MASS MEETING TO BE HELD OCTOBER 14

Flying Squadron of Speakers To Talk on Measures Before People.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

Favor Market Commission Bill But Will Not the 5 Per cent Interest Bill—Notables Will be Present At the Meeting.

The "S. O. S. (Save Our State) squad" is the designation which has been applied to the flying squadron of speakers who are covering the state under the auspices of the State Taxpayer's League, speaking in favor of the Market Commission bill.

The Market Commission bill is designed to give the farmers of the state aid in establishing co-operative marketing organizations.

The bill is patterned after the California Market Commission bill, which has done more for the prosperity of that state than any other piece of legislation.

It is agreed that the passage of the 5 percent interest rate bill will mean utter ruin to the state of Oregon.

The divided session amendment, is intended by its framers to do away with the jamming of bills thru the legislature during the closing hours of the session.

It is intended by the voters that they may know what is being written up on the statute books before they become laws.

Among the speakers who will be here at the meeting on October 14, are Judge George W. Stapleton, of Portland, Judge John S. Coke, of Marshfield, W. F. Woodward, of Portland, Otto Hartwig, president of the State Federation of Labor, C. E. Spence, Master of the State Grange, Col. Harria Weinstein, former market director of California, Frank J. Lonergan, of Portland, Oswald West of Portland, Hector McPherson of the Oregon Agricultural College.

Poultry Exchange To Be Formed

A Message from J. Dallas Dort President Dort Motor Car Company.

On October 11 there will be a poultry meeting in Roseburg for the formation of a poultrymen's exchange. The object in forming this exchange is primarily to arrange for procuring of feed and supplies.

It has recently been brought to the attention of the poultrymen that they are not obtaining feed at a uniform price or what should be a near uniform price in different sections of the county.

Certain feeds used by poultrymen, as for instance, corn, wheat, oats and any other small grain, which could profitably be secured in the county is now obtained elsewhere.

Last year Douglas county shipped out about 15 cars of wheat. It has been estimated that more than this amount of grain is imported back into the county each year for feed purposes for poultry alone.

This practice not only takes up needed car space, but is very expensive to poultrymen. If any suggestions can be offered as to how the poultrymen can arrange through a local dealer's office or through the proposed exchange to handle this matter they should be presented Monday afternoon.

There are other matters of vital importance to the poultrymen which will be discussed at the same time.

Apple Pickers Are Needed In Orchards

The apple picking season has now begun and in spite of the rain days of apples are being gathered daily. Auto trucks loaded down with fruit brought in the first consignment of the crop today and there will be general activity for the remainder of the season.

The rain is slowing up the work considerably but is causing no damage. It is disagreeable weather in which to work in the orchards but picking is going steadily forward in spite of this fact.

The apple crop will be large this year, although not up to the record set last season.

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

We want fresh fruit of all kinds. Will pay top market prices. But the fruit must be clean and first-class in all respects or we do not want any of it; we use only the best grades.

FOUTCH'S CONFECTIONERY.

Mrs. R. S. Bishop, accompanied by her two children left this morning for Portland where she will visit her uncle, J. H. Irvine. Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Bishop will locate at Yamhill in the future and are arranging to ship their household goods in the near future.

The Motor Car Price Situation

A Message from J. Dallas Dort President Dort Motor Car Company.

The price of the Dort car is reasonable and fair; the total net advance in list within a period of 2 years having been but 17 percent against advances ranging from 19 percent to 45 percent in the list of other leading makes.

Therefore there will be no price reduction by this company. "There has been as yet, no break in material or labor cost that would warrant any price reduction in the Dort Car."

"On the contrary materials have been purchased by us, and by all motor car manufacturers for 1921 production, at a very considerable advance as a whole over 1920 material costs."

"Therefore unless these purchase contracts are treated by the purchaser as scraps of paper or the seller voluntarily revises contract prices downward, there can be no justification for any motor car manufacturer to reduce prices unless he has been profiteering, which means that he has been receiving excessive profits."

"If there be such manufacturers, this is the most opportune time for them to properly adjust prices to the sound values of their products."

The present prices of current Dort Models are guaranteed against reduction.

HER DAUGHTER AND HIS SON.

BY IDA H. MCGLONE GIBSON

Ann Leaves School.

I heard the sound of the blow and a feeling of horror swept over me as I saw Grace's cheek turn a brilliant red from under my hand, and then I realized that I had so far forgotten myself as to strike her.

"Miss Whitson?" The words came in horrified accents from the doorway, and I turned and found Miss Huntington, the teacher I liked best in all the school. "What is this, Miss Whitson? Can I believe my eyes? I did not know that any young lady in this school would so far forget herself."

Grace as soon as she knew that the teacher was in the room, sank to the floor with a moan, and as Miss Huntington came forward to pick her up, she pretended to faint. Miss Huntington shook her nose too gently, and then I realized that she had probably heard the provocation, as well as the resounding slap. By this time, however, Grace was in a perfect torrent of tears, hysterically claiming that she was badly hurt and that I must be mad to do such a thing to one who had been so kind to me.

"I will not stay at this school another moment," said Grace. "My mother certainly would not let me stay if she knew what that terrible young woman has done to me. She did not want me to stay here when she knew that Ann was here."

"You don't have to go," I said. "I do not intend to stay in school any longer."

"But young ladies, you must let me settle this, said Miss Huntington. "It was settled long ago, Miss Huntington," I said. "And I am sure that after what has happened you will be only too glad to get rid of me."

"Go to your room, now, child. I will come up later and talk it over with you," said Miss Huntington.

"Miss Cameron, I will take you to your room, and I hope you will not make a scene on the way through the hall. You can sit here for a moment until you get over this hysteria."

I closed the door, and then going to my room, I commenced packing my clothes, for I knew that after what had happened, it would be impossible for me to stay in the same school with Grace Cameron.

I had no remorse. "I'm glad I did it," I said to myself. "She deserved it. She had no business to say to me the things she did, I'm glad I did it and would do it again. She doesn't care for Kenneth Halsey, and she's going to make his life perfectly miserable. She doesn't care for him at all, and she would break with him tomorrow if his father should lose his money. I wish I had slapped her again," I said viciously.

I did not know that I had been talking out loud, until I heard the soft voice of Miss Huntington saying, "Oh, no my dear child. You do not wish anything of the sort."

"Yes I do. She deserved it. All of these long months, she has been here she has tortured me in every way possible. She has circulated stories about my mother among the girls and has broken up the friendship between Kenneth Halsey and myself."

"Do you know Kenneth Halsey," she asked in a surprised voice.

"I've known him quite as long as Grace. We three grew up together. And, Oh, Miss Huntington, you must have seen how the girls of this school have avoided me. I know you have seen it, because you have been particularly nice to me and it's all her fault." And before I knew it, I was pouring out the story of my mother's sad life and my unfortunate birth.

Miss Huntington took me in her arms before I had finished. "I've seen it all, my dear. I know you have had quite a provocation. But, Ann, you should not have done it."

"It's the best thing that ever has happened to Grace."

"But think of the cost to yourself my dear."

"Yes, it came high, but still I am glad I did it, and now I have got to go home to my mother and tell her how I've been."

"That reminds me, I have a letter for you. It came just after I sent you to the village, Ann."

I took the envelope from her hand. Tomorrow—News From Home.
