

German Militarism Crushed Forever

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Official advice received here state that the allied military control commission with Marshal Foch as its supreme directing head, ex-officio, constitutes now the keystone of allied relations with Germany. It is declared that so long as the commission continues to function, revival of German militarism is impossible.

According to these advices, the military control commission exceeds in importance even the reparations commission since former President Poincaré resigned from the reparations body because the allies had decided to limit its authority and since the naval and air commissions have been relegated to positions of secondary importance.

The military control commission began to function as soon as the treaty of Versailles became effective. Presided over by General Nollet of the French army, with headquarters in Berlin, and reporting to Marshal Foch, the commission, in addition to its supervision of German disarmament, has taken an active interest in the political-military developments in Germany. Reports of the recurrence of Prussian militarism first emanated from reports of the commission to the supreme council.

A sub-committee of the commission was sent into the Ruhr district for investigation under command of the French Major Graff and it was the report of this commission to official advices which formed the basis for French contentions at San Remo of German duplicity.

The work of the commission is divided into two general subjects, effective and armaments. The sub-committee devoted to the subject of effectiveness is concerned with the size and organization of the German army, while the sub-committee on armaments is concerned chiefly with maintaining a proper reduction of stocks of guns and ammunition in Germany.

No place in Germany is exempt from investigations by representatives of these committees, an authority of the supreme council in the past has been invoked several times to obtain execution of the commission's demands.

The two sub-committees, in an effort to maintain strict police over potential German militarism, have organized numerous agents into district sub-committees throughout Germany. Such district committees on effectiveness are presided over by French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, East Prussia, Bavaria, and Silesia; by British in Berlin and Saxony; by an Italian in Baden and Wurtemberg; and a Belgian in Westphalia and Hanover. Similarly, sub-committees on armaments have as their heads, French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, Frankfurt, Hanover and Saxony; British, in East Prussia, Westphalia, Hanover, Cologne and Silesia; Italian, in Berlin and Bavaria; and Belgian in Baden and Wurtemberg.

The work of these committees consists chiefly in visiting garrisons, supply depots, military schools and training camps, in sending out agents to make inquiries and incidentally, in keeping in touch with the political-military tide of affairs.

Disorders in Italy.

ROME, June 28.—Reports of serious disorders in widely separated portions of Italy appear to corroborate the impression that the situation is the direct result of a deeply laid plot to overturn the present social order throughout the entire country. Unemployment is alleged to be the immediate reason for the many strikes and much of the rioting now in progress in Italy.

Tire Men Killed.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 28.—Wm. G. Walsh, president of the Vulewold Tire & Rubber Co. and Jas. A. Maney, superintendent of the company, were killed early this morning by an explosion. Frank Walsh, a brother of the president, lost an arm and suffered other injuries which may prove fatal.

END OF EIGHT YEARS MISERY

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Recovered.

Newark, N. J.—"The doctor said I had an organic trouble and treated me for several weeks. At times I could not walk at all and I suffered with my back and limbs so I often had to stay in bed. I suffered off and on for eight years. Finally I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a good medicine and tried it with splendid effect. I can now do my housework and my washing. I have recommended your vegetable Compound and your Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking them to advantage. You can use my name for a testimonial."
—Mrs. THERESA COVENTRY, 75 Burnett St., Newark, N. J.

You are invited to write for free advice. No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

A CLEAR SKIN

Women do not have to patronize the beauty parlor—for if their skin is disfigured with pimples and blotches, and their blood is in disorder they should obtain at the drug store that wonderful blood tonic and alterative of Dr. Pierce's which he placed before the public over 50 years ago. Since that time many thousands of men and women have testified to its wonderful blood cleansing effect. This is what one woman says:

CHEHALS, WASH.—"I have used Doctor Pierce's medicines for over forty years for myself and family and have always found them just as represented. I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a tonic and blood builder cannot be too highly commended. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have no equal for constipation; in fact, I can heartily recommend any and all of Dr. Pierce's remedies. My daughter had chronic constipation from babyhood and doctors could not cure her. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets is the only thing that ever helped her."
—Miss JENNIE K. SWOFFORD, 1320 Alfred St.

Census of Walla Walla is today given out at 15,593, which is a decrease of 3361, or 19.3 per cent, since the census ten years ago.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE by the noted author Idaho McGlone Gibson

Is Ruth Falling in Love?

"That was a close shave," said John as he came up the stairs with little Ruth in his arms. I did not realize that I had gone so far down stairs for the first time since my baby was born, until I heard the quick footfalls of the nurse and recognized the horrified tones of her voice as she said, "What is the matter Mrs. Gordon? You should not have come downstairs."

"Oh, I'm all right," I answered, "I am not going to be an invalid any longer."

"Has there been an accident?" she asked, as she caught sight of Charles torn clothing and Ruth's pale face from behind John.

"I don't think anyone was hurt, but little Ruth came very near being run over by an automobile."

"She is alright, though," said John, and as if to confirm it, baby Ruth said, "Oh, Auntie Kathlyn, I want to see baby."

"So you shall, my dear," I answered, "just as soon as your mother and Mr. Goodwin catch their breath."

By this time Charles had seated Ruth and she was crying hysterically.

"Don't cry, Ruth," he said, "every thing is all right."

"But I forgot her, Charles! I forgot her! For the first time in my life I forgot one of my children."

"Would Have Been a Good Thing," it would have been a good thing if you could have forgot 'em once or twice before this," said John to me in a whisper. "If she had she would probably be living with Bob now."

"Great Scott!" he continued, as if to himself, "Goodwin never seemed to me to be the kind of a man for whom a woman would forget everything."

"If Charles is the kind of a man a woman forgets anything for, he is also the kind of a man who does things for a woman she will always remember. John has just saved the life of Ruth's child," I said testily.

"Why, of course he did, and so would any other man in the same position. No woman seems to understand that though. Ruth probably thinks that Charles would have let that baby be run over by all the motor cars in the world, consequently she will probably fall desperately in love with him."

"I hope she will," I said deviously. "I think it would be wonderful if Charles would marry Ruth, and then she would be content to let him."

"Must Have the Pleasure." "No, I think John has been without his wife long enough and now when he has a wife and baby, he certainly must have the pleasure as well as the responsibility of them."

"I am sorry that you are going," said Ruth. "I shall miss you, you have done me lots of good, and some times you have made me rather unhappy, my dear. I never realized until lately how selfish I was with Bob."

I wonder if it were I or Charles who had brought this realization of selfishness to Ruth Gaylord. Tomorrow—The Duties of a Wife.

Seeking Signers Ballot Measures

Petitions are being circulated in Roseburg for the proposed state market commission and divided legislative session acts, put forward by the state taxpayers league and other organizations interested in public welfare.

The market commission act would provide for a state commissioner whose duty it would be to act as an intermediary between the producer, distributor and consumer of necessities, insuring a square deal for all three.

The duty of the commission include dissemination of a monthly bulletin on crop conditions, issuance of labels to producer, packer, canner or distributor when not otherwise authorized by law; action on behalf of consumers; and protection of their interests in every way; extension of the market for Oregon products; encouragement of co-operation; producers informed on supply and demand for their products; co-operative effort with the United States department of agriculture.

The term of state market director would be for four years.

Two sections for each biennial session of the state legislature are provided by the divided session act. The first, 60 days in duration, would be used for consideration of new bills and actions on appropriations for established state institutions.

During the second part of the session, 10 days in duration, action would be taken on bills submitted at the first part of the session, but no new bills could be presented. A 60 day interval would elapse between the two sessions. Legislators would return home and learn the attitude of their constituents before casting the vote that would reject or accept for law any proposed measure.

Search Reveals no Trace of Fugitive

After "beating about the bush" for about five hours the officers yesterday were forced to give up the search for Glenn Duncan, who recently escaped handcuffed from Deputy Sheriff Millard at Myrtle Creek. Word was received that the fugitive had been hiding out at the Charles Orr place, on Rice creek, and a trip was made to the cabin in an effort to locate the missing man. Sheriff Quinn Deputy Rafferty and Detective Frank Rogers spent several hours searching in the neighborhood of the cabin but could find no trace of Duncan, although they found footprints which might have been made by him. Duncan is accused of stealing the Ford car belonging to the Utah Electric company, and also with having passed a worthless check on the Umpqua Hotel.

the Bobby go to live with his father and Helen, and everyone would be happy.

"There you go, as usual, arranging the affairs of the world."

"What are you two people whispering about?" asked Ruth, who had gotten over her crying spell.

"Oh, John is accusing me of being a little Miss Fix It."

"What are you trying to fix now," asked Charles innocently.

John grinned as I blushed and answered, "Oh, it's something that I don't think you would be interested in."

Make Her Tell It. "Make her tell it, Goodwin. Make her tell it. I know that you would be intensely interested in it."

Charles with his usual kindness saw my discomfort and turning to Ruth asked her if she would be able to ride home now.

"I want to see baby. I want to see baby," cried a little voice.

"So you shall, my dear, so you shall," I repeated, "do you feel able to come upstairs too, Ruth?"

"Yes, I would like to come. I am sure my nose needs powdering."

As I looked at Ruth in surprise I was quite sure that she had never used powder as the wife of Bobby Gaylord.

"Do you really think you will be able to walk up the stairs?" asked John.

I thought he was speaking to Ruth but on glancing at his face, I found he was looking at me.

"Oh, I'm all right," I said, but I wanted to tell him I was righter than I had been in a long time for I had found my husband thinking of me when there was something else going on.

"I am going back home with John I said suddenly to Ruth as we went up the stairs."

"I thought you were going to stay here until fall," said Ruth in a voice of disappointment.

Must Have the Pleasure. "No, I think John has been without his wife long enough and now when he has a wife and baby, he certainly must have the pleasure as well as the responsibility of them."

"I am sorry that you are going," said Ruth. "I shall miss you, you have done me lots of good, and some times you have made me rather unhappy, my dear. I never realized until lately how selfish I was with Bob."

Henpecked Henry At Antlers Tonight

At the Antlers theatre tonight the breezy farce comedy "Hen-Pecked Henry" will hold the boards. Burt Southern, a comedian new to the Pacific coast heads the cast and is supported by a company of stage celebrities who have been selected for the various roles. Entirely different from the usual run of farce comedies, "Hen-Pecked Henry" is full of "go" from the first rise of the curtain until the final. The latest song successes and musical novelties and selections presented by the company add a zest to the performance. Eight of the prettiest girls in musical comedy assist the star and the surrounding cast in presenting an entertainment far above the ordinary. The plot is clever and the complications that beset "Henry" are so numerous that to tell them would take away much of the enjoyment derived from seeing the show.

This setting of a new trigger ring is lined and when lifted discloses receptacles for two photographs.
