to classes where they can be shown how to improve their condition. Some people object to such treatment, on the ground that it makes children nervous about their health. Nevertheless without such care, millions of children grow up without the good bodies they might have. They break down early in life. Too much candy and other sweets, hasty eating, lack of nourishing food, too little sleep, these are foes of good development.

The number of boys 14 years of age who have left school and gone to work, is estimated at 500,000. Also there are 400,000 girls who have done the same thing. This is one-half the number of children of that age. These young folks have only the merest rudiments of an education. They have had no business training, they have only the least smattering of history and of the principles of American government. They are not fitted either to be efficient workers or good citizens. Until something can be done to keep these children in the regular schools for a longer period, they should be given a course in some kind of a continuation school, where the more obvious gaps in their education can be filled up.

The joys of an oil "expert" are of short duration—when there's a woman in the case. And especially when that woman is the alleged "property" of another man.

A man said last week that when he was a boy he wanted to be a man and have a wife. Now he has one and wishes he was a boy again.

Extensive Tax Drive Coming

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue Milton A. Miller:

"In this, as in every other section of the country, there will be conducted during the next two months an extensive tax drive for the collection of delinquent sales and other miscellaneous taxes, such as the so-called luxury tax, the gift tax, the admission tax, the manufacturer's tax, the tax on jewelry and works of art, and the tax on toilet articles and proprietary medicines. Reports of laxity on the part of dealers and others responsible for the return and collection of these taxes have reached the bureau of internal revenue from many sources.

"To remedy this condition, a large force of revenue officers will be put in the field, and it is expected to result in the collection of millions of dollars in delinquent taxes.

"Information from the sales tax unit of the bureau of internal revenue is that many dealers in soft drinks and ice cream either are keeping no record of the amount of tax collections from such sales, or that the record is insufficient and incorrect.

"Special attention will be directed to the collection of this tax as well as to the tax on toilet articles and proprietary medicines. Through the failure of retailers to collect in full the tax of 1 cent for each 25 cents or fraction thereof of the amount for which toilet articles and proprietary medicines are sold, it is estimated the government is losing several million dollars annually. The tax is collected by means of stamps ranging from 1 to 40 cents, which the law provides shall be affixed by the dealer, and cancelled.

"It is the intention to conduct as thorough and effective a campaign as possible in such a way as to bring to justice willful violators, and cause no embarrassment to merchants and business men who honestly are endeavoring to comply with the revenue laws."

Presby Tossers Defeat Baptists

The ball game last night between the Baptists and the Presbyterians was somewhat of a slugfest, mixed with plenty of errors, and resulted in a score of 13 to 9, favoring the Presbyterians. Sads Sutherland started to pitch for the Baptists, but was somewhat wild and ineffective and was removed in the second inning, and Carl Black finished the game. Street pitched throughout for the Presbyterians, and was also wild and was hit much harder than usual, though he made 14 men fan the air. The Presbyterians made three to begin with on a base on balls. Campbell's hit and two batters by Street and Whipple and an error. The Baptists took one in the first on a base on balls, and hits by L. McClintock and Cecil Black. The Presbyterians and Cecil Black. The Presbyterians added three more in the second on an error, and hits by Goodman, Campbell and another error. They added one more in the third on a fielder's choice and hits by Goodman and Campbell. The Baptists got two in the third on A. Davis' hit, a base on balls and two errors. The Presbyterians got their eighth run in the fifth on Sherrill's two sacker, a passed ball sending him to third, and he scored on an error by L. Davis. In the sixth two more were put across. A fielder's choice let Whipple reach first. This was followed by Whipple more misplays sending Whipple home, and a base on balls and one more error brought in the other. At this stage the Baptists threw in a big score by rushing five across the can. Street issued two passes; A. Davis made a hit and L. McClintock did likewise, with a wild pitch that sent the runners on. Stephenson's two bagger helped along, and when the smoke had cleared away the score stood ten to eight. But Presbyterians were not to be denied, and rushed four over in the last inning. The Baptists coming back with one. This makes the Presbyterians second in the race, with the Christians still holding a slight lead. Two games will be played next week.

Students Seeking Reserve Commissions

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, June 19.—Seeking their commissions as reserve officers in the United States army, ten students left June 18th for Camp Kearney, California. They will attend a six weeks' course in the training camp there, thereby fulfilling half of the requirements for a reserve commission. The cadets chosen for this honor from among the battalion at the university are: Major Arnold Kopke of Athena, Captain Byron O. Garrett of Hillsboro, Captain William Pope Allyn of Portland, Lieutenant Ernest J. Evans of Eugene, First Sergeant Marc Latham of Silverton, Sergeant George H. Houck of Roseburg, Sergeant George Paston of Portland, Sergeant Adam Wilhelm of Monroe, Corporal Newton Langerman of Portland, and Cadet Don Zimmermann of Eugene.

The California training school is a western exponent of the Plattsburg idea, the methods used and the ends accomplished being identical with those developed at the New York camp.

The course of military work at the University of Oregon thus fits a man to better fill his position as a civilian and a citizen through its discipline
