Oratory Figures In Convention

(By Associated Press.)

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Julf 12—The nomination oratory which marks the two treat political conventions this year is in sharp contrast to the nominating speeches of early days of the parites. This has been brought out by inquiry at the Chicago Historical Society and the Newherry library here.

In the first great republican co rention. Abraham Lincoln was nom-nated for the first time by Mr. Judd. of Hitnols, in these words: "I desire on behalf of the dele-

of Himois, in these words:

"I desire on behalf of the delegation from Himois to put in nomination as a candidate for President of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, of Himois."

The first national nominating convention of the democratic party was held 28 years cardler in Baltimore, May 21-23, 1832. It was at this gathering that Andrew Jackson was endorsed for his second term. Jackson had been nominated previously in a number of states by the methods which were then passing away and, according to the Newberry, Library, it is doubtful if there was any speech at all placing him in the nomination at the first democratic national convention. The business of this convention was to nominate for the vice-presidency.

The convention adonted a resolution concurring in Jackson's "repeated nominations." The resolution was drawn in 60 words.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Aviators wishing to fly over Southern California may secure information regarding air currents at least six months in advance to guide them in determining at what attitude they should fly. This is the statement of Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, formerly of the United States weather bureau, now manager of the department of meteorology and aeronautics of the Los

United States weather bureau, now manager of the department of meteorology and aeronautics of the Lou Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The department of which Dr. Carpenter is the head furnishes information daily to aviators with regard to general flying conditions. The data thus supplied is based upon Dr. Carpenter's personal observations in this section, covering a period of more than twenty years: United States weather bureau reports and telephonic communications from various California points.

"Should an aviator ask which route to take in flying north," Dr. Carpenter said when explaining his system, "we would telephone to certain points in the mountain passes of the Tehachepi range. The wind might be sweeping north through one pass and south through another. Of course we should advise the aviator to follow the pass where the wind was to the north.

"A few months ago a United States army officer asked if it would be safe for his airplane to take off for San Francisco at 9 o'clock on a stormy moraing. After consulting the weather bureau we felt safe in advising him that if he started at that time he would strike fair weather in an hour, which proved to be the case.

be the case.

"Air currents come so near to being without deviation in Southern California that we can make a state California that we can make a statement regarding conditions likely to prevail at any time of the year at any point. This was demonstrated recently when a trip was made in a free balloon from the campus of the University of California, southern branch, to Highland Park in the northern section of Los Angeles. The landlords are adopting diver-se methods to circumvent the new laws. Mr. Mayer said, and have been successful to a certain extent.

The three chief dodges employed by the landlords as outlined by coun-set Mayer are to:

Notify tenents that their leases will not be renewed unless they are willing to pay exorbitant rentals. If they refuse to meet this increase the tenants are then ousted by due proc-
