Legion Post Honors Fighter

BUENOS AIRES, June 23.—The recently organized Buenos Aires post of the American Legion will be known as "Spencer Ely Post". Spencer Ely was the first American residing in Argentina to volunteer to serve his country in France and the first to fall of the Argentine contingent.

On his arrival in France, Ely joined the 165th regiment (the old fighting 69th, of New York) and was killed in Chateau Thierry. After having been wounded in action he was carried to a dressing station from which he refused to be removed until more seriously wounded comrades had been taken to the rear. Before his turn came, the dressing station was blown up by a German shell.

Ely was a native of Flushing, N. Y., and a descendant of General Schuyler, of the American revolution. His family has resided in Buenos Aires for about 12 years.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE by the noted author Idah McGlone Gibson

ALICE UNDERSTANDS.

"This letter is interminable," wrote Alice, "but I am hungry to talk to you about everything, especially this new 'lie up' of mother and Elizabeth. You know and I know my dear, that mother and Elizabeth Moreland will never get along together in the world. They never did when Elizabeth used to come to the house and spend a week-end with me in our girlhood days.

"I am sure that Hess suggested this lovely little arrangement to John and he in his blundering, masculine way, jumped at it. I met her on the street yesterday and she told me that she was moving the first of the week instead of waiting until you and John had moved into your home. That will make it rather awkward, my dear, when you come home. If you like you can come and visit me. You know that I would be delighted to have you. But if you can stand it, I think it would be better to stay at the house for one night and then move into your new home.

"The new house is perfectly lovely, Katherine. Tom told me yesterday that he did not understand why he let it slip through his fingers. So, if you do not want or like it, we will take it off your hands. It is quite the most beautiful house in town.

"Helen and Bobby had the time of their lives when little Bobby was with them. It is almost too bad that he did not let him stay with them longer as she has two others.

"I really feel sorry for Helen. She is so fearful all the while that she is not going to make Bob happy enough to compensate him for all that she has given up for her. She is making the great mistake of allowing him to know this. After all, Katherine, I have almost come to feel that fear is the constant enemy which menaces human content.

"I often remember your great admiration and courage and I think perhaps that great courage has another splendid quality that you have seldom spoken of and that is that it eliminates fear to a great extent. Tom surprised me the other night by saying that no man who was the least bit fearful was ever a good business man—that all of life was taking chances and no one ever took a chance who was afraid.

"I am scribbling away here to you, Katherine, because you are the only woman to whom I can say these things. I am waiting, very impatiently, for your return and I want to see my new niece. When do you think you are coming?
"By the way, have you heard from Karl Sheppard? One of my friends in the bank the other day told me that no one had heard from him since he left for India. Of course I did not tell him that you had heard from him. In fact, I don't remember that you spoke of receiving a letter since we were at Atlantic City. I have always liked Karl. Perhaps it is because he is different from the other men that I have known. He has not the egotism and airs that John has. Neither is he quite so calm and poised as Tom. I like the poetical streak in Karl and I think that in what appeals to you.

"You know I have always praised him to you, Katherine. More, perhaps than I should, since you are John's wife and I his sister. But if I were honest and spoke truly, I think that you would be happier as Karl's wife than as the wife of my brother.

"Isn't that a terrible thing to say?
"Thank heaven, however, the modern woman is beginning to be frank—in other words, she is daring to be frank. Your mother and my mother would no more have dared to tell any other woman that she could be happier with any other man than the one she had married than she would have dared to put her hand in the fire.

"I am not wanting you to separate from my brother, Katherine. I think his only salvation is in living with you. I have always noticed that he has lost some of his aggressiveness, and when he spoke of going to you and the baby I thought that he was losing some of his selfishness.

"I won't write what I was going to tell you about him. I will only say that even after writing this, I am very fond of John and very glad that you are his wife. And also I am selfish enough to be glad that you are with him instead of Elizabeth Moreland. I am sure that if it had not been you, my dear, it would have been she.

"I wish that you would come back very soon and get into politics with me. The men don't want us and they are not accepting us very gracefully or graciously. In fact, many of them have not really come yet to see that this is the woman's hour and women are now equal with men. They are still trying to treat us as something a little less than themselves.

"Here I have been running along at a great rate. Again let me tell you how much I want to see the baby. Good-bye, my dear. Come to me soon.
"ALICE."
Tomorrow—John is Angry.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

'SOUTH END' STILL ON THE JOB.

To the Evening News-Review:
Gentlemen—I notice in your paper of recent date of statements made before the council of the city in regards to the deplorable condition of the main street, and that the Mill street end of Roseburg, and that they will become impassable. I wish to state that no such condition will be permitted, also that said streets will not be closed, as the Mill street exit has been a rural Mail route for years besides there are still living a few people along the southern end of our city, who intend to keep that street open and improved. We will have the new bridge and a beautiful Park, where one can go for a day in the big out of doors.

No brother, we are not dead out on the south end and will prove to you that every man, woman and child is with you for a bigger and better Roseburg and there will be no closing up of our streets; the one we have will be improved.
Yours respectfully,
G. E. WOODRUFF.

sire incorporated in the project for a Jewish Homeland in Palestine, by Jacob de Haas, executive Secretary of the Zionist Organization of America.

Mr. de Haas arrived in London today with United States Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, Honorary president of the Zionist Organization of America; Judge Julian W. Mack, president; Nathan Straus, Mrs. Mary Fels, Professor Felix Frankfurter, Captain Abraham Tulin, David Rosenbloom and Louis Lipsky, organization secretary. These are the advance guard of the 39 delegates of American Zionists to the World Zionist Conference, convening in London July 4.

American Zionists will make a united effort to have the Pittsburgh program, which they adopted in 1918 as the guiding social principle for the Jewish Homeland, approved by the World Conference. In the program it will formulate for the policy to be carried out in Palestine. Mr. de Haas in the statement he gave out on the eve of what is considered the most significant Jewish World conference ever held, stressed the progressive tenets of the Pittsburgh program, declaring:

"The Zionists are not going to be satisfied with a Palestine or land of Israel, which will be a mere duplicate of the numerous small states of Europe or South America. They believe that the 2,000 years of suffering and martyrdom of the wandering Jew has given to our race a wealth of experience, which, added to the ancient heritage of the Jew, can be made fruitful in the creation of a model settlement in the land of our forefathers.

Te'ma Hoeflin and Mildred Parker who have been visiting at the latter's home in this city for a few days, left this morning for Eugene where they will finish up their work at the University of Oregon.

Most of our friends are of course aware of the fact that we are compelled to vacate the store that has become the popular trading place for thousands of Douglas county residents, and for the next 90 days we shall be sorely taxed to take care of the wants of our customers.

We are making this public appeal for your kind forbearance and patience.

We shall do the best we can, but if the inconveniences stand out conspicuously, don't desert us on that account.

The owners of the building promise us a splendid store, which we shall endeavor to make the greatest mercantile establishment in Douglas county. In the meantime, come and see us in the shed adjoining, and let's grin and bear it.

Sincerely yours,
