Business Men Use Airplanes

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 16.—About 100 business men scattered throughout the United States more or less regularly fly between their homes and their city offices, according to an estimate of the Manufacturers Aircraft Association. The number of frequent aerial "taxi-drivers" who carry passengers on short but remunerative flights is placed at some 100.
"There is a steadily increasing demand for aircraft of the commercial type," says a report made to the association, "but contrary to some published reports, the demand does not equal the supply. Factories now in operation in the United States could construct ten times the number of aircraft which optimists estimate would be required this year.
A trip throughout the country by a representative of the Association revealed some interesting uses to which aircraft are being put. "In Seattle during the tourist season," the investigators report, "a passenger airplane makes daily runs over and around Mount Rainier, flying at 20,000 feet, some 5,000 feet above the mountain.
At the Santa Barbara seaside resort, a flying boat is in daily operation over the channel, two of its most interesting passengers during the early part of this year being the King and Queen of Belgium. Regular flights are being conducted over Southern California with a baby blimp.
"There is considerable agitation for the extension of the aerial forest patrol in California, which has been instrumental in protecting life and property from fire loss. The California Rice Grower's Association, which last year patterned a service after that of the forest patrol has enlarged this service to guard double that acreage.
"Two flying boats are being used for transporting supplies from Seattle to a mining company in British Columbia."

Famous Comedian Antlers Wednesday

Clarence Hill, manager of the Antlers theater, has secured Chester Conklin, the well known moving picture comedian. He and his company will appear at the theater on Wednesday eve, for one night only.
This famous comedian is touring the Pacific coast with his own company of Bathing Beauties, a jazz orchestra and Art Penney, Conklin had been trying for three years to make this trip, but up to the present time this had been impossible. Recently he finished his contract with the Fox Sunshine studio and is making his present tour before signing another.
Conklin is well known to every picture fan in the country as the "little man with the big mustache." His famous "walrus" character has been seen by every movie fan in the country. He is considered by many the greatest comedian of all time in the picture world, and is fast earning the same reputation on the stage. His comical antics of the screen have been transformed to the stage and have lost none of their humor in the transition. In fact, he has more opportunity to display his various talents on the stage than he had on the screen. When you see him in the "Vampire" dance, an original creation of his, you will better understand the foregoing statement.
Art Penney is chief in Chester's support, and he is right there when it comes to support. For a long time prior to his trip to France with a few thousand other young gentlemen of our great and glorious country, in the interest of Uncle Sam, he was a headliner on the Orpheum circuit. His voice is considered one of the best in vaudeville and the songs he uses are the kind that never grow old.

The beauty chorus is composed of girls especially selected by Conklin from his own studio, and they are the pick of the beautiful studio queens of Los Angeles. The songs and dances they offer were arranged especially for them.
The jazz band is a big feature in itself. They are all members of Conklin's studio family, and from the way they wield those instruments you would think they had invented jazz.
After each performance Conklin will hold a reception and he requests from each of you the pleasure of shaking you by the hand.

Loss Distinctly Felt By Community

With the passing of Albert Karcher, the family has not only lost a devoted husband and father, but the South Deer Creek Grange has suffered from the loss of one of its most public spirited and whole-souled men of its community.
Endowed with a deeply religious and artistic temperament, he found expression in music, and was never so happy as when at the piano. Nearly all the young and middle aged people of the valley have, at one time or another, obtained instruction and encouragement along musical lines from Mr. Karcher. He was always faithful to church and Sunday school to play the organ, and to lead in the singing. He often had large classes taking in all the young people of the valley to instruct in chorus singing. This community singing was much enjoyed and appreciated. With infinite patience he trained the young men of the community until they were a creditable orchestra, not only giving them the necessary musical education, but at the same time inculcating in them the ability of working together for mutual welfare.
Mr. Karcher was a charter member of the South Deer Creek Grange, and served for several years as its lecturer. Being a man of wide reading and well educated in his youth, and while serving as lecturer, he delighted in urging forward the young men and women of the Grange, until now they are well versed in parliamentary law and are able to hold their own in debate. He was also a member of the Oregon State Grange having served as chairman of its co-operative committee at a recent session.
Not only was he a successful farmer, he was also an accomplished musician. He was leader and director of the South Deer Creek orchestra for many years. He was a friend to everybody in the valley, always willing and eager to do a favor. For years he served as school clerk, and secretary for the local telephone line in the valley with practically no compensation. His books and accounts are models of neatness and accuracy.
We shall all miss him, not only in the grange, but in the community life of the valley. For with his death has passed beyond, one of nature's noblemen. X X

DEMOCRATIC CONTROL FOR STATE CHAMBER

Subscribers to Budget Will Have Voice In Matter of Expenditures.

"After I have subscribed to the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, what part will I have in the organization?" This question is frequently heard in connection with the State Chamber expansion movement now in progress.
The answer is that all subscribers will have a voice in saying how the money will be spent. By this and other methods the fundamental democracy of the organization is assured. Of course the Board of Directors, to which every member is eligible, will actually expend the funds of the organization; but they will be guided in their expenditures by the wishes of the subscribers.
To determine what the subscribers want the State Chamber to do, group meetings will be held in every center of population in the state, when all subscribers will be called together and asked to answer, in writing, the following questions:
1. What can the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce do to improve conditions of opportunities in your own line of business or profession?
2. What do you believe the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce should do to advance the interests of your own community?
3. What in your opinion as a citizen, is the thing of first importance for the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce to do for the good of the state as a whole?
After these group meetings have been held under the direction of the executive committee in charge of the campaign, each district will select one representative to attend a convention with the officers and directors of the State Chamber, and the answers to the questions will be formulated into a program of activities designed to unite the entire state on definite tasks.
The program of work will also control expenditures. When work is started on this program the directors will follow their present practice of submitting questions of wide importance by means of referendum.
The Directors represent every city and county in the state. Representation on the Board is arranged geographically and not based on population. Eastern Oregon is represented by five Directors, Western Oregon by five, Multnomah County by two, and there are three at large, making a total of fifteen, which avoids the possibility of control by any one section.
To sum up: The State Chamber will do what the subscribers themselves say should be done. It will function through a Board of Directors elected by delegates and officers, including an executive secretary elected by the Board. Voting will be done by constituent members. Individual subscribers help make up the program of activities and carry them to completion through committee service.
