Rangers in City—

Forest Rangers Grant McLaughlin and O. C. Houser came to the city today to testify before the grand jury in the case of Jim Cody, who is charged with the theft of ranger McLaughlin's horse near Black Rock. Ranger Houser started in search of the stolen horse as soon as it was missed and found Cody with the animal near the southern borders of the state.

Accepts Position With News-Review

Dick LeRoy, of California, arrived in Roseburg yesterday to accept a position in the exclusive job printing department of the News-Review. The demand for quality service in the way of commercial printing has so taxed our already efficient forces that it becomes necessary to add another printer to this department in order to cope with the constantly increasing patronage given this part of the business.

Has Fine Prunes—

Lou Hanks of Canyonville has sent the News-Review office a box of fine prunes and they are on display in the windows. The fruit was taken from Hanks five acre tract of six year old trees and are not "picked" from any special trees but were taken from ten different trees all on bench land. Hanks states that he Picked 18 bushels from these trees and he expects to get at least 100 bushels this year.
