Many of your electrical troubles can be prevented by carefully watching your equipment.

If your ammeter shows a decrease and fluctuation in charging current and is allowed to continue, it will eventually burn out your generator. If your lights flicker and your motor misses, it is due to loose contacts, grounds or short circuits.

If starting motor shows loss of power, turns motor over a few revolutions and stops, the contacts are loose, starting switch is burned, metor brushes worn out, or the internal mechanism of your starter is filled with all and dust.
