REPUBLICAN NOMINEE
TYPICAL AMERICAN

Warren G. Harding, the republican nominee for president, has had a typical American career. A farmer boy working his way through school and college, a successful journalist and eventually a senator from the state of Ohio, has carried through his changes of fortune an unblemished character and has won the highest esteem of all with whom he has come in contact.

Senator Harding's nomination was not a complete surprise. He was not a "dark horse." He was an avowed candidate for the nomination, but his campaign was conducted quietly, with little ostentation and, a fact greatly to his advantage at Chicago, with small expenditure. The two leading candidates, Wood and Lowden, having reached a point of deadlock, and Senator Johnson demonstrated to be incapable of gaining strength, the convention naturally turned to a man in a strong strategic position politically and geographically, whose record was clear, who had not been touched by the scandals of excessive funds and who could squarely stand upon the platform adopted. Senator Harding met these qualifications.

The republicans have chosen well in their standard bearer. Senator Harding has made an excellent record in the upper house of congress. He is popular in his state, having won the senatorship by over 100,000 majority. He has participated actively in legislation. A staunch partisan, he has nevertheless been broad in his views or national questions. He has no apparent vulnerable point. As a successful newspaper editor, he has a sense of political proportion that will stand him in good stead in the campaign to come.

Considering the bitterness of the contest at Chicago and the high tension caused by the competition between the three leaders in the early balloting, the nomination of Senator Harding was accomplished with great ease. No one state can distinctly claim the credit of having nominated him. He gained in the balloting yesterday afternoon steadily, and when the recess was taken his nomination was but a matter of time. For a convention that was beset by so many conflicting aspirations, so many strong claims for consideration, this choice was reached with remarkable smoothness, and the party is to be congratulated upon its selection.

Senator Harding's running mate is Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts. He has proved a strong, capable executive, courageous in the discharge of duty in difficulties. Reckoning Harding as a "western man," in the old sense that has somewhat passed with the great development of the country beyond the Mississippi, Gov. Coolidge exemplifies the geographical balance as an easterner. He has been a long time since Massachusetts has furnished a candidate on a presidential ticket. The state once solidly and dependably republican, has on occasions in late years demonstrated a democratic tendency that may now be reckoned as justifying the choice of a son to accompany the Ohioan through the campaign to the goal of republican hopes in November.—Washington Evening Star

IMPROVEMENT CLUB MEETS.

The Garden Valley Improvement club met at the home of Mrs. Rearick on June 16th. The house was a perfect bower of flowers, both indoor and outside; roses and sweet peas were abundant and the first prize for a contest was a huge bouquet of pink sweet peas won by Mrs. J. D. Young and the second a bunch of pink roses by Mrs. Hulbert. Mrs. Rearick's garden is very beautiful and artistic and shows great care taken. After the usual business the club enjoyed a pleasant social hour, dainty refreshments being served by the hostesses. Mrs. Rearick and Mrs. Hattie Wood who entertained with her. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Young, June 24.

BESS MORELAND'S MANEUVERS.

I did not speak.
"Oh! Of course I know you do not approve of it," he said roughly, "but you know Elizabeth is all alone and I think she will make a nice companion for mother."
"Did your mother suggest the partnership?" I asked.
"Well, I have really forgotten who suggested it, but Elizabeth told me that since living had become so expensive it wasn't easy to get along. And I thought that you would be much better pleased than to have mother come with us."
"I certainly should," I said firmly, "I do not know why you women are all down on Elizabeth Moreland. I couldn't be half so attentive to her as I am, if I weren't so ashamed of her way you women treat her."
"Oh, that is it," I asked, "You mean to tell me that it is only because I snub Elizabeth Moreland that you make yourself conspicuous with your attentions to her?"

"How do you know that I made myself conspicuous?"
"Oh, someone has told you, have they?"
"A good many people have," blurted out John, and then I was immediately sorry.
"I don't know why people should be so censorious," he said, "Elizabeth and I have been children, playmates and friends all of our lives, except when we quarrel."
"Oh you do quarrel occasionally?" was my comment.
"Not very often," said John honestly. "Elizabeth and I do not have as many differences of opinion as you and I, Katherine. I suppose it is because we have grown up together and formed similar tastes and ideas."
"Oh, by the way? Here is something that she told me to give to you for the baby. I had almost forgotten it."
And he handed me a tiny box. At the time I was rather surprised that he had spoken of her, now I knew there was method in his madness. I opened the box and found a very beautiful string of seed pearls.
"Let's see how they look around her neck," said John, starting up.
"No, we won't disturb the baby when she is sleeping," I said as I put the tiny beads back in the box and covered it up.
In my heart I was determined that my baby should never wear those pearls.
Was I wrong? I do not know.

Wonderful Results at Severyn From Internal Baths.

Mrs. L. M. Waldia, 2143 National ave., San Diego, Cal., writes Tyrrell's Organic Institute of New York as follows:
"Within the last month have had wonderful results and inflammation has nearly subsided. I could hardly expect a woman over 70 to receive benefit from a trouble of long standing as quickly as a younger person. Money could not buy my 'B. L. Cascade' if I could not get another."
It is difficult to believe how many internal troubles internal bathing will relieve until you realize that physicians agree that 95% of human ailments are caused by accumulated waste in the lower intestine.
The "J. B. L. Cascade," the scientific method of internal bathing, removes, in a perfectly natural way all poisonous waste, and has been so successful in promoting health that over half a million intelligent Americans are now using it regularly.
It is the invention of Chas. A. Tyrrell, M. D., of New York, who for 25 years was a specialist on internal bathing, and it is now being shown and explained by Nathan Fullerton, 222 St. Roseburg, Ore.
He will give you on request a very interesting booklet on Internal Bathing by Dr. Tyrrell, "Why Man of Today is Only 50% Efficient."
Ask for it today and know more about yourself and your functions than you ever have before.

WAS I WRONG? I DO NOT KNOW.

Tomorrow—A Note From Alice.

SAYS WOODROW WILL RUN.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—If the weight of newspaper opinion as expressed today means anything, Woodrow Wilson will be the leading candidate to succeed himself when the San Francisco convention gets down to business. Five out of six newspapers this morning declared either in their editorial or news columns that the Wilson interview distributed to the country through the New York World, when coupled with the McAdoo letter of withdrawal yesterday established the third term candidacy as a living, breathing fact.
But such opinions are sometimes like straw ballots, or, perhaps, more like presidential primaries.
Private opinion, particularly among democrats, was more nearly equally divided. Of five democratic senators, three declared Mr. Wilson always had been a third-term candidate and two others said the president has no such ambitions. As to the McAdoo withdrawal, several of his friends still held out today that he will be the nominee.
Lestlie Butler, of this city, departed for Corvallis yesterday, where he will have charge of some student of the industrial club work.
