A PHILIPPINE TRAVELOGUE

THE ROMANTIC ISLANDS OF THE FAR EAST. PICTURES OF THEIR NATURAL BEAUTY AND HISTORIC SPOTS—BECOMING A MECCA FOR TOURISTS AND A POPULAR WINTER RESORT.

The Zigzag on the Way to Baguio, Summer Capital of the Philippines.

All aboard! Let's go! We're starting from Manila, the great picturesque, Americanized Oriental city, and will travel by automobile 200 miles to the north to Baguio, the summer capital of the Philippines. The trip can also be made by train.

We have ahead of us one of the most scenic, spectacular and thrilling automobile trips in the world. We will have excellent roads all the way. The Philippines are, in fact, a paradise for autoists, possessing 3,700 miles of fine macadamized roads.

The first part of the trip is through typical small towns and then across the central plain of Luzon and through several rich and fertile provinces, where tropical vegetation is seen at its best. Here one is impressed with the great agricultural wealth of the Philippines, which represents one of the East's greatest producing areas, with the advantage of immense natural resources for the development of further production. It is regrettably true that even in the United States there is far from any real understanding of the potentialities of the islands.

At some points rice fields, looking in the distance like the greenest of green lawns, stretch away as far as the eye can see. If you want color, if you want to feel the romance and mystery of an Oriental twilight, pass this way as the red eyed sun at the end of the dying day is slowly sinking behind the mending expanse of green fields. At first you cry out in ecstasy at the gorgeous scene. But as you ride along, your eyes fastened on the panorama of tints and colors, and with the impenetrably black Oriental night coming on faster, you become enthralled. You no longer try to express your feelings. You cannot. You realize that those now fast changing, colorful masterpieces in the heavens and on the landscape are pictures that no man can adequately describe nor human hands duplicate. So what's the use of trying?

True, these are but impressions, but the travelogue considers himself justified in mentioning them, for they are a part of the trip to Baguio and return. Indeed, the gorgeous sunsets in all parts of the Philippines leave an impression on the mind of the tourist that is everlasting.

We leave the palms and tropical foliage and enter the zone of rugged pine. We pass from the soft, mellow haze of the warm lowlands to the crisp, invigorating ozone of the temperate zone, all within a few hours' time.

For mile after mile the road now follows the tortuous course of a river, the road lying in the bottom or on the rocky sides of a granite canyon.

The Philippines are rich in hydro-electric possibilities. This power is the cheapest power on earth. And it is everlasting. Your travelogue is neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but he predicts that one day there will be innumerable Philippine government owned hydro-electric plants in the canyon we are now passing through. Think of the possibilities of such a project! Today the trip from Manila to Baguio is too expensive for the average Manila worker and his family, many of whom may live and die without beholding the wondrous beauties of their own island of Luzon. Think of what a blessing it would be to Filipino mothers and children to feel upon their fevered brows the cool, invigorating breezes of the mountain tops, now so near and yet so far! With the Philippine government owning its own electric railways and hydro-electric plants it would be possible to bring he is on the rim of the world. Some of the turns are so sharp it is impossible to see 20 feet ahead, and we seem to be perilously near the jumping off place. We wonder if it is safe to lean out and peer into the canyon far below, and when we do we are perfectly satisfied we are flirting with death. Yet the trip is a safe one, providing our driver has better nerves than our own.

"At times we seemed perilously near the jumping off place."

All too soon we reach the outskirts of Baguio, a city among the clouds, and are further surprised at the modern city we find it to be. In ten years Baguio has grown from a village of huts to the now justly famed mountain resort of the Philippines, sometimes called the Philippine St. Moritz. It is undoubtedly destined some day to become a large city.

Baguio ranges in elevation from 4,500 to 5,500 feet and is surrounded practically on all sides by high mountain ridges and "baguiocks" towering into the skies at a height of almost 8,000 feet.

Aside from the scenery, which is noteworthy, the great blessing of Baguio is its temperate climate, which is indeed a godsend to those impoverished by the tropical temperatures of the lowlands. Not only is the mountain air rich in ozone, but it has been demonstrated to be extraordinarily free from germs of all kinds.

Each year during the hot season the school teachers of the entire archipelago are enabled by the government to spend a month at the teachers' camp in Baguio for recreation and conference on school work. American army officers and their families also go to Baguio for the hot months.

And now that your travelogue has you in Baguio, he believes he will leave you there, for there are many interesting side trips to take, and, besides, Baguio is the most delightful place for a vacation in the entire Orient.

Has Half Dozen Swiss Milk Goats

A half dozen milk goats, the property of C. E. Moyer, a recent arrival from southern California, are attracting considerable attention. They are being pastured at the Salzman property on the corner of Lane and Stephens streets. Mr. Moyer is moving here and has brought the animals with him as several of them are pets.

"In southern California, nearly every family owns its own milk goats," Mr. Moyer said. "It is nothing unusual to see a family touring with a goat carried in a crate on the running board. They are easily transferred and many people from that section have taken their goats on the train with them across the continent in order to supply good milk for the baby.

"Goats milk is used almost entirely in that section for baby food, where prepared food is necessary. In cases where other foods have failed to give results, goat's milk has been found to give excellent results. Doctors claim it to be the best substitute for mother's milk and it is used extensively. Seven goats consume as much food as one cow, and can be pastured in almost any place where there is a small amount of brush or grass."

Mr. Moyer says he does not expect to go into the business on a commercial basis, but intends to always keep a flock of goats to provide his family with fresh milk at all times. He keeps the Swiss Toggenburgs, which are the most popular in the southern California districts.

EUGENE-BEND TRIP MADE

BEND, Ore., June 28.—The first airplane to cross the Cascades from Eugene to Bend arrived this morning, when Harold Grady, ex-United States Army Pilot, and F. S. McClure, British ace, who has 19 German planes officially to his credit, flew over Bend in a 110 horsepower, three passenger machine and landed five miles from here. They will remain here over Wednesday and expect to fly to the Dalles Thursday. During his stay here Mr. Grady said he intended to ascertain whether or not financial backing can be obtained locally for an airplane transportation company to have its headquarters in Bend. The outlay would be between $25,000 and $30,000, he estimated.

SOUNDS LIKE OLD TIMES

PORTLAND, June 28.—"We slanged and drank until we were all seeing snakes," boasted Selma Wisdom to her husband, Grover Wisdom, following a little party on March 6, 1920, says the husband in a divorce complaint filed in the circuit court yesterday. She made the assertion it is maintained, that "every guy that dances with me has to pay me." In his complaint the husband gives a very unsavory reputation to the Dreamland dance hall of Seattle, saying that it was a notorious, disreputable place that his wife often frequented. The Wisdoms were married in Seattle July 8, 1919. Mrs. Wisdom started on the enbar and roadhouse route shortly after they were married, avers her husband. Stella Pitts filed suit for divorce yesterday against Jack Pitts, alleging cruelty.

Your slippers, pipe, favorite reading and the CALORIC are a combination that make you forget the howling wind and drifting snow. And how the wife and children appreciate such a home—warm and comfortable in every room.

More than 76,000 satisfied users testify to the splendid success they have had with the

This is the furnace which has revolutionized heating. Instead of using numerous pipes and registers, it heats the entire house through only one register. It is therefore easily installed in new or old houses, usually in one day, without interfering with your present heating arrangements.

The CALORIC heats all types of homes up to eighteen rooms, also churches, stores, factories, halls and other buildings. It burns coal, coke, wood, gas or kerosene, and, because of special patented features, saves from 1/3 to 1/2 your fuel. The CALORIC is sold under the Monitor Iron-Clad Guarantee, which insures the purchaser thorough and economical heat.
