Secretary Roosevelt
Advocates Revision

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Revision of the present methods of making appropriations and redistribution of the work of the various executive departments are recommended by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt in a letter to Representative Ireland, congressman, Illinois, which was made public today at the navy department.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote in reply to an inquiry from Mr. Ireland as to whether any reorganizations, reforms or consolidations could be made in the navy department. The assistant secretary did not confine himself to that department. He recommended that Congress:

"Create a true budget system, not the small beginning already attempted.

"Consolidate the appropriations in one general committee, with subcommittees to deal with separate subjects.

"Put into law the general principles recommended by the reclassification committee's report, together with the authorization of adequate salaries to government employees.

"Invite a conference with the executive branch of the government, looking to a reclassification and redistribution of the work of the departments.

"Give by law greater authority to the heads of the executive departments in conducting their executive business, at the same time holding these heads more directly responsible for the successful administration of their work."

Mr. Roosevelt said that the entire system of relationship which exists between Congress and the executive departments is fundamentally wrong. "After seven years down here in an executive position," he continued, "I cannot help the conclusion that our governmental methods are cumbersome and wasteful. I am equally frank in telling you that I think the first improvement must come in what is after all the source of governmental activities, i. e., the legislative branch.

"I hope you will not take this as a criticism of any individual or this particular congress when I call attention to the very unwise, inadequate and unbusinesslike methods under which the public and senate of the United States conduct their business. For instance, the navy department has to go before the naval affairs committee for its main appropriation; it also has to go before the appropriations committee for the money to run the force in Washington, and I can cite numerous instances where the department has fallen between the two fires of the committees."

PRODUCING TURPENTINE.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 21.—Much after the fashion of collecting maple sap, the Northwestern Turpentine company has been gathering pitch from fir stands in this section and has begun production of turpentine resin. Leases have been secured on certain tracts of timber, providing that all holes bored in trees shall be plugged up when the pitch has been removed. After securing the turpentine by distilling, it has been found that a small amount of balsam could be obtained from old growth yellow fir.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE
by the noted author
Idah McGlone Gibson

A NOTE FROM ALICE.

After John left me I looked again at the little string of pearls in the box and I thought that I had been un-lucky nasty about them.

I had no feeling in accepting a gift from Karl Sheppard. In fact I had a very pleasant sensation when I read in his letter that he was going to send the baby something. This being true, why should I make a fuss about Elizabeth Moreland's gift?

Elizabeth was sending her remembrance to John's child and Karl Sheppard's gift was for my baby.

However, I still felt that Karl Sheppard's love and affection for me was very much different than that of Elizabeth Moreland for John. Karl's had been particularly unselfish. Since he had told me he cared for me he had made it impossible for me to write to him by never giving me an address and he had told me that if I wished I could show John his letters.

Karl Sheppard seemed to think that it was joy enough for him to care for me and he wanted me to understand that his love for me was ather impersonal or at least I took it so. On the other hand, Elizabeth Moreland had tried and I am sure that she is trying in every way to compromise John with her in such a way that I would divorce him.

"It surely is a mix up," I said to myself.

I wonder if other married couples go through this life with no adventures in the fields of romance outside their own little fenced-in domain. Every man seems to think that he has a perfect right to pick the flowers across the hedge, but I am sure that he is never quite satisfied if he finds his wife looking with admiring eyes at wild roses.

"If John would always be as good to me—as sweet to me—as he had been today," I said to myself. "I could show him Karl Sheppard's letters tomorrow and tell him that I wished in some way he must make Karl understand that he must not write me any more."

Men sometimes give us credit for being human and sometimes, alas, us down for a little less.

We are quite as apt to succumb to the flattering voice of temptation

EXTENDING LINES.

The forest service is planning on great deal of extension work to its telephone lines this summer and has already started several projects. The one along the North Umpqua trail will be put through to Watson butte, while the other fork will be followed to Lake creek. Next summer the line will clear through to Diamond ake, the end of the trail. The Diamond-Glide section will soon be completed and the Boundary section, consisting of five miles of telephone line will be finished soon. A lookout station is being built at Red utter and a ranger station is to be set up at Glide.

MARK HILL DEAD.

The park bill passed by the U. S. senate making Diamond lake district a national park, has been practically killed, it has been reported to the forestry department. The bill was opposed by organizations of this state on the grounds that it would spoil the district for hunting and grazing purposes and would put the lake and its surroundings under undesirable restrictions. The bill was referred to the house of representatives and allowed to die a natural death.
