REPORT SHOWS GOOD RESULTS

Report to Red Cross of Activities of Public Health Nurse Shows Progress.

SEVEN CLASSES FORMED

Work is Delayed in Roseburg and Other Sections Owing to People Being Out on Vacations—Is Much Interest Shown.

A comprehensive report of her activities has been handed to the local Red Cross Chapter by Miss Emily Hammond Smith, the recently appointed public health nurse and it shows better than anything else the enthusiasm which she has received and the practical results of her work within this short time. Miss Smith wrote letters to a group of ladies in each community in which she sounded their interest and facilities, and followed by a visit when the actual organization of the Hygiene classes took place.

Following is an extract from Miss Smith's report:

Winston, visit made, class of 18 organized.

Garden valley, visit made, class of 20 or more already organized, instruction already commenced.

Camas valley, visited and class of 18 or 20 organized.

Sutherland, visited, class of 16 or more organized.

Oakland, visit made, class of 26 organized and divided into classes, one morning and one evening instruction already commenced.

Glade, visit made and a class of 15 or more organized.

Roseburg, 20 signed up for classes but owing to the fact that many are out of the city, organization and instruction is to be commenced after the 4th of July.

Six letters have been written to Gardiner and to Reedsport, to be followed by a visit with view to organization of a class later in that section of Douglas county. Wherever I have been there has been much interest and enthusiasm shown in the course and a fine spirit among the women to accept morning class at an inconvenience to them. They all seem to realize the importance and benefits of the course and are eager to arrange for the equipment necessary among themselves.

The whole spirit of co-operation everywhere is splendid. Mr. Lillburn of Roseburg has kindly consented to loan a bed, springs and mattress for demonstration in Roseburg during class week. Chapman's dress store has loaned articles for demonstration and an article which it was necessary to buy, they have made a generous reduction. They

IN YE OLDEN TIME

Hoop skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having the genuine Golden Medical Discovery put up by Dr. Pierce over fifty years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the stomach and blood cannot be surpassed by any remedy today.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak women has never been equalled for the distressing complaints incident to womanhood. What others say:

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—"I suffered from nervous prostration for several years, trying various remedies furnished by the doctor. At last I tried Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, at the advice of a friend who had used it and had been cured, and my recovery was prompt and permanent."—ROSE PATKINER, 222 South Grand Avenue.

HYPOCRISY.

It was a long while after I reached my room before I was able to think serenely. Everything had been so wonderful since the coming of John until now, and now—my world had been broken into pieces again.

I had only one comforting thought about it all, and that was that I was glad to have John read Karl Shepherd's letters. I have always felt a little sting of conscience in regard to them. I wanted him to know all—Karl Shepherd's position and mine—and more than all the rest, I wanted him to know about that queer chord of intimacy which stretched between Karl Shepherd and me, by which we were enabled—I more imperfectly than he—to translate ourselves to each other's side at will.

An Uncanny Situation. It was an uncanny situation, and I knew that John would not acknowledge an understanding of anything of the kind. He would say that Karl Shepherd, knowing my interest in the occult, was playing upon my romanticism. However, I wanted him to know all that had passed between his friend and me, wanted him to know that it was only a paper friendship.

I wondered if I could make him realize that while I loved those letters, yet, because Karl Shepherd had written them, I never wanted to see his face again. Because he had written them I could never feel personal in his presence, and I did not want to feel anything else.

I waited a long time. Miss Parker came to me again and again, asking about the packing of this or that article, and I am sure that I answered more or less sanely. But at last I could stand her inquiries no longer and I said, "I am sure that you and Hannah will know just what to do. I am very tired and I think that I shall lie down a while."

"It is time for the baby to nurse," Mrs. Gordon, remarked Miss Parker questioningly.

"So much the better. Bring her to me and we will go to sleep together."

"I think I had better take her away as soon as she has finished Mrs. Gordon."

"Oh, all right. I'll probably be asleep by that time," I said, determined to appear so at least when she came in for the baby.

I walked to my bedroom in a state of uncertainty and worry over myself and my affairs, but the moment that I felt the little moist line of my baby, smiling at my breast everything else in all the world retreated behind the veil of content.

For the moment I felt as if I knew Ruth did over her children—that nothing else mattered.

Finds Her Arms Empty. Strange as it may seem, I did go to sleep, and it was some time afterward that I awakened to find my arms empty.

have also donated some articles for demonstration week in Roseburg. Mr. Lee Goodman made no charge for the trip to Camas valley, saying he never charged the Red Cross anything. There will be classes in these communities once each week until the completion of the course. We now have an enrollment of 133 members.

Respectfully Submitted,
EMILY HAMMOND SMITH,
Public Health Instructor.

JUDGE RIDDLE IS HONORED.

Judge Geo. W. Riddle, our townsman and loyal booster, was honored by being elected junior vice-commander of the Veterans of the Indian Wars of the Pacific, at their 37th annual convention in Portland yesterday, says the Riddle Enterprise.

The Judge is having a great time with his old cronies this week and expects to remain in Portland for the annual picnic of the Douglas county Portlanders, which will be held on the Fourth.

WESTOVER RESIGNS POSITION.

E. L. Westover, well known dairy specialist of the O. A. C. extension service and the federal dairy division, has resigned to become field representative of the American Guernsey Cattle club. "Mr. Westover has been a strong man and we regret losing him from our staff," says Paul V. Marie, director of extension. "He is, however, entering a field of particular interest to him and we were unable to meet the inducements offered."

Mr. Westover will have charge of the work in the 11 western states, with headquarters at Portland. His resignation takes effect August 1.

Mrs. J. Bator, who has been visiting with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Russell, of West Roseburg, left this morning for her home at Cottage Grove.

DAILY WEATHER REPORT.

U. S. Weather Bureau, local office, Roseburg, Oregon, 24 hours ending 5 a. m. today.

For a moment I thought I had awakened naturally, and then it came to me that my sleep had been broken into by the "honk, honk" of a motor horn.

Miss Parker evidently was listening for any sound that I should make, for as I awakened with a sigh she tiptoed in.

There was curiosity in her eyes as well as in the tones of her voice as she made the announcement. "Mr. Gordon has just left to make the noon train. He told me to tell you that he had had a telegram which called him immediately, and he knew that you would not be able to go so soon. He said that he would meet you whenever you wired him that you were coming."

"We shall try and go tomorrow, Miss Parker," I said, "just as we had decided to do. You may wire him to that effect. Wait, I will send a night message as he would not get it until tomorrow, anyway."

Miss Parker rought me the telegraph blanks and placed the bed table across my lap.

I thought very long and carefully before I wrote the message, which I decided should be perfectly commonplace and casual. I would introduce some of that hypocrisy he had introduced I might use in my relations with him, to good effect.

I knew perfectly well that he had written no telegram, and he knew that I knew it, but for once I pretended, as he had, and said: "Sorry your business called you away. Sorry and I leave tomorrow afternoon. Meet us if possible, Katharine."

I knew that it was very likely that John would not meet us, and so the very height of my hypocrisy were the words "if possible."

Then I went about calmly making arrangements for closing the house with the exception of a few rooms on the lower floor, in which Hannah could make herself comfortable.

In a Daze. I know now that I spent most of the day in a kind of a daze, mechanically doing things that it was necessary for me to do.

Charles came over to dinner, but I left early, saying that he had promised to take little Bobby to the city. After he had gone I picked up my baby and held her close to me. It seemed with the exception of the budding little-soul which I held in my arms, I was completely alone in the world.

By giving Karl Shepherd's letters to John I had cut myself off from Karl's friendship and sympathy. John's love, which was becoming interested in Ruth and her little family, Helen was still lacking her mind to keep Bobby's love and even Alice had seemed to desert me for the politics which she had recently taken up.

"Never mind, Mary," I said, with my mouth close to the shell-like ear "mother will never be alone as long as she has you."

Tomorrow—Selfishness.

Recreation For Employees Provided

Living up to an ideal is something unusual for a manufacturing concern to count among its objectives, but the Fisk Rubber Company of Chicopee Falls, Mass., has an ideal which makes it a pretty serious part of its business. "To be the best concern in the world to work for and the surest concern in existence to do business with," is the slogan by which this company makes strenuous effort to govern its dealings.

Through all of its advertising in every corner of its manufacturing plant, by means of its large branch system throughout the country and in many other places and ways, the ideal is "hooked up" with the name of Fisk.

Thus, every man and woman connected with this concern is constantly reminded to do his or her part, and it is the assertion of the company that from the officials down to their humblest employee they are doing it.

In its efforts to carry out all parts of its ideal the company has instituted among its other departments, a recreation department in charge of a director and a corps of assistants whose duties are directed toward furnishing amusements and recreation for the employees during their leisure hours. For the company's part, this department has purchased a 45-acre tract of land known as Fisk Park. This has been made into the most complete industrial recreational field in the east. A half mile cinder track, baseball diamond, tennis courts, handball courts, quota courts, a soccer field, a trap shooting range, an open air "movie" house, a dance pavilion, locker and club houses, a restaurant and many other such features may be found there. Even a complete playground equipment is installed where the children of the employees may go for their recreation.

Bolele having things handsome a department counts among its duties the issuance of a weekly newspaper, the operation of a baseball team, and as one of the best industrial clubs in New England, the management of a string band, a dancing, minstrel shows, banquets, and, in fact, anything in every way possible for every minute of the employee's spare time. It is one of the company's deepest convictions and is considered one of the most vital investments in the company's efforts in living up to its ideal.

CONSOLIDATION OF SCHOOLS IS URGED

President of National Education Association Makes Fine Address.

RURAL PROBLEM GREAT

Better Schools in the Country Districts Must be Furnished if the Production of the Country is to be Speeded up.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 5.—Adequate salaries for teachers are being obtained, Josephine Carliss Preston, of Olympia, Wash., President of the National Education Association, declared in an address here tonight.

Importance of education was brought to the attention of the public by the war, Mrs. Preston declared. The National Education Association she added, has truly become a factor in the civic and educational life of the nation.

"The Nation for our Field," was Mrs. Preston's subject. She urged improvements of conditions surrounding rural school teachers and asked the members of the association to participate actively in civic affairs.

"Some one has wisely said, 'Every citizen in us politics,' Mrs. Preston asserted. "The constitution of the United States puts him there and his conscience grants him no exemption. The educators of this nation have a two fold responsibility—a responsibility to our children and a civic responsibility to our community state and national life.

"Thrift education is an important movement launched throughout the nation by the government. It has been said of us that we are a spendthrift nation. Statistics show that what we save per capita is much less than the per capita of most of the other countries. The school's part in the national thrift problem is to attack the problem in its broadest sense, and to reorganize that thrift in the saving of four things, time, talent, money and health. A National Education Association thrift commission was appointed this year.

"Rural education problems need the earnest consideration of the whole country. Our food supply comes from the country. How shall we keep our farm men and women from the country raising the nation's food if we fail to keep good schools for them and unless we provide for them good teachers, teachers with initiative, leadership, experience, high ideals, character, broad sympathies and educational qualifications.

"The country schools have too long been the teacher training for the city schools. Three outstanding causes operate to hurt the rural schools. They are: low salaries, poor housing conditions of rural teachers and the loneliness of the rural life.

The housing conditions for teachers in rural communities has been a serious problem. The teachers are not to a national committee there is a teacher shortage. Their rural districts furnish a log-barnage.

"The loneliness of rural life is a condition that is stagnation of soul as well as of mind furnish us with the great need for the consolidation of our rural communities. The consolidation of schools is bringing much to rural life. Rural folk need to be brought across all lines of the neighborhood into personal opinion, religious creed, partisan politics, and income to a common ground of interest and duty.

"The colonists of early American history did not merely try to live with each other. They met to discuss the common problems so that they might get together upon common ground, to disagree agreeably under rules which guaranteed an opportunity to be heard.

"The most important problem with which the National Education Association has to face at this time is the re-organization of this great body. Experience has taught me that, to be the greatest work of the National Education Association as well as it should be done, a delegate plan as an official working body is the ultimate solution. The educators of this country are clearly now as ever before the necessity for their active participation in civic life. We can no longer sit back and leave to others the entire conduct of governmental affairs. We educators cannot rest children for the active duties of citizenship in its fullest sense unless we have this conception in actual life of political life. Such a conception can only be gained through actual contact with life problems and in actual participation of the affairs of the government. Let us be steadfast here in this meeting. Let us continue to build for the welfare of the greatest nation."

New Cable to South America

The new Western Union $5,000,000 trunk cable, which will establish direct telegraphic communication between the United States and the principal ports on the eastern coast of South America, will be opened, barring accidents, early in September, according to V. D. Carlson, local Western Union superintendent.

Electrically and mechanically the cable will be the most up to date ever laid, being the most impervious to injury and having a capacity of 50,000 to 60,000 words a day, or 200 to 250 letters a minute.

This modern cable, which will soon be brought to America from England, where it is now being manufactured, will be laid from Miami, Fla., to the Isle of Barbados in the West Indies. At the same time the Western Telegraph company of London will lay a new cable 1500 miles in length from the Isle of Barbados to Maranhao in Brazil, making connection with the Western Telegraph company's duplicate and triplicate lines, which the English have been operating from Para along the eastern and northern coasts of Brazil, touching at Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Bahia and Pernambuco, and having its terminus in Buenos Aires.

Direct to Buenos Aires. Direct cable communication will be established from New York City to Buenos Aires, a distance of 7000 miles, thus binding together at Barbados the two great cable systems. Messages will be sent between these ports in fifteen to twenty minutes. The present rate of 85 cents a word will be undoubtedly reduced.

Not only will it be possible to cable direct from New York to Buenos Aires on the eastern coast of South America, but by means of a transcontinental telegraph line across the Andes, communication will be established from the eastern coast with the principal ports on the western coast of South America.

Present Route Circuits. At the present time messages for the eastern coast of South America are sent by either one or the other of two routes: one via the Atlantic cables to London, and from London back to Brazil via the island of St. Vincent; the other route, that of the Central and South American company, runs from New York by way of Colon and the west coast of South America to Valparaiso—thence across the Andes to Buenos Aires and northward over the existing English cable and the South American government land lines.
