RIZAL, FILIPINO MARTYR, WROTE REMARKABLE POEM

By FORMER CONGRESSMAN CLYDE H. TAVENNER.

DR. JOSE RIZAL,
The Filipino Patriot.

Every year June 19 is celebrated by Filipinos as the anniversary of the birthday of the Filipino martyr, Dr. Jose Rizal, regarded as the greatest man the Malay race has produced.

Rizal, who spoke seven languages and was a cultured and much traveled man (on one occasion he traveled across the United States), earned the enmity of Spanish governors in the Philippines by protesting against the oppression of the Filipino people. As a boy he had witnessed scenes that sent shafts of grief into his poet soul, and he early dedicated his life to the liberation of his "land adored." At the risk of his life, and at the sacrifice of his career, friends and loved ones, he became the spokesman for the stifled grievances of the voiceless multitude, and thus became "the living indictment of Spain's wretched colonial system."

Rizal could have saved his life, as he had been warned by friends not to return to the islands. He could not be dissuaded, but before returning to Manila left a letter with a friend in Hongkong to be opened after his death, in which he wrote: "Gladly do I go to expose myself to peril, not as any explanation of myself (for in this matter I believe myself guiltless of any), but to complete my work and myself offer the example of which I have always preached. A man ought to die for duty and his principles. I hold fast to every idea which I have advanced as to the condition and future of our country, and shall willingly die for it. I hold duties of conscience above all else. Besides I wish to show those who deny us patriotism that we know how to die for duty and principles."

While Rizal was in Europe working for Philippine reforms, the Spanish governor-general, to indirectly punish Rizal, carried on a relentless persecution of his parents and relatives in the Philippines, driving them into exile. To his parents Rizal left a second letter, saying: "Should fate go against me, you will understand that I shall die happy in the thought that my death will end all your troubles. Return to our country and may you be happy in it. Till the last moment of my life I shall be thinking of you and wishing you all good fortune and happiness."

Spain had meanwhile determined on having Rizal's life, foolishly thinking that if his voice was stifled agitation for the reforms he championed would end. Rizal was arrested on a trumped up charge of treason and condemned to death. But no sooner had the firing squad completed its work than the teachings of Rizal almost instantaneously became the passionate inspiration of the whole Filipino race. His unjust execution had simply transferred the intense patriotism of Rizal to the breasts of an entire nation of people. The Philippine nationalism of today dates from the sunshiny morning of December 30, 1896, when Rizal was led forth from his prison to willingly give, as he himself said, his life for his country's redemption.

While touring in the Philippines recently the conviction was ever present in my mind, and I could not throw it off, that the real inspiration as well as the leadership of the Filipino people in their present desire for independence is the spirit of Jose Rizal. The memory of Rizal and the desire for independence seem to be synonymous in the mind of the average Filipino.

Rizal is the inspiration of all classes, of old and young; of all the people; he is not dead, for his spirit is everywhere in that beautiful land. His picture adorns the homes of the poorest families; streets, avenues and cities are named in his honor, while his statue stands in the parks and public squares. In life Rizal was a beautiful character, kind and considerate of all, gladly giving his life for his country, and in memory he has become the national idol. With such a spirit as its national inspiration the Philippines can not help but reach heights now not dreamed of.

While awaiting death in his cell during his last night on earth Rizal wrote a remarkable poem, "My Last Farewell." He secreted the manuscript in an alcohol cooking lamp, where it was found after his execution. It follows:

MY LAST FAREWELL.

By DR. JOSE RIZAL.

Farewell, dear fatherland, adieu to the sun
And heavenward in purity hear my tardy Gladly now I go to give thee this faded
Let some kind soul o'er my untimely fate
And in the still evening a prayer be lifted From thee, O my country, that in God I may rest.

On the field of battle, 'midst the frenzy of Others have given their lives without doubt or heed;
The place matters not—express or laured
or ily white,
Scaffold or open plain, combat or martyr-
don's plight,
'Tis ever the same, to serve our home and country's need.

I die just when I see the dawn break Through the gloom of night, to herald the day.
And if color is lacking my blood thou shalt take,
Poured out at need for thy dear sake,
To dye with its crimson thy waving rye.

My dreams, when life first opened to me,
My dreams, when the hopes of youth best high,
Were to see thy loved face, O gem of the Orient sea,
From gloom and grief, from care and
sorrow free,
No blush on thy brow, no tear in thine eye.

Dream of my life, my living and burning desire,
All hail, cries the soul that is new to take flight,
All hail! And sweet it is for thee to expire!
To die for thy sake that thou mayst
aspire,
And sleep in thy bosom eternity's long night.

If over my grave some day thou seest grew
In the grassy sod a humble flower,
Draw it to thy lips and kiss my soul so,
While I may feel on my brow in the cold
tomb below,
The touch of thy tenderness, thy breath's
warm flower.

Let the moon beam over me soft and serene,
Let the dawn shed over me its radiant beams,
Let the wind with sad lament over me
sigh,
And if on my cross a bird should be seen, Let it thrill there its hymn of peace to my ashes.
