Potatoes Are A Luxury in Manila

MANILA, July 20. — Potatoes have become a luxury in Manila. For a month past the supply has been dwindling until a week ago when it was virtually exhausted. Prices have gone to ten cents per pound for the few remaining in the city. Guests at hotels and boarding houses have been served rice as a substitute. A ship load of potatoes is due and it is expected that the shortage will soon be relieved and the price drop back to about five cents a pound.

Those chrysanthemums are here at last, the first to be had in Roseburg. There are only a few in this shipment, so get them while they last. The Fern, 403 Cass St.

Do your eyes need help to enable you to do your work easier? Now is a good time after your vacation, and before you start to work, to have them examined and glasses fitted if they need them.

We are at your service with the latest methods, and our prices are reasonable.

Crude Oil Defaces Fair Bather

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Crude oil refuse, said to have been dumped by a refinery, coated the surf of the Pacific ocean from Redondo Beach to Playa del Rey recently and clung tenaciously to numerous dainty bathing costumes.

Owners of the soiled apparel remove the tarry accumulation with kerosene.

"Either way, the refinery wins," remarked one fair bather.

Ignorance is not always bliss. A Motometer warns you before it is too late. We will install one for you. H. Merten.

Legion Men Bury Their Buddy

SCOTTS BLUFF, Neb., Aug. 31.—Wright-Iron post of the American Legion so far as known, is the only one of the 5,500 units of the Legion to bury the body of the war hero from which the post took its name. The remains of Sgt. Charles R. Wright, who died in France October 11, 1918, now lies in the cemetery of the town from which he went to make the supreme sacrifice. Members of the local Legion post and many former service men marched in uniform in the funeral procession.

PREPARING TO START WORK.

The permit granting the Automatic Electric Brake Company the right to sell stock was received today. George Marsh, one of the inventors of the brake, and J. C. Hershey, of Portland, representing the Automatic Manufacturing Co., arrived last night and will assist in perfecting arrangements for the sale of the stock. It is the plan of the company to immediately enlarge their manufacturing plant to enable them to put out brakes in large quantities.

ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF MRS. C. P. BARNARD

Mrs. J. D. Osborn entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. C. P. Barnard, a former resident of this city who is visiting here from Eugene. The affair was in the nature of a thimble party, and a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess. The guest list included Mrs. Mose Rice, Mrs. I. B. Riddle, Mrs. C. W. Parks, Mrs. Grant Wilcox, Mrs. Albert Abraham, and the guest of honor, Mrs. C. P. Barnard.

The Red Spot, a searchlight you will not regret, H. Merten.

A son was born on September 1st to Mr. and Mrs. Austin Graham, of Newaway, Oregon.

Abner Rice, the melon grower of Dillard, was in Roseburg today for a short time.

Do you lose power on the hills? Let us show you the difference with a cutout. H. Merten.

Biblical Trees Cause Comment

GRIDLEY, Cal., Aug. 31.—Two carob trees, on the ranch of J. A. Yoacum, Jr., near here, are the same as those spoken of in the Bible as the "breadfruit tree," according to a report received by Yoacum from the United States Department of Agriculture. The department's report, sent in answer to a query from Yoacum, said that although there were several carob trees in this country, none were of the same variety as those found on the Yoacum ranch. The fruit of the tree, it said, was really a "bean."

Those chrysanthemums are here at last, the first to be had in Roseburg. There are only a few in this shipment, so get them while they last. The Fern, 403 Cass St.
